HOOVER SEES WORLD TURNING TO CONFIDENCE

Good Will Theme of Talk in Capital.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—As the President of our nation, during this Armistice day beneath the marble memorial to the capital's dead war heroes, both dead and living, he ordered the dead that the living could fight on to bring peace to a distraught world.

It is appalling, for the country, this war across, a Greek temple whose two columns are fashioned of Vermont marble, President Hoover sought to give the woes of war into a prophecy of peace.

"Peace," he said, "is the product of preparations for defense"—Secretary of War Hurley and Secretary of the Navy Adams nodded energetically—"the patient settlement of controversies"—Gold Star Mother Mrs. Sturgis G. Bidwell smiled sadly down at the wreath in her hand—"and the dynamic development of the forces of good will"—and the people clapped again.

Finds for Confidence.

"In every country man can secure some attention and even a living by stirring malignant forces of fear and hate in their neighbors. As a result of these forces the world is more overarmed than even before the great war.

"All of these dangers present to statesmen in world where peace cannot be had by resolution and injunction alone. The backwash of forces loosened by the great war has grown until in the past two years the stability of many nations has been greatly shaken."

From this emergency, however, has come to us alleviating realization that the big international problem of today is to establish confidence, not only within the several nations, but between the several nations, Mr. Hoover pointed out.

"And no greater contribution can be made to economic relief," he maintained, "than day to day conclusive demonstration that progress is being made in relieving stress and strain which now so oppress the atmosphere of the family of nations."

Hint Rebuild Good Will.

The prescription, as President Hoover gives it, is simple.

"It requires no treaties, no documents, and no commitments. It requires only that each nation realize the situation that exists; that it consult in its own policies and within its own best interests to the building up of good will and the rebuilding of confidence.

"That progress is being made. It has been made by frank, sincere and direct personal conferences on mutual problems between heads of states throughout the world. It has been made by similar action among the financial, industrial and social institutions of the world. These consistent efforts are providing new avenues of relief and are assuredly turning the tide for a greatly suffering world."

When President Hoover had urged the nation to consummate a peace which should be a delicate balance of "the finest born of human experience" and "the noblest born of the highest human aspirations for international justice," Mrs. Bidwell stepped forward and placed her wreath on the curving base of the shrine.

Bugle Bursts Through Clouds.

The marine band played "The Star Spangled Banner"; the sun, which had been behind a cloud, burst forth in benediction of gold; through the open carved majesty of the near-by Lincoln memorial showed clear sky and pale.

And the capital's central Armistice ceremony was over. It was a dramatic one and one of its most dramatic moments was when John Philip Sousa, the seventy-seven year old band leader, stood up with his beloved marine band and waived the baton as he led his "Stars and Stripes Forever." He was dressed in the uniform of lieutenant commander of the navy, a rank which he won following his leadership of the naval band at Great Lakes during the world war.

All through the day there was a silent procession to the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery. President and Mrs. Hoover went there to pay their respects; and so did thousands of the humble. Organizations sent wreaths; Boy Scouts and Gold Star mothers shed their tears; school children scattered flowers; and from overtight clasping of tiny hands.

President Hoover's wreath was a

Son Suspended at N.U.; Father Raps Colleges

James J. Harrington of Glencoe, a real estate broker with offices at 38 South Dearborn street, voiced the reflections yesterday of an angry and somewhat bewildered father on modern college students and colleges.

His son, James Jr., was one of five Northwestern university students disciplined for attempting to stage a hobo day celebration Friday on the Evanston campus against faculty orders. The five youths were suspended for the remainder of the present semester, and not expelled, as was first reported.

Must Pay His Board.

"If Jack is out of school, as he seems to be, he will have to go to work," said the father. "He can stay at home if he wants to, but he'll have to pay board. I'm through supporting him.

"Jack went to St. John's Military academy and had a good record there. He was a fine boy, courteous to his parents and friendly with his brothers and sister when he started attending Northwestern three years ago.

"If he is a hobo now the university has made him one."

Orders $3,000 Car Sold.

Mr. Harrington told of buying his son a $3,000 automobile. He ordered it sold yesterday, he said.

"This modern university system is all wrong," the father added. "It makes its students selfish and ungrateful. My father hadn't as much money as I have, but he sent me to the old Cambridge academy on the south side for a time. Every day we were told in our classes there that we should be grateful for the education provided by our parents, and should work to make the most of it.

No Time for Home.

"But when Jack started to college he stopped coming home. We would see him for a hurried dinner Sunday, or when he wanted a check. He had no time to be friendly any more with the younger children.

"I agree with the university that he should be punished for what he did. But it seems to me that with all their learning they could have devised some punishment which would not have interfered with his career. Why couldn't they bar him from student activities and dances, from football games and his fraternity house, and perhaps make him take a couple more courses?"

Young Harrington was president of the Phi Mu Delta fraternity; vice president of the Delta Sigma Pi and Lambda Alpha fraternities, and a director of the interfraternity council.

VAULT HOLDING $150,000 ROBBED; LOOT UNCERTAIN

Police of the first district led by Sergt. Stephen Leddy were last night attempting to learn the amount of loot obtained by burglars who broke into a vault in the law offices of Stevens, Carrier and Griffith, 111 West Washington street. The vault was known to have contained $150,000 in negotiable securities.

The robbery, which became known last night, apparently occurred on Monday night. The police were called on Tuesday morning and obtained fingerprints from the vault door. Cash amounting to $100 and two diamond rings were known to have been stolen.

According to Lee W. Carrier, a member of the firm, $150,000 in securities was in the care of Andrew L. Winter, a member of the firm, who could not be reached last night. Frank M. Whiston, the building manager, declared he did not know the amount of the loss. Mr. Carrier said at his residence in Homewood that the exact amount of the loss could not be determined until noon today.

LADY HEATH AND NEW YORK MAN MAY WED TODAY

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrix, and R. Williams of New York are reported making plans to be married here tomorrow. According to the report, the ceremony will be performed by Gov. Flem D. Sampson, who is expected here tomorrow.

Lady Heath, when asked concerning the rumor, replied "I don't know." Referring to the report the governor would officiate she said, "But the governor isn't even here." Questioned again, she asked, "Why don't you ask Mr. Williams?" Mr. Williams could not be reached tonight.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The prices of beer and whisky have dropped to near the 1918 level in speakeasies here. Business conditions have forced beer down to 15 cents a stein and whisky to 35 cents a drink, a cut from 25 and 50 cents. The drop came suddenly within the last week.

Bald Heads Fill Clinic to Test Hair Growing

In quest of hair on bald pates, more than 150 bald or partly bald men and women and even a few children appeared at a newly established clinic yesterday at the University of Illinois Research and Educational hospital, 1807 West Polk street.

It was the second weekly clinic conducted in an experiment undertaken by the hospital to ascertain if injections of extract from the pituitary gland will cause hair to grow on bald heads.

Dr. R. Noman Bengtson, who conducts the clinic, declined to state the number of subjects accepted. He said, however, that he had obtained as many rare cases as he could handle.

Tests to Last Three Months.

The experiment will last about three months, and if successful the gland extract, now made by a laboratory for Dr. Bengtson alone, will be put on the market so that all instructed physicians may use it.

As the applicants for free clinical treatment yesterday swarmed into the clinic room, standing on the benches, overflowing into the corridors, Dr. Bengston waved his arms and said:

"I can't see you all. And don't come to my office, either, as I'm having to work until midnight now on all these hair cases. Wait six months or so, and then go to your own doctor and he can get the serum and learn to apply it."

Only Few Accepted, Report.

A girl in her teens, thin and pale, was examined. Taking off her wig she showed an entirely bald head. She was accepted. A girl 21 years old, who had a bald patch on the back of her head, said she could pay for treatment, and so she was barred. Of the 150 applicants, only a half dozen or so were accepted yesterday.

Stephen Grillo, unemployed factory worker, of 835 South Winchester avenue, 22 years old, who has been bald since he was 16 years old, was among those who had been accepted the previous week.

Louis Itzkowitz, 1532 Talman avenue, a clothing factory worker, 26 years old, removed his hat to show that he wasn't entirely bald. But he was accepted by the clinic last week.

"What if you were bald for 20 years, 'like me?'" Isadore Rosen, 1551 South Spaulding street, said. "And I'm only 42. I've already spent $500 to try to get my hair back."

"I'm only 39, and I lost all my hair 20 years ago, in four weeks' time after I wore a tight silk cap one day as I rode a motorcycle in the broiling sun," said A. M. Copp, carpenter, 5626 Wayne avenue. "And a beautiful head of hair I once had, too."

TOKIO CHARGES CHINA MASSES TO FORCE WAR

Insists She Must Act to Protect Self.

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 12 (Thursday).—(AP)—United States troops patrolled the vicinity of the American barracks and the former German concession here throughout a night battle during which there was sharp firing in the west concession. Japanese sources said the firing was especially heavy in the direction of the Nankai Girls' school.

TOKIO, Nov. 12 [Thursday].—The Japanese government announced today that it is gravely concerned over the situation in the Nonni river district of Manchuria. The situation is growing more disquieting every minute, a foreign office spokesman declared. He said war office reports indicated Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese commander in Manchuria, was preparing to attack the Japanese forces and that if this attack materialized, Japan would be compelled to occupy Anganchi and Tsitsihar. These cities are in the Russian zone of influence.

"More than 20,000 Chinese troops are concentrated south of Anganchi," the spokesman said. "The war office expects an attack on the Japanese troops at any moment. The Japanese are thus placed in a very difficult situation and we possibly will have to send reinforcements.

Says General Attack Impends.

"The Chinese concentrated at Chinchow show every sign of starting action against the Japanese at Mukden. Messages intercepted show that Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Manchurian governor, has ordered his troops to take action against the Japanese in both north and south Manchuria."

(Reports from Geneva last night said the Chinese government, in an urgent cable to the league of nations, said the Japanese troops in the Nonni river district had begun marching on Tsitsihar. The Japanese, the cable said, were already 13 miles on the road to Tsitsihar and the Chinese were retreating under Japanese bomb attacks and shellfire.)

Tokio last night filed a protest with Nanking against the three days of rioting at Tientsin. The protest was based on the Boxer protocol of 1902. As an urgent measure to cope with the situation at Tientsin, which, reports here say, threatens to become worse, the navy at 10 a. m. today sent the coast defender cruiser Yakumo to an unannounced destination.

Tsuneo Matsudaira and S. Yoshida, Japanese ambassadors at London and Rome, respectively, have left for Paris to help Kenkirshi Yoshizawa present Japan's case to the league of nation's council Monday.

Report Japanese on March.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—[Thursday].—(AP) — Japanese troops were reported advancing north of Tsitsihar, "possibly with the intention of preventing soviet interference" in the trouble between China and Japan. Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, Chinese commander in Manchuria, is quoted as saying in a Daily Mail dispatch from Harbin.

Hunt Murder Clews Near Crystal Lake

The mutilated body of a young woman, dead perhaps four or six weeks, was found buried in quicklime in a shallow grave two miles west of Crystal lake, in McHenry county, late yesterday. Chicago authorities were working this morning on a theory that the victim may be a nurse who vanished after accusing a doctor of abortion.

Little remained except the skeleton, largely as a result of the action of the corrosive. The mutilation of the body was, however, evident. The lower jaw and both feet were missing. The upper teeth had been removed and part of the skull was gone.

The absence of the lower jaw and upper teeth suggested to police an effort to remove possible identifying dental work. The dismemberment, investigators said, appeared to indicate surgical expertness.

Scan List of Missing Women.

Except for some feminine wearing apparel and a few strands of black hair there was little to aid the authorities in establishing identification, but the police of Chicago and McHenry county immediately began a canvass for missing women.

Among those who joined in the inquiry was J. E. Edwards, chief inspector in Chicago for the state department of registration and education. He went to Woodstock, the county seat, to view the body. According to Mr. Edwards, he is seeking Miss Jeanette Forbes, 23 years old, formerly of Kankakee, who disappeared about six weeks ago after giving him valuable information against a doctor.

Sees Similarity in Clothing.

Mr. Edwards early this morning inspected the faded clothing found in the grave. "The texture and cut seem identical with the texture and cut of Miss Forbes' clothing," he said. The victim's hair also resembled that of Miss Forbes, he said. He asked Sheriff Edinger to have the clothing found in the grave sent to Chicago for further identification.

The grave in which the body was found was in a weedy clump of scrub oak at the side of the Crystal Lake Union road, exactly two miles west of the western limits of Crystal Lake and seven miles southeast of Woodstock. It was discovered by Horace Selzer, 14 years old, and J. H. Anderson, 17 years old, both of Crystal Lake.

Hunters Find Skeleton.

Returning from a hunting excursion, they passed a scrub oak alongside the road which at that point borders the farm of A. B. Brinkerhoff. Under the tree their attention was attracted by a white object. Close inspection disclosed that it was part of a human skull. It lay upon a disturbed mound of earth.

Prodding into the wet ground, the two youths saw part of a skeleton less than two feet below the surface. Without further search the hunters notified Lloyd Berger, a near by farmer. He telephoned Chief John Purvey and Assistant Chief Ehlert of the Crystal Lake police.

Within a short time the policemen were on the scene. They were joined by Sheriff Lester Edinger and Chief Deputy Sheriff Hal Reese of Woodstock. Using pocket flashlights and automobile headlights, they completed the opening of the grave as darkness fell.

Skeleton Wrapped in Oil Cloth.

The object which had first attracted the attention of the young hunters turned out to be part of the missing skull of the roadside victim. In the grave the skeleton was found, wrapped

FORECAST MORE DISCLOSURES IN BAIN QUIZ TODAY

Ohio Trip Mystery Is Focus of Interest.

New disclosures are promised when the Bain bank hearing is resumed today in the courtroom of Judge Michael Feinberg, according to a source of information close to the judge and the receiver for John Bain, Inc. Because of the Armistice celebration no session was held yesterday. Among the developments forecast for today are:

1. The facts are to be revealed about a trip to Massillon, O., taken by an associate of John Bain, president of the banks, some time before the twelve Bain institutions closed. The person who made the trip has been positively identified by two Pullman porters, it is said, and he or she may be pointed out in court today. The alleged purpose of the journey, it is expected, will also be told.

2. "Foreign transactions" of John Bain are to be disclosed, according to the information. These transactions in England and Scotland involve thousands of English pounds in value, it was stated. Their nature was kept closely guarded because the investigation is not complete.

Judge Is Noncommittal.

Judge Feinberg was noncommittal concerning these predictions. He said the Massillon trip investigation would be pursued diligently today and admitted that evidence involving some of Bain's business operations abroad has been uncovered.

Former Senator Charles S. Deneen also may be called as a witness in the inquiry, it was revealed yesterday. On Tuesday Mr. Deneen was shown to have been a partner of Bain in a number of business transactions on the south side.

The evidence was that the political leader had been a partner of Bain in the ownership of property at 63d street and Crawford avenue. Attorney H. W. Lippincott, representing the Bains, stated in court that there were several other such partnerships.

Prosecutor's Quiz Continues.

At the Criminal Courts building, Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers announced that he was delving into withdrawals of cash from the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, one of the closed banks, shortly before the bank failed.

Most of the personal accounts of Bain, his sons, and the bank officials were closed two months before the crash, evidence has revealed.

Prosecutor Ayers also declared that he would investigate thoroughly the alleged connection of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, public enemy, with the West Englewood bank. A number of stories have been told about O'Donnell. One report was that he forced John Bain to give him his $20,000 deposit after the Bain banks closed.

One O'Donnell Account Closed.

Evidence has been uncovered that O'Donnell closed one $10,000 account two months before the banks closed, the prosecutor said. Whether the gangster was notified to take this action will be inquired into by the state's attorney's office.

Prosecutor Ayers has been asking when he may interview Bain, who is now in the German Evangelical Deaconess hospital. He received a letter from Dr. Walter H. Buhlig, in attendance on Bain, which read:

"Mr. Bain is in good shape now, and he is on the way to get ready for the next step in his treatment. This will occur in about two weeks, and then he will require some time more for a complete recovery."

Porters Again to Be in Court.

At the hearing before Judge Feinberg today two Pullman porters whose presence in the courtroom aroused comment on Tuesday will again be in the jury box watching the witnesses, it was said. Their identification has already been made, however, according to reports and their stories will be told.

It is the hope of the investigators that this evidence will disclose what happened to the now famous "brown package," which has figured in the hearing. On last June 24, according to the evidence, Miss Anna Funson, then personal secretary to John Bain, took a number of valuable securities from a safe deposit box in the Foreman bank building, wrapped them in brown wrapping paper and gave the package to Bain.

He put the package under his arm and walked alone out of his office with it. This was 15 days after the banks closed. Judge Feinberg, despite persistent questioning of a dozen witnesses, has been unable to find what became of the package.

Attorneys for the receiver of John Bain, Inc., yesterday opened a steel cabinet in one of Bain's south side offices and uncovered some material evidence, they declared. The work of digesting this evidence will be a matter of days and it may not be presented in court until next week, it was said.

The courtroom today will have a number of extra guards augmenting the double force which has been necessary to keep the crowds of depositors in order thus far. This step was ordered after a man approached one of the attorneys for the receiver on Tuesday and inquired:

"What could they do to me if I were to shoot one of that bunch?"

Judge Orders Extra Guards.

When informed of this incident, Judge Feinberg remarked that the tone of the crowd has been menacing upon several occasions when startling evidence was being uncovered. He expressed a hope that spectators would not be moved to acts of violence and ordered the additional precautions taken.

Another matter scheduled for further investigation is a trip John Bain took to Atlantic City, Boston, and Halifax, Nova Scotia, last spring. The purpose of this trip has not been disclosed.

The hearing thus far has revealed that Bain and his family owe more than $2,300,000 to the banks; that they declare they have no assets; that on June 1, eight days before the banks closed, Miss Eunson listed Bain's net worth as $1,600,490 book value.

SEIZED BY POLICE AS A SWINDLER OF CLERGYMEN

Michael Hendricks, 28 years old, who posed as a former investigator for the state's attorney's office, and who, allegedly, fleeced clergymen and others out of small sums of money, was arrested last evening on complaint of Msgr. William D. O'Brien of St. John's Catholic church, 18th and Clark streets. Hendricks said he lived at the Y. M. C. A. hotel in Wabash avenue.

On Tuesday night Hendricks appealed to Msgr. O'Brien for aid, saying he was temporarily out of funds, and borrowed $6. Last evening he telephoned and said he again needed funds. He offered to give a check. Msgr. O'Brien notified Sergts. Thomas McLaughlin and Peter Hayes of the South State street station, and they arrested Hendricks.

Lieut. William Blaul of the state's attorney's office said Hendricks had duped between 25 and 50 victims, among them Msgr. O'Brien, the Rev. John E. Burke of St. Mary's church, Attorney Theodore Miller, and others. Hendricks, Blaul said, was never employed by the state's attorney's office, but posed as a former investigator. At one time Hendricks worked as a stool pigeon for Detective Joseph Altmeier, gang investigator, who was killed in 1930, he said.

SON OF DE RIVERA AND TWO OTHERS SEIZED IN "PLOT"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 11. — On evidence that is yet to be disclosed, Juan Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator, was arrested today together with Andreas de Las Marias, a priest, and an army officer, Commander Francisco Rosales.

Tonight young De Riveria was released. Angel Galarza, director of public safety, explained that reports that his arrest resulted from a monarchist plot against the republic were "exaggerated." However, the priest and the officer were still in jail tonight on charges of "anti-republican activities."

Lowell Sherman and Wife, Helene Costello, Separated

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Helene Costello, film actress, has separated from Lowell Sherman, actor-director, according to Milton Cohen, her attorney, today. Sherman answered inquiries with the statement he knew nothing of a separation. The actress is staying with friends. She conferred with Attorney Cohen twice this week, but the latter said he was not at liberty to discuss his client's instructions about a divorce. Sherman and Miss Costello, who is a sister of Dolores Costello and sister-in-law of John Barrymore, were married here March 14, 1930.

LINKS HOOVER KIN AND WILEY AS DRY VICTIMS

Reeves Withdraws Plea to President.

Charles L. Wiley, Chicago Legionnaire, and Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, were linked yesterday as fellow victims of prohibition by Col. Ira L. Reeves, district manager of the Crusaders, who decided to withdraw a request for presidential action in Wiley's behalf.

COL. IRA REEVES.

On Monday Col. Reeves introduced a resolution at a meeting of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion. It related the circumstances of the arrest of Wiley in the courtroom of Federal Judge John P. Barnes, where he asked leniency for Boleslaw Lidikewicz, his janitor, who made some home brew for a Legion gathering.

Calls on President to Act.

"The President of the United States is hereby requested," said the resolution, "to instruct the officer who cause the arrest to make an apology and whatever restitution may be deemed fit and proper to C. L. Wiley for this indignity and injustice," and "the President is urgently requested to take whatever steps are necessary to assure the people of the nation that their rights and liberties shall not be encroached by over ardent officers in their enforcement of the Volstead act."

Under the rules the resolution went to a committee. Then came the arrest of President Hoover's brother-in-law. Col. Reeves thereupon wrote the following letter to the Legion post:

"The unfortunate event in Santa Monica, Cal., yesterday, resulting in the arrest of C. Van Ness Leavitt by prohibition agents for the possession of 19 pints of whisky, makes it appear advisable for me to withdraw the resolutions offered at last Monday's meeting in the interest of C. L. Wiley, a fellow Legionnaire.

Might Cause Embarrassment.

"Inasmuch as my resolution invites the intercession of the President in the interests of Legionnaire Wiley, I readily see the embarrassment which the adopting of such resolutions might cause at this time. I note from newspaper accounts that there are several points in common in the two cases.

"Mr. Wiley was arrested while interceding for a friend, and Mr. Leavitt states he was attempting to help a friend at the time of his arrest. There are several other points of similarity. For instance, the element of sales does not seem to be involved in either case.

"While respectfully asking the withdrawal of my resolution at this time, I would like to attempt to assist Mr. Wiley after the Leavitt case has been disposed of by taking advantage of any leniency which may be shown Mr. Leavitt, leniency being something Mr. Wiley does not appear to have enjoyed so far.

Leniency Is Expected.

"From newspaper accounts it seems that the Rev. Edward Dinwiddie, head of the national board of strategy, is already in conference with high authorities, and I have no doubt that he and the Rev. Clarence True Wilson will convince the prohibition bureau that leniency should be shown in this case, even if guilty, as they appear to have had no difficulty in doing in other cases.

"I would be the last man in the world to contribute at this time any embarrassment to the administration, and, therefore, respectfully withdraw the resolutions."

DOCTOR AND HIS SISTER DIE IN SUICIDE PACT

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The loss of more than a half century's life savings of a brother and sister—estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000—in the stock market led police today to characterize as a suicide pact the deaths of Dr. Albert Edward Mucklow, 53, and Mrs. Lottie Hutchings, 51, in the doctor's office, on Summer avenue, Brooklyn.

A poison, the nature of which has not been determined, is believed to have caused the deaths. Three glasses were found in the room.

Herbert Hutchings, husband of the doctor's sister, who recently lost his position as an employé of a Manhattan bank, and the maid, Margaret Woodward, 25, could give police little aid.

Make Initial Deliveries on New Yellow Cabs

Initial deliveries on a $2,000,000 order for new cabs, at the rate of twenty a day, are being received by the Chicago Yellow Cab company. Officials of the company, Benjamin Samuels, vice president, said, believe that now is the time to replace old equipment. As a result 1,000 new all yellow cabs were ordered. The new cabs, Mr. Samuels explains, are larger and roomier than those which have been in service and are much more striking in appearance.

SCARING GROCER CAUSED ARREST OF HOOVER'S KIN

Police Tell How Leavitt Was Seized.

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Declaring that the arrest of Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, was "regular in every way," Police Chief C. E. Webb, father-in-law of Rudy Vallee, today said that he had concluded an investigation which showed "there was no politics" behind the liquor charge lodged against Leavitt.

The 57 year old husband of the President's sister will face hearings on the accusation of illegally possessing liquor next Monday here. Leavitt was at liberty on $250 bail here today.

Detectives working for some agency investigating the affair today went to Police Sergeant Thomas Carr, "dry raider" of the Santa Monica department, and asked him for details of the arrest of Leavitt and Cliff Dalley here yesterday.

Seeking Another Man.

Carr said the last idea he had in mind when he went to Dalley's grocery, 1331 Santa Monica boulevard, with Prohibition Agents Verne Woolman and Robert Sheetz, was to arrest either Dalley or Leavitt.

"I had a warrant for a different man entirely," Carr said, "and I wanted to take a look at the place. I had arrested Dalley once before on a bootlegging charge.

"I thought that this time I'd give him a scare by stepping into his store to look over the warrant. So I told the federals who were with me to stop at the back door and watch what happened. Then out popped Mr. Leavitt with a gunnysack full of whisky and what could they do but nab him?"

Chief Stands by Policeman.

Chief Webb said he "would stand by Carr and his story," and said that the Santa Monica department "has had Dalley's store under observation for some time."

"Personally I believe Leavitt's story that he was handed the sack of bottles and told to take them away as a favor to somebody else," Webb said. "His story sounds reasonable. However, there is no getting around the fact that he was carrying a sack full of liquor when the officers stopped him and all the officers could do was make the arrest."

Dalley continues to deny Leavitt's story that he handed the bag to Leavitt and asked him to take it away from the premises.

TWO WOMEN, 4 MEN SEIZED IN U. S. RUM RAIDS

Benjamin Brack of 43 East Superior street, alleged wholesale bootlegger, and three other men and two women, were seized by federal prohibition agents under Deputy Administrator A. E. Hamilton last night. Brack served a sentence for his part in the Shirley laboratories booze conspiracy case several years ago.

William Kelly, his wife, Mabel; Harold Meyers, and Brack were arrested in a raid on Kelly's home at 650 West 60th street. Benjamin Ehrnfeld and his wife, Elizabeth, were arrested in Brack's home. Quantities of booze were found in each place.

Bandits Raid Hotel; Take $15,000 in Imported Linens

The police yesterday sought three bandits and $15,000 worth of imported Irish linens. The loot was taken in an early morning holdup of the Beach View hotel, 7645 Sheridan road. The bandits forced the night clerk to arouse the janitor, and made the latter unlock the trunk room, from which they took five sample cases containing the linens, owned by William Coulson and Sons, New York importers.

...York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—...k E. Crowley, who rose from ...ember to the president of the ...w York Central lines, announced ...day that he would resign from that ...tion on Jan. 1. He will be suc-...ded by Frederic E. ...rles Donnelly, president of the ...thern Pacific railway, which, with ...e Great Northern, controls the Bur-...gton, announced at St. Paul that ...ph Budd, now president of the ...t Northern, would be named to ...ceed Mr. Williamson on the Bur-...gton.

Kenney May Succeed Budd.

...illiam P. Kenney, vice president ...charge of traffic of the Great ...thern, is expected to succeed to ...Budd's place on that road.

...r. Crowley is sixty-eight years ...d. His retirement from the New ...rk Central had been expected un-...r the rules of the company, but its ...nouncement at this time came as a ...rprise. The New York Central, like ...ny railroads, is weathering a de-...ssion and tomorrow and Friday its ...ards will be engaged in discussion ...freight rate and labor questions. ...r. Crowley's retirement comes, ...reover, at one of the busiest pe-...ds of his career.

...Recently, Mr. Crowley put his ...me to a joint agreement on ...nsolidation reached only after years ...f effort with the Pennsylvania, ...altimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake ...nd Ohio.

Wants to Take Rest.

...It was explained at the New York ...entral offices that his action today ...as prompted by a desire to devote ...ome of his time to private life.

...Mr. Crowley, known for his diffident ...nd retiring ways, issued a brief state-...ment.

..."On Jan. 1," he said, "I shall have completed fifty-three years of ...ctive service, forty-two of which ...have been with the New York Cen-...tral. I am in my 69th year, and I ...feel that the executive committee ...should relieve me of the duties and bur-...dens of the presidency as of Jan. 1, ...1929.

..."The executive committee have ...asked me to continue in the service ...of the company in an advisory ca-...pacity, a suggestion I have accepted ...with the greatest satisfaction."

Son from "the Cinders."

...Mr. Crowley, a "cinder railroader" ...began life as the son of the Erie rail-...road station agent at Cattaraugus, N. ...Y. His father, Dennis Crowley, gave ...him a public school education and ...then put him to work as a station ...messenger. Young Crowley taught ...himself telegraphy and became ...successively station agent at Custer City, ...Pa., and dispatcher's operator and ...train dispatcher for the Erie at Buf-...falo. He became a dispatcher for the ...Reno, Watertown and Ogdensburg ...railroad in 1889. Soon it was absorbed ...by the New York Central and Mr. ...Crowley became chief dispatcher and ...later trainmaster.

...It was as superintendent of the ...Pennsylvania division in 1901 that he ...began establishing records for operat-...ing efficiency that resulted in his nick-...name of "Pull eighty cars." He in-...sisted on putting the maximum num-...ber of cars possible in a train, then ...eighty on his division, and one ...day an engineer of another line asked ...a New York Central freight conduc-...tor what the initials P. R. C., meant ...on a chest of orders hanging in a ca-...boose. "Pull eighty cars," was the ...reply of the New York Central man.

President Since 1924.

...In 1910 Mr. Crowley became vice ...president of the New York Central. ...He was federal manager of the road ...during the war, but resumed the vice ...presidency after the conflict. A. H. ...Smith, a close friend of Mr. Crowley, ...was president at that time. In 1924 ...Mr. Smith was killed by a fall from ...a horse in Central park and Mr. Crow-...ley was elected to the presidency.

...Following his graduation with the ...degree of A. B. from Yale university ...in 1898, Mr. Williamson became a ...clerk for the New York Central at ...Albany. He became successively a ...claim agent, accountant and, eventual-...ly, superintendent of the Hudson divi-...sion in 1916. He was embarkation di-...rector and then debarkation director ...at New York during the war. After-...ward, he became general superintend-...ent of the New York Terminal district ...and then general superintendent of ...the first district of the railroad with ...offices at Albany.

...Mr. Williamson's most striking ad-...vancement took place in 1925, when the ...late Howard Elliott placed him in the ...vice presidency of the Northern Pa-...cific, in charge of operation and main-...tenance. He became president of the ...Burlington in succession to Hale Hol-...den, who resigned to become chairman ...of the executive committee of the ...Southern Pacific company in 1928.

...Mr. Williamson was born in Nor-...walk, O., in 1876, so that he is twelve ...years Mr. Crowley's junior.

KING JOE PREDICTS GYPSY BRIDES WILL BRING LOWER PRICES

Toledo, O., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The market for gypsy brides broke badly today as King Joe arrived here to prepare for the national convention of the Sons of Romany.

King Joe eleven months out of the year is just Joe Marks of Detroit, but is ruler with all the trimmings from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15 each year. He came to town with a retinue of twenty to prepare for the 15,000 gypsies scheduled to attend the convention later this month. Shortly before Dec. 1 King Joe will curl his walrus mustache and don his best red satin shirt and move his throne to one hundred acres of farm land just over the line in Michigan, near here. From his throne he will rule on the marriages among his subjects and fix the prices to be paid to the fathers of the gypsy sweethearts. But this year, King Joe explains, the price will be lower because of the depression.

"Last year our lowest price was $2,500," he explained, "but I already have reduced it to $1,500. Of course, there may be close bidding and some prices may reach last year's figures."

Stricken Surgeon Finishes Operation and Then Dies

Old House of Howard Hit by Depression.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Two more results of Great Britain's economic plight came to light today. First, the duke of Norfolk, England's premier earl, marquess and duke, has been forced to sell the historic estate, Arundel, where the house of Howard has been seated since before the Norman conquest. Second, the war office announced that one of the two regiments of the king's household cavalry may be broken up or converted into a machine gun corps.

Some time ago the duke sold his town house and a number of famous heirlooms, but now the main estate, which centers around the finest medieval castle in England, has to go. It is stated that if he were to die, his successor would be wiped out by death duties.

Duke Is Retired.

The duke, who is just over 21, is not a robust young man. He failed in examinations both at Sandhurst military school and Oxford. The king gave him a personal commission in the royal horse guards, but he is already on the retired list. At one time there was hope of a rich marriage, but that seems to have failed.

The two regiments of the king's household cavalry are among the oldest in the British army. Both fought with the allies against the French at Dettingen, Bavaria, in 1743, under George II. This was the last time a British king led his troops on the field of battle.

Metal $1,000 Per Soldier.

These magnificent "comic opera" soldiers supply the guard at Whitehall for the delectation of visiting Americans and other tourists. Their metal breastplates cost about $1,000 per soldier, and the soldiers need tons of metal polish, pipe clay, and blacking to keep them in trim every year. The regiments are known as the horseguards blue and the horseguards red because of the color of their tunics.

One regiment is always at Windsor and one at London, and as the king spends only six weeks of the year at Windsor, it is considered wasteful to maintain purely ceremonial soldiers there. During the war both regiments were dismounted and turned into machine gunners.

PANAMA CANAL DREDGED TO LET 9 SHIPS THROUGH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Nov. 11.—The old Culebra cut of the Panama canal was dredged to a depth of 28 feet this morning, so that nine vessels were able to pass through. It is possible that most of the ships whose drafts are 26 feet or below, and who are now held up by the landslide, will be able to move.

The Santa Barbara, drawing 26 feet, successfully made her way through the cut this morning. She is on her way to New York with a big passenger list. The Santa Elisa, en route to Valparaiso from New York, also went through.

Ships are unable as yet to pass each other in the cut. The delay in passing through is costing the 70 ships awaiting transit an average of $2,500 each. It is now figured that removal of 500,000 cubic yards of dirt from the cut, together with blasting of numerous huge rocks, will add $1,250,000 to the cost. The unemployment situation, however, is being aided.

HANDBILL UNION AND EMPLOYERS SIGN PEACE PACT

The handbill war which has been waged in Chicago for the last two years was settled yesterday when representatives of the Distributors' union and various circulating companies signed a peace agreement under the auspices of the "Secret Six" of the Association of Commerce.

The strife between the bill peddlers and their employers has resulted in a number of bombings and sluggings. The peace meeting was arranged by Alexander Jamie, chief investigator for the "Secret Six," and Assistant State's Attorney Edwin C. Duffey, assigned to the racket bureau.

Wages of the 4,000 bill peddlers in the union were fixed at $3.25 for an eight hour day, and $3.75 for foremen. One of the principal causes of trouble between the union and employers was the practice of the union in engaging in the handbill distributing business. It agreed to stop that practice and to cancel contracts with department stores and community newspapers.

CLIQUOT LABEL PLAYS A JOKE ON UNCLE SAM

A Tale of the Quest for $50,000 Liquor.

Anthony Czarnecki, federal collector of customs, received information late yesterday which caused him to take several federal agents and policemen to the bank of the Ogden slip at 402 East North Water street.

There they found two wooden crates, each fifteen feet long, ten feet wide, and eight feet high. Reports were that the huge boxes contained choice European liquors, valued at $50,000. They had been shipped from Antwerp, and delivered Friday by the steamer Gronland of Skien, Norway.

Mr. Czarnecki took charge of the inquiry.

Orders Crates Opened.

"Where are the invoices? he demanded of pier officials. He was told there were none. Mr. Czarnecki beckoned to his helpers.

"Break them open," he commanded.

In a few minutes the collector's men ripped open one box. Collector Czarnecki looked through the opening.

"Champagne!" he exclaimed.

Eliot Ness, special prohibition investigator, who worked up most of the booze case against Al Capone, looked over Mr. Czarnecki's shoulder.

"Cliquot," he said. "Pull it out."

Ah, What's This Now!

It was pulled out, the "it" being a wooden box. Instead of champagne, it contained only china, dishes, cups, and saucers. "Camouflage," observed the officials. "Get at the stuff in the middle." The center was soon reached. There, packed in asbestos, was an old table. Next followed a worn chair, then a stool and a venerable rug.

The customs officials, dry agents, and police, searching for $50,000 worth of liquor were puzzled. As they stood about the crates a man identifying himself as Jules Ratschowski, an importer, stepped up to them.

"I say," he exclaimed in alarm, "be careful of those things. Those crates are mine. They contain antiques." The officials departed.

GRANDI, NEARING U. S., ASKS PEACE; PRAISES HOOVER

S. S. CONTE GRANDE, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, who first proposed the one year armaments truce to which forty nations have adhered, today called for another truce in the discord among the world's peoples.

This Armistice day, he said in a brief speech to the crew and third cabin passengers—most of them Italians—should inspire all countries to unite their strength in the cause of peace and prosperity.

He described President Hoover, whom he is on the way to see, as a man who has given the world "faith" to conquer its troubles.

John Held Jr. Married; It's His Second Venture

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—John Held Jr., cartoonist, was married here today to Miss Gladys Moore of New Orleans. He obtained a Mexican divorce last year.

FINDS BURGLAR HE KILLED IS EX-SCHOOLMATE

James Petrowski, 22 years old, went to the county morgue last evening to fulfill the routine legal requirement of identifying the body of a young robber whom he had shot to death early yesterday as the youth tried to break into the clothing store of Petrowski's father at 3312 South Halsted street.

"It's Adam," he exclaimed. "It's my old schoolmate. We use to chum around together."

The body was that of Adam Levinitis, 22 years old, 2357 Wallace street. Earlier in the afternoon the youth's father, Matthew Levinitis, had identified his son. The father said the boy had recently lost a job at the Cuneo Press. He believed that the youth had tried to break into the store in search of winter clothing.

13 VESSELS CUT FROM U. S. FLEET IN NEW SLASH

Asiatic Squadron Further Reduced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.] — American national defense forces took another jolt today when the navy department announced that thirteen vessels would be withdrawn from active service during the next few months and laid up in reserve commission or sold. These reductions in the fighting forces afloat would make possible an early reduction of 1,000 enlisted men, navy officials said.

The order today marks the second major operation performed on the navy since the Hoover administration began its economy drive against national defense forces more than a year ago. The new move was described as independent of the big reorganization slated to come at the beginning of the next fiscal year when the 1933 navy economy cut, which prompted the White House-Navy league controversy, goes into effect.

Congress Has Final Say.

Unless congress intervenes and boosts the appropriation bills indications today were that the United States fleet after next July 1 will be approximately 65 per cent of the number of warships in full commission during the first year President Hoover held office. The navy's enlisted strength also will have dropped from 84,500 to below 77,000.

The orders issued today by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, also mark what appears to be an important change of policy in regard to the Asiatic fleet. A total of six submarines, six destroyers, a submarine tender and an aircraft tender have been ordered detached from the Asiatic squadron and transferred to other points.

The destroyers leave Dec. 7 and the submarines next May. In place of these vessels two gunboats and the Langley, a 10,000 ton experimental aircraft carrier, will be sent to the far east.

Part of Hoover Policy.

The reduction in the strength of the Asiatic squadron apparently is in line with recent moves to withdraw American marine and naval forces from the Pacific key bases of Guam and American Samoa where only forces sufficient for island administration are to be retained.

Six destroyers and five submarines go into reserve commission. The Jason, aircraft tender, is to be decommissioned and the second line cruiser Rochester sold.

It was explained at the navy department that the shortage of destroyers capable of use made it necessary to keep down the number actually in operation.

This latest navy reduction is expected to furnish new ammunition for the Navy league which has charged the President with following a policy of starving the navy. The cuts are expected to cut something like $3,500,000 from appropriations for the current year.

HUNTERS FIND GIRL'S BODY IN ROADSIDE GRAVE

in common oil cloth and covered with corrosive. Spread as a general cover was an old fashioned curtain, or drape, maroon colored and tasseled.

At one end of the body was rolled a dress. Inside the dress was a high, white waist, buttoning to the neck. Two pockets in the dress were turned inside out. In addition the investigators found a chemise of red silk.

Further search disclosing no more clues, the body was placed in a box and taken to Woodstock for examination by Coroner E. H. Cook of McHenry county and pathologists. Further search of the vicinity of the grave will be made this morning. Sheriff Edinger hopes, he said, to find the missing parts of the body.

View of Coroner Cook.

Coroner Cook, after examining the bones, said he judged the victim was about twenty years old. He said the murder might have been committed within the last month.

Authorities of McHenry county said it was possible the young woman had been slain in a cottage near one of the numerous lakes in that region, the dismemberment performed, and the body then placed in the grave. Their sole hope of identification rested, they thought, in some one's identifying the black hair and general contour of the head, and the clothing.

To this end Mr. Edwards said he would devote his efforts. He said he believed the disappearance of Miss Forbes was not voluntary, and that she might have been the victim in the roadside grave.

Mr. Edwards pointed out that Miss Forbes vanished at about the time the roadside victim is supposed to have been slain. Miss Forbes was about 23 years old.

According to Mr. Edwards, the only motive for any harm to Miss Forbes was in her volunteering some evidence to him against a doctor.

Miss Forbes had spent most of her life in a convent at Kankakee, it was learned. She came to Chicago about five years ago. After studying nursing she found employment with the doctor in question. She remained with him for eighteen months.

A year ago a dentist took his sweetheart to the doctor's office for an illegal operation, and the doctor, Miss Forbes later told Mr. Edwards, performed the operation. Last summer her employer ousted her for another woman, and Miss Forbes, in the rôle of a woman scorned, recalled that the doctor had told her, "I fear only the board of registration and education."

Death Threat Is Told.

She went to Mr. Edwards' office and told him of the illegal operation. Not long after that, while living with friends outside of Chicago, she received a telephone call from the doctor's handy man. "You've squealed on the doctor. You're going to be knocked off," he told her. This threat was related to Mr. Edwards by Miss Forbes.

Miss Forbes returned to Kankakee, remained there awhile and then returned to Chicago. Six weeks ago she stood in a railroad station and telephoned her friends outside the city. "I'm coming back," she told them. They urged her not to make the trip alone, and said that if she stayed in Chicago overnight they would meet her in the morning. Miss Forbes consented. "I'll stay at the Y. W. C. A. hotel," she said.

That was the last heard of Miss Forbes. She never appeared at the home of her friends outside the city, nor at a Y. W. C. A.

Good Will Is Armistice Day Theme.

soldier's wreath, of laurel leaves, with no flowers and tied with bronze colored ribbon. Mrs. Hoover laid a spray of yellow chrysanthemums on the slab of marble.

In the afternon Mr. and Mrs. Hoover went over to the navy yard to visit the history-charged frigate Constitution, or "Old Ironsides." As a sightseeing citizen the President went about, asking questions, peering into corners, learning about the old ship. But as the chief executive his visit was taken as an earnest in his intention to have the frigate continue her "education cruises" next spring.

Still later in the afternoon friends of Woodrow Wilson led a pilgrimage to his tomb in Bethlehem chapel of Washington cathedral, where the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, predicted that international associations were inevitable; prayed that they might be peaceful.

At Wilson's Tomb.

"The tomb of a war President," declared Bishop Freeman, "is a fit place for quiet reflection and dispassionate evaluation.

"He did not claim infallibility of judgment as his own, and yet as we reflect today on his brilliant career we see in him the certain evidences of rare statesmanship that gives him permanent place among the good and the great."

The bishop looked over at the tomb, heaped high with flowers; then down at the figure of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, silhouetted in black against the whiteness of the marble.

"The world has grown too small," Bishop Freeman concluded, "its fellowships too intimate, its contacts too close, for us to think in terms of proud isolation. We cannot, even if we would, have either our misfortunes or our prosperity to ourselves."

Pershing Denies War Spirit.

This evening Gen. John J. Pershing and Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, in broadcast speeches brought to a close the thirteenth Armistice day since the guns ceased firing in France.

Gen. Pershings declared that "we should not again be guilty of that lack of military foresight which has always been the weakness of our national lawmakers and which had made it well nigh impossible to train, equip, and transport our armies to the battle front in time to save the allies."

Denying that there is a "militaristic spirit in America," he declared that "adequate preparation against war does not mean aggression. Training of our youth promotes discipline, respect for government and for law and order."

GEN. MITCHELL HITS FEDERAL COMMISSIONS AS WASTE OF MONEY

Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, formerly of the army air force, speaking at the dedication of the new Aurora Memorial bridge over the Fox river yesterday, criticised the national administration as wasteful, burdened with futile committees and commissions, and rapidly becoming entangled in the mass of its bureaucratic system.

GEN. MITCHELL. [U. & U. Photo.]

"At the present time there are 18 administrative governmental branches," he said. "These could and should be cut to five branches." The five administrative bureaus, he said, should be foreign affairs, finance, interior, war, and justice. He estimated that such a system would increase efficiency and cut administrative cost by a third.

Gen. Mitchell termed present administrative activity futile and merely a pretext for making political jobs.

"Most of the large number of commissions appointed by the administration to stimulate government building as a means of fighting unemployment are wasting money," he said. "The commissions were appointed without any good reason and have flitted from idea to idea."

REAR ADMIRAL MAKES ATTACK ON PACIFISTS

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Denouncing the "pacifistic conduct of our government which has already got us into three wars, and may get us into another," Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, U. S. navy, retired, declared today in an Armistice day address that it is necessary to have some such organization as the Navy league "to give you information about your navy." Naval officers, he declared, are silenced by the gag rule of politicians "who do all they can to discredit their intelligence and motives."

While Admiral Fiske declined as improper to pass upon the merits of "what has been called a controversy between the President and the Navy league," he did praise the knowledge and attainments of William Howard Gardiner, president of the league, and pointed out the danger of basing national security on international treaties or agreements.

RABBI ECHOES ISAIAH'S WORDS AGAINST WARS

Disarmament Is a Moral Problem, Wise Says.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The second day's sessions of the convention of the world alliance for international friendship, ended last night with a mass meeting presided over by Congressman Morton D. Hull. The speakers were Justice Florence G. Allen, of the Supreme Court of Ohio, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free synagogue, Carnegie hall, New York.

Rabbi Wise declared the problem of disarmament is a moral problem, and one that seeks to bring nations into accord with the Kellogg pact. He asserted that there is nothing radical or revolutionary in the disarmament movement, and urged religious folk to be as honest as scientists. He referred to Prof. Einstein who recently called his fellow scientists to give no help nor furtherance to preparations for war.

Echoes Words of Isaiah.

"As a teacher of the religion of Isreal," said Dr. Wise, "I echo the command of Isaiah, 'Ye shall beat—not battleships into airplanes—nor spears into submarine torpedoes—but swords into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks. If I were a Christian, I would say that crucifix and sword must part company forever."

Judge Allen argued that the inequality of war burdens has never been properly emphasized. She pointed out that some families suffer while others come through a war unscathed. Judge Allen declared the American Legion proposal that wealth as well as men should be conscripted in the next war is unconstitutional. She declared that the constitution specifically protects private property.

"Cannot Conscript Wealth."

"We cannot under the present constitution conscript wealth," she said, "and even if we conscript life, we cannot conscript life so that the burden falls equally, even though in our theory of government we believe that every man according to his resources should coöperate in bearing the burden of community life."

Motorists to Get New Type of Identification Ca

Identification cards furnished [illegible] motorists with their 1932 license [illegible] will be a photostatic copy of the [illegible] license application, containing a [illegible] simile of their signature, Secretary of State William J. Stratton announced yesterday. Previous identification cards have been printed blanks filled in on the typewriter. The new method is expected to assist in the recovery of stolen cars, as well as to eliminate errors in transcription possible under the old form of card.

SAVAGE DEMANDS U. S. KEEP FAITH WITH WAR DEAD

Calls Defense, Dry Law, and Slump the Issues.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Dour gray and tearful skies Chicago celebrated the thirteenth Armistice day yesterday. The wind from the east whipped a gust of rain upon the multitude of bared heads as the guns awoke new echoes in graveyard and city street, while the bugles sounded their sad yet triumphant note at the hour of 11 o'clock.

Ch. SAVAGE. [Wide World Photo.]

Massed in the block on the west side of the city hall, where the American Legion held its main service, five thousand persons listened to Col. Howard P. Savage, past commander of the Illinois department, as he questioned whether the people of America have kept the faith with their fallen comrades and have held high the torch passed on at Flanders field.

Around the speaker, on the stand draped in American flags and the colors with their golden eagles made a bright spot against the gloom of the day, Legion officials, city officials led by Mayor Cermak, and representatives of other war time organizations were gathered.

Points to Three Problems.

Col. Savage spoke of three major problems which confront the people of this country today. These, in the order of importance which he gave them, are national defense, depression, and prohibition.

"Are we conscious?" he asked in speaking himself to the first problem. "Haven't we witnessed enough in the war clouds of the Pacific to the futility of peace pacts, the folly of the league of nations? The only way to realize the growing menace of war between two great countries of the orient, and while I am not an alarmist, I feel that if that conflagration grows that our country will be involved, isn't this lesson enough? Wasn't the lesson in 1917 and 1918 sufficient to stir our people against aggressions?

"The fourteenth Armistice celebration would be a mockery if we did not take definite our stand on national defense and that we insist that our army, navy, and air forces be maintained in sufficient strength to guarantee protection to the shores of this country and to end any uprising which might be fostered or fomented by a radical or communistic group, who are, from all indications, watching and waiting for their time to strike."

Holds Expression "Breaks Faith."

On the depression he said: "How can we indicate faith when we have watched this country sink into a depression, economically, patriotically, and morally, that is causing hardship and suffering equal to that of war to be visited upon our people?

"Altogether too many millions of labor hands are idle today. Altogether too many hundreds of millions of dollars of our workmen's savings have been blown to pieces by bank failures, which come from a lack of security given to savings depositors in our state and federal banks.

"Let us, the men of service, a part of the great army that broke the Hindenburg line, stand resolutely and demand that our leaders of government, that our leaders of finance, our leaders of industry and commerce, throw the full weight of their ability to break this Hindenburg line of depression, to the end that these willing hands of America may again return to useful toil."

Cites Dry Law Failure.

On prohibition, he said: "They claimed that this act would reduce taxes and empty our jails, and that insane asylums would be only memories. Yet, after thirteen years of that, which in my opinion was a silly, senseless law, we have seen erected in this home country an almost invisible government of disregard for law—the creation of hoodlums, racketeers, murderers, kidnapers, and betrayers of womanhood—killing, murdering, bombing to protect those great profits which come from the violation of the prohibition and Volstead act of war time emergency days.

"Illinois has twice expressed by overwhelming majorities its opposition to the law. Therefore, we of Illinois should insist on a modification of the Volstead act, pending a referendum of the several other states on this important question.

"Our police departments throughout the country have been rendered almost helpless by the ruthless power and sway of this invisible gangland. It is only within the last fortnight that a blow has been struck at gangland, and this was possible only because those gangsters and hoodlums were foolish enough to become enmeshed in the income tax law, and it is in this way that the federal government must cope with this menace."

Address by Mayor Cermak.

Mayor Cermak, after his tribute to the day and to the ex-service man, said:

"We have a war right here in Chicago with gangs and hoodlums. I ask you decent citizens to join me and the police in driving them from our midst. We will have them on the run in the very near future."

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin spoke at the Hamilton club celebration.

"If the peace of the world rested with those who fought," he said, "there would never be another war. Unfortunately, the memory of man is short and human nature never changes, and therefore when greed for gold and national avarice asserts itself nations will war as before.

"Europe is still an armed camp, in spite of the lofty ideals of statesmen and the league of nations. The hatred of ages is kept alive by jingoes, jealousies, misunderstandings, envy, selfishness, avarice, and hate striving to thrust humanity again into the desperate game of organized murder called war.

Sees Threats to Unity.

"We have conditions at home—greed, religious intolerance, crime, and ignorance, which would destroy our unity and thereby keep us from wielding the influence for world peace which we should.

"All of Europe is looking to America for leadership, not so much for leagues, associations, treaties and the like, as for us to show other nations how to govern themselves so that their respective subjects may have a measure of happiness and prosperity like that enjoyed by the masses here in America.

"We are no longer a domestic commercial nation, content to confine trade to the United States, but must seek an outlet to maintain our standard of living. As the banker of the world we control the destinies of nations. Therefore, we must assume the responsibilities that follow, regardless of our pacific tendencies and our anti-imperialistic minorities. As a nation we must follow the star of destiny wherever it may lead, otherwise, like the great commercial nations of history, we will decline and perhaps perish from the earth."

Evanston, Oak Park, Glencoe and other suburban communities held celebrations of their own.

"The living veterans are fighting a war to which there is no armistice," said Mayor Charles H. Bartlett in Evanston. "They came back and took their places in trade and business and now are fighting the attack on our prosperity from inside and outside."

AFTER 13 YEARS WAR PALS MEET AGAIN AT HOUR OF ARMISTICE

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—When Carl Reichert was released from the Deaconess hospital here late this morning, having partially recovered from an operation for an injury received while fighting in France, he was met by a cab driver whom he had summoned to take him home.

As the two met the clang of the city bells and the shriek of whistles began marking the hour of 11. The two looked at each other, clasped hands and smiled, speaking simultaneously the word "Pal." The driver was Carl Schuetz, and both recalled that at exactly that hour thirteen years ago they had welcomed the armistice as they fought side by side in the Fifth field artillery, First division of the United States army in France.

TAPS SOUNDED AT TOMB OF FRANCE'S UNKNOWN HERO

U. S. Bugle Call Adopted as Salute to Dead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Taps, the bugle call which has summoned American soldiers to sleep for generations, and which has sounded over their graves wherever American arms have been carried, was used tonight for the first time as the French official salute to its dead, in the final ceremony of the observance of Armistice day here.

The French army has adopted taps partly as a memento of comradeship in arms between the two countries during the war and partly because military chieftains considered it the most stirring, yet the most dignified, salute they had ever heard. Gen. Gourand, the one armed war hero, is responsible for the adoption of the American salute. When he heard it blown over the graves of Americans in the Romagne cemetery five years ago he was so impressed that he said he wished he could be war minister for five minutes in order to have it adopted for the pollus.

Taps for Unknown Soldier.

Finally he got his wish, and the first audition of the new French salute for the dead was reserved for tonight at the solemn annual vigil over the tomb of the Unknown Soldier under the Arc de Triomphe, at which Gen. Gouraud traditionally presides.

Despite the rain, which blurred half the illuminated bulk of Napoleon's triumphal arch, a crowd of several thousand ringed the Place de Letoile to watch the ceremony. President Paul Doumer, accompanied by his wife, strolled up, like any ordinary citizen, carrying an umbrella. Gen. Gouraud passed his sword to Mme. Doumer for the solemn rite of rekindling the flame at the foot of the unknown warrior's grave. As she stooped to do so a bugler sounded taps.

Canada Remembers Its Dead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 11.—Canada today celebrated the anniversary of the signing of the armistice for the first time as a separate holiday, under the designation of Remembrance day. Previously it had been combined with the Thanksgiving holiday. All banks, public offices, exchanges and most businesses were closed, and in those that remained open the two minutes' silence was faithfully observed. Booming cannon announced the commencement and conclusion of the silence period.

Wales Heads London Ceremony.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—London had its third day of pageantry today and now is ready to get back to work. The occasion today was the armistice anniversary. The king was to have driven to the cenotaph at Whitehall to lay the wreath in memory of the fallen in the great war. The weather was too bad and the king was not allowed out, so the prince of Wales took his place. The queen and her sons drove in the procession, holding up traffic for a couple of hours.

It was notable that for the first time no great crowd was present at the laying of the wreaths. In former years there have been queues a mile long from dawn until midnight, but this year there were only a few hundreds.

Mussolini Reviews Troops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 11.—Armistice day was celebrated in Italy a week ago but today, in honor of King Victor Emanuel's 62d birthday, 10,000 soldiers, 534 officers, 681 horses, 264 automobiles, and 150 pieces of artillery were reviewed by Premier Mussolini in a big military show calculated to demonstrate the efficiency and perfection of the technical equipment of the Italian army.

Mussolini wore a corporal's uniform. He was outranked several degrees by the generals in charge of the military show and saluted first. At the last military show Mussolini wore a lieutenant general's uniform. Donna Rachele Mussolini and two sons were in the reviewing stand.

The review showed the results of the equipment of the Italian army with the most scientific weapons and the special training it has undergone to give it greater mobility and rapidity of action. Each infantry outfit now has its own special section of artillery instead of this latter arm being organized as a single and separate corps.

LEGION COMMANDER ADDS HIS PROTESTS TO CRIPPLING NAVY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Henry L. Stevens Jr., national commander of the American Legion, tonight joined the Navy league in assailing the administration's plans for further reductions in the American fleet. Speaking at the Legion's Armistice night meeting, Mr. Stevens declared that today the army and navy have been reduced "below the minimum consistent with national safety."

"National defense is to have a serious, if not a final and fatal, test at the coming session of congress," Mr. Stevens asserted. "Plans have already been laid to slash our navy to a point where the fleet in 1933 will be at the lowest ebb of combat efficiency since pre-war days."

3 EX-CONVICTS ADMIT HOLDUP OF ODELL BANK

Three ex-convicts, arrested Tuesday night and identified by witnesses as the bandits who held up the State bank of Odell, Ill., on Nov. 7, confessed yesterday that they had committed the holdup. The trio, Robert Loftus of Rockford, Raymond Ryan, 216 West 47th street, and Frank Herzog, 4905 Princeton avenue, were questioned all day at the state's attorney's office.

There was a discrepancy between their story of the holdup and that of bank officials, Chief Investigator Fat Roche said. The bank said that it lost $8,000 in the robbery, but the three prisoners insisted that they got only $4,000.

Baby Born as Police Arrive to Take Mother to Hospital

An eight pound boy was born to Mrs. Julia Pierritz, 2807 South Kolin avenue, last night as a patrol wagon from the Lawndale station arrived to take her to the Frances Willard Memorial hospital. Erwin F. Pierritz, the husband, telephoned a physician and then called the police to take his wife to a hospital. The child was born as the police arrived and Dr. Gurli Wernstrom, 2934 West 26th street, attended the mother on the way to the hospital.

Emmerson Accepts Grant Memorial Home at Galena

Galena, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Despite threatening weather, Galena is putting on the biggest Armistice celebration since war time today. Gov. Emmerson and his staff were entertained at luncheon at noon, followed by a parade and acceptance of the Grant Memorial home by the governor in behalf of the state.

JAPAN TO OFFER LEAGUE PLAN FOR PEACE WITH CHINA

Would Negotiate Direct with Local Officials.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Private negotiations between Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese ambassador to Paris, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, have resulted in a compromise formula for settlement of the Manchurian dispute. This compromise will be submitted by the Tokio representative when the council meets in extraordinary session here Monday. This was learned tonight from a good source.

The plan represents a comedown from the original Japanese stand, but at the same time it evades the main provisions of the league's resolution calling on Japan to evacuate her troops by Nov. 16. For this reason it is considered doubtful here that the Chinese will accept it, but there is good reason to believe the formula meets the approval of an influential section of league opinion.

Calls for Negotiations.

The vital feature of the new scheme is the opening of two series of simultaneous negotiations. The first series would be held in Manchuria between local Chinese authorities and individual Japanese commanders. As envisaged by Yoshizawa, these negotiations would be scattered over a wide territory, wherever the Japanese invasion has met or provoked Chinese resistance. The great feature would be that the evacuation by Japanese troops would be carried out progressively as the local disputes are cleared up.

At the same time a diplomatic conference under the auspices of the league and the great powers would be held in Paris, London or some other occidental capital. The purpose of this conference would be to settle the "five fundamental ponts" on which Japan insists. Chief of these is recognition by China of the treaty imposed upon her in 1915.

A possible catch in the compromise is that it still disregards the league's order to evacuate Manchuria before a fixed date and leaves the Japanese free to take their time about withdrawing their troops on the pretext that local Chinese authorities refuse the necessary guarantees.

League Sends New Notes.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Nov. 11.—New notes were sent from here this afternoon to Tokio and Nanking bearing the signature of Aristide Briand, acting chairman of the league of nations council.

In view of the imminence of the meeting of the council in Paris Monday, Briand once more called the attention of both parties to their solemn pledges, given here in September, not to aggravate the situation pending a settlement. The notes, which will be published tomorrow, are believed to have been sent as a result of the fighting at Tientsin and the danger of an attack by Chinese forces on the Japanese force near the Nonni river bridge.

Dawes to Attend Meeting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, today was directed by the state department to go to Paris for the league of nations council meeting Monday, when the league powers will gather to decide what to do about Japan's action in flouting the council's demand for the withdrawal of troops from Manchuria by Nov. 16.

As outlined today, Ambassador Dawes will act as contact man between the council and Washington. If present plans are followed, the ambassador will not sit with the council is did Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul at Geneva, who participated in the discussions incident to the invocation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty.

Heeds Senate Criticism.

This new aloofness presumably is due to administration concern over adverse reactions in the senate to the action of Secretary Stimson in directing Mr. Gilbert to sit in with the league, and to the fact that this country did not participate in the council discussion which led to the issuance of the virtual ultimatum to Japan.

Beyond stating that he was hopeful of a solution of the Manchurian crisis, Mr. Stimson declined to throw light on the next American move in the orient. The secretary indicated that no major step will be taken by this country prior to the council meeting at Paris Monday. He described Japan's note to the United States yesterday as "conciliatory," but refused to back up his optimistic statement with any concrete facts.

Dawes' Action Limited.

It is apparent that Mr. Dawes will hang around the council doors prepared to confer with league members if they so desire. The purpose, as explained at the state department, was to take the necessary steps so that a united world front will be presented to Japan.

Officials declined to say what would be done in event the league decided to invoke force or an economic blockade to enforce its ultimatum. The question of how this country could cooperate with the league without joining in such a move was left unanswered.

of marine, who was a member of the emperor's party at the war games, returned to Tokio because of the increasing gravity of the conflict in Manchuria.

Japan has 13,000 men in Manchuria, against a Chinese force of about 250,000, according to war office figures, but many of these Chinese are said to have deserted and formed gypsy bands.

Officials announced that the fresh troops dispatched to Manchuria will replace a Corean brigade which has been on constant duty there since Sept. 19.

The four destroyers were sent from Kure to Japanese owned Port Arthur, on the southern tip of Manchuria and scene of the great conflict of the Russo-Japanese war. In addition, the naval cruiser Yakuno was ordered from Yokosuka to Sasebo, within striking distance of Manchuria, to await further instructions.

Evacuate American School.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 11.—The Keen School for Girls, operated by American Methodist missionaries, and the Nankai school were evacuated today in fear of a renewal of the fighting that has kept Tientsin in an uproar the last few days.

At the same time troops of the British and French concessions set up an international military patrol in the neutral zone adjacent to the Japanese concession.

Reports were circulated that Japan had issued an ultimatum demanding that all Chinese defenders of Tientsin be withdrawn.

The evacuation of the Keen school was accomplished under conditions that brought considerable hardship to the girl students. They were taken to the French area by a roundabout route and many of them were in a state of collapse when they arrived.

All of the evacuated students, it is understood, will be taken to Peiping unless the possibility of further disorders is quickly removed. There was occasional rifle firing tonight, but for the most part the city was quiet.

The Chinese authorities issued orders to their troops to take every precaution to prevent further clashes. Their instructions were to remain strictly on the defensive.

Both French and British troops exercised extreme care in protecting their concessions. In the vicinity of the French area boundary all pedestrians were searched and traffic was stopped after 8 p. m.

U. S. Troops to Guard Tientsin.

PEIPING, China, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Reports to the American legation today indicated that American troops were to join the French and British tonight in occupying defense positions at Tientsin.

Lieut. Willard G. Wyman, assistant military attaché at the American legation, was ordered to Tientsin to report on developments there.

American, British, French, and Italian military authorities agreed to the formation of an international patrol in the neutral zone adjacent to the Tientsin Japanese concession, provided Japan and China approve.

Cities Under Martial Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12.—(Thursday)—The Chinese press today published reports of an alleged Japanese plot to create anti-Japanese riots in Shanghai similar to those in Tientsin. As a result the city was placed under partial law after a conference between Chinese officials and the foreign consuls. Hankow, Nankiug, and other cities were also placed under martial law. The reports said the plot was laid by the Japanese to justify an increase of military and naval forces in China.

At Nanking today 2,000 students in a wild demonstration demanded that the government declare war on Japan.

ELGIN BLOCKS INVASION BY COOK COUNTY UNION

Labor Agent Tries to Put Outsiders on Job.

The Elgin city council yesterday ordered that the entire police department of the city, [illegible] be used to keep [illegible] union labor from [illegible] working with a [illegible] unemployment relief [illegible].

MAYOR LEHMAN.

The project, announced recently, is the improvement of land for a addition to the Elgin City cemetery, which is city owned. The work authorized as a means of combating the depression, and gave Fay and Geister, excavating contractors, a contract for clearing up the land.

Elmer Geister, a partner in the concern, arranged with the Elgin teamsters' union to give jobs on the project to Elgin men who have been jobless for months. In return, Geister said yesterday, his concern agreed to sign a contract on Jan. 1 with the union.

Union Agent Appears.

Geister was supervising the work of Elgin men Monday when J. R. Waldt of Maywood, a business agent of the general teamsters' and chauffeurs' union in Cook county suburbs, appeared on the scene. T. J. Lynch, head of that organization, was murdered Monday night.

The cemetery addition is in that part of Elgin lying within Cook county.

"You can't use Elgin men on this job," Waldt told Geister, according to the latter's story. "This is Cook county and you'll have to use men from Maywood."

Waldt had seven husky companions with him. Most of the beneficiaries of the relief program dropped their tools and left when the group appeared. Geister explained the nature of the job. Waldt refused to change his mind. They arranged a conference yesterday, which Waldt was unable to attend because of the Lynch funeral, but meanwhile Geister disclosed his plight to Mayor Myron M. Lehman and the Elgin council.

Promise Police Protection.

"We didn't appropriate any money for unemployment relief in Maywood," Mayor Lehman told him. "You put your men back to work, and we'll send the whole police force out there to see that no one bothers them. If that isn't protection enough, I'll ask for more."

Geister said that he had promised Waldt not to resume work until tomorrow, when they will hold their postponed conference, but that he would refuse then to employ any but Elgin men on the job.

FREE MANGANO AND GANG, HELD AS KIDNAPERS

Police Lack Evidence as Victims Are Released.

"Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone gangster and public enemy, and four of his associates were freed yesterday by Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker because he had failed to find any evidence against them in connection with the kidnaping of Alexander Berg, wealthy St. Louis furrier. Berg, who was seized by hoodlums in St. Louis last Friday night and held for $100,000 ransom, was released and returned to his home late Tuesday.

Mangano's henchmen, who were arrested with him on Monday, supposedly as they were about to negotiate for a ransom, are Frank Chiavavollotti, 1830 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park; Paul Palmeri of Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Angelo Caruso of New York City, and Sylvester Agoglia, 1123 Newberry avenue. Louis Spinelli of New York, who said he was negotiating for the Berg family to obtain the furrier's release, also was freed.

Other Kidnaping Cases.

Chief Schoemaker said he believed the arrest of Mangano and his men had resulted in the liberation of those they had been holding for ransom. He said he had information that sixteen kidnapings have been carried out in the last few weeks, but had not been reported to the police.

One of that kind was said to have been the kidnaping of "Jackie" Fields referred to as the "millionaire wrestling man" who is connected with the Cremo Liquid Malt company and the Malt Rite Food Products company. Unofficial reports were that $6,000 ransom was paid for the release of Fields after $50,000 had been demanded. Chief Schoemaker believed Mangano's gang also had been responsible for the abduction of Ralph J. ["Fuzzy"] Pearce, Rockford gambler, for whose release $1,200 was paid.

Investigator Pat Roche of State's Attorney Swanson's office has asked Rockford authorities to arrest William C. ["Red"] Ryan, who said he paid Pearce's ransom, and Charles Jobe and John Wall, two other Rockford men, pending an investigation of Ryan's story.

Story of Berg Release.

Chief Schoemaker was informed by the St. Louis authorities that no money had been paid on Berg's behalf, but that the kidnapers were induced to release the wealthy fur dealer after the arrest of Paul A. Richards, an attorney acting for the kidnapers.

Berg had been forced to write to his family attorney, Adrian Levinson, directing him to employ Attorney Richards to conduct negotiations and to pay him a fee of $1,000. According to a copyrighted story in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, John T. Rogers, a reporter, went to interview Richards and the attorney exhibited a promissory note for $50,000 signed by Berg. The reporter declared Richards said he was to get $11,000 of the ransom money.

Berg, upon being released, said two gunmen forced him into an automobile last Friday evening. He was taken to a flat over a store. His captors kept goggles on his eyes during his 102 hours of imprisonment. He was treated well enough, he said, but he was in constant fear. The gangsters pressed him to raise money, finally agreeing to take $10,000, he said.

Berg said he knew nothing of the negotiations Spinelli was supposed to be conducting in Chicago in his behalf which resulted in Spinelli's arrest and the arrest of Mangano and the others.

PROBLEMS RISE IN DEFERRED TAX PAYMENT PLANS

Sweitzer Seeks Answers to Some Questions.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

What will be offered the property owner under the proposed optional installment plan of paying taxes? What percentage of his bill will he be required to pay in the first installment? The amounts of the five others? When will each of them be payable?

The office of County Clerk Sweitzer has tried to find the answer to these questions, in order to determine how the 1930 taxes shall be extended. This is the first effort to interpret any feature in the program of Gov. Emmerson's revenue conference which will be formally presented to the special session of the legislature today.

Installment Plan Explained.

The conference plan for installment payment of taxes relates exclusively to the 1930 taxes. They will become delinquent, under existing statutes, on Jan. 1.

The revenue conference's plan is to make all the taxes for the state and schools and for bonds and interest due on or before the delinquency date. The remaining taxes would be paid in five annual installments, with interest at 5 per cent.

As an example, those general requirements and restrictions have been applied by the tax experts in the county clerk's office to a house and lot valued by the assessing agencies at a total of $2,702 and situated anywhere in the area bounded by the Chicago river, its south branch and 36th street. This is the south town and all property in it is subject to exactly the same rate.

Applying the Tax Rate.

The assessed value of the sample property is $1,000. The tax rate for 1929—the 1930 rate has not yet been calculated—is $6.15 per $100 of assessed valuation. Therefore, the tax on the property would be $61.60. This tax is shared by the state, county, forest preserve, sanitary district, the city, schools, and the south parks. Under the revenue conference's plan the taxes for the state and schools from this property would be paid in full in the first installment. All the other governmental agencies listed above have bonds outstanding, and taxes to pay these bonds and interest on them would also be included in the first installment.

The following table, prepared from the county clerk's figures, shows the 1929 tax rate for each government, and the amount of each rate which would be applied against the property in the first installment:

Government.	Tax rate	First installment.
State	$ .39	$ .390000
Schools	2.64	2.640000
County	.45	.009003
Forest preserves	.09	.061379
Sanitary district	.57	.418646
City	1.89	.367666
South parks	.62	.372200
Totals	$6.15	$3.765815

Thus, under the revenue conference plan the owner of the property in question would have to pay $37.06 of his $61.50 tax bill as his first installment. This is approximately 60.25 per cent of the total bill, but in other city townships the percentage might be lower because the tax rates are different.

The revenue conference estimated that the first installment would be between 50 and 55 per cent of the total tax bill. Tax calculators explain that in rural districts of the county the tax rates may be so low that the estimate of the conference may be found to be the average for the county.

The remaining $24.44 of the $61.50 total tax on the sample property could be paid in five annual installments at the option of the property owner. On this property each installment would be $4,888 without interest.

County Clerk's Problems.

There is no question about the date for the payment of the first installment under the existing statutes. This is Jan. 1.

"But the more thought I give this subject," said County Clerk Sweitzer yesterday, "the more puzzling is the question of how to extend the taxes. Under the new law, passed by the last general assembly, all taxes, beginning with those for 1931, are to be paid in two installments. Shall I make the second installment of the 1930 taxes payable when the first installment of the 1931 taxes is to be paid, or when the second installment is due?

"It occurs to me that it would be prudent for the legislature to fix the dates when the installments of the 1930 taxes must be paid to avoid taxpayers' litigation over the subject."

REVENUE BILLS TO BE INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURE TODAY

Both houses of the general assembly will hold perfunctory sessions at Springfield this morning to permit the introduction of the bills sponsored by the governor's conference on revenue, the measures designed to cure the financial ills of the governmental units within Cook county.

The meetings probably will last less than half an hour, and it is not expected that more than a handful of legislators will be present. That is the description of the usual perfunctory meeting which members refer to occasionally as seances, because the attendance consists almost exclusively of the ghosts of members supposed to be in their seats. Only such business as is agreed upon in advance is transacted at these meetings.

The technical staff of the revenue conference spent all day yesterday putting the finishing touches on its bills, which, including minor changes in other laws required because of these measures, will total more than thirty in number. They were taken to Springfield last night by Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the conference. The assembly is expected to get down to real work next Tuesday.

HALF OF STATE'S TAXES SPENT ON PUBLIC CHARGES

Brandon Stresses High Cost of Crime.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—The department of public welfare of the state of Illinois expends half of the money which is collected by the state of Illinois through taxation of property, Rodney H. Brandon, director of the public welfare department of the state of Illinois, told several hundred members of the Men's club of the Presbyterian church here tonight when he addressed the gathering on "the cost of crime."

RODNEY H. BRANDON.

In 1920 fifty-five felons for every 100,000 of population of the state were incarcerated in the state of Illinois, said Mr. Brandon, but the figure by 1930 had increased to 111 per 100,000, or a total of 10,600 male felons and 134 woman felons.

170 High School Graduates.

"Among the 10,600 men in prison in Illinois there are 170 high school graduates," said Mr. Brandon, "but I want to hurry to qualify that just a little. We have among the 10,600 men also some physcians sent there for malpractice, some attorneys sent there for technical violations of their proper function. We have some bankers. I am not saying that these men are not typical criminals, and their records should not be confused with the thing we are endeavoring to do.

"In other words, les than one per cent of the men in prison in the state of Illinois are graduates from high schools. Probably more than twenty-five per cent of the men and women of Illinois are graduates of high school. Did you ever realize before that a high school diploma is practically immunity from prison?

Depends on Home Life.

"What is the composite of the picture of the man in prison?" asked Mr. Brandon. "The homeless, churchless, schoolless, workless boys of ten years ago, grown to manhood without ever having had an opportunity to learn the difference between right and wrong," he asserted. Taking the positive side of the question he named three agencies that we have for making good men out of boys—the home, the church, and the school. "The home is the place where he will learn the difference between right and wrong," declared Mr. Brandon.

Praises Sunday School Influence.

"In the state of Illinois the average boy receives less than seven hours a year of religious and moral training from the church. If we could give those precious Sunday school seats to the homeless boys of the community there would be an opportunity for those children who are denied the opportunity of learning at home the difference between right and wrong to find it out in the church."

Turning to the schoolhouse, Brandon declared that compulsory education is no more compulsory than the officers make it. "The chief difficulty is that the schoolhouse is not equipped for every type of mind."

Aldermen to Hear Proposal to Abolish Fire Dept. Jobs

The proposal of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, that the posts of division marshal in the Chicago fire department be abolished will be discussed by the council committee on schools, fire and civil service, Ald. Albert E. Loescher [44th], chairman of the committee, announced yesterday. He called a meeting of his committee for Monday afternoon.

ALD. LOESCHER. [Koehne Photo.]

There are fourteen division marshals in the department, at salaries ranging from $4,500 to $5,800 a year. The division marshals are all veterans of the department. They rank below Marshal Corrigan and his deputies and above the battalion chiefs. The proposal to abolish the posts was part of a $200,000 economy program for the department suggested by Mr. Jacobs.

"I am surprised at such a drastic suggestion," said Ald. Loescher. "The division marshals are men of long service, and render essential services, I believe, in directing the members of the department at large fires. A proposal to eliminate the posts, affecting as it does the life and limb of all our citizens, should be considered carefully.

"I am particularly anxious to know whether Mr. Jacobs contemplates dropping these veterans from the department, or merely reducing them to the rank of battalion chiefs."

Mayor Cermak yesterday squelched rumors that his economy program for the 1932 budget will involve any reductions in police personnel. There may even be increases, he said. There are now 245 unfilled vacancies in the department. If those vacancies were filled by clerks, at lower salaries than patrolmen, and 245 patrolmen now doing clerical and other inside duties were assigned to street duty, police protection would be increased at a substantial saving, he pointed out.

There was an air of mystery about the mayor's office yesterday concerning a visit of State's Attorney Swanson there, which the mayor's own statements did nothing to clear. He said first that he had met Mr. Swanson at the Armistice day ceremonies, and had invited him to his office for a visit.

"There is no news in it," he said, and hesitated. "That is, none now. Eventually, there may be."

He refused to amplify his statement.

JOBLESS RELIEF RACKET BARED IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Frank J. Taylor, commissioner of public welfare, today testified before the Hofstadter committee that 253 persons had been dropped from the unemployment relief rolls in Staten Island following investigation of a charge that many persons in comfortable circumstances were receiving city employment and city charity.

Of these 253 persons, the commissioner said, investigators had found that 155 are home owners with small mortgages and adequate family incomes. In fifteen cases he found that there were more than two in the family on the emergency pay roll—a plain violation of the qualifications to receive assistance.

Thirteen of the people who were knocking down a weekly dole under the unemployment relief program were owners of stores and other property and there were fifteen cases reported where the persons upon the pay roll were single and had no dependents.

There were nineteen persons whose incomes outside of the assistance received from the city ranged from $50 to $59 a week. There were eighteen whose incomes ranged from $60 to $69 a week and sixteen where the family incomes were over $70 a week.

The investigation of abuses on Staten Island, Mr. Taylor said, began after an exposé by an afternoon newspaper. Under his direction 100 investigators were appointed to look into the situation. That staff is still busy.

This maladministration in unemployment relief is costing the city about $10,000 a month.

The commissioner expressed it as his opinion that this would be the worst winter that the city had ever experienced. He said that within the last twelve days private bureaus taking registrations of the needy had reported 60,000 persons on their rolls.

OVERCOME AS HE HUNTS FOR SON IN BURNING FLAT

Aurelio Genz was assisted from a burning flat on the second floor of 9134 Brandon avenue last night by Fireman Andrew Gotas after fire had broken out in the two story frame building.

Geronimo Mendosa and his family, living on the first floor, and Genz and his family had escaped safely from the burning building when Genz missed his son, Aurelio Jr., 5 years old. Believing the boy was inside, he returned to his flat and was partly overcome by smoke before he was helped out of the building. The boy was found outside.

The fire caused damages estimated by Battalion Chief Matthew Gross at $300.

Grein Tells Women to Watch Scales in Stores

Women should watch the scales and measures in stores as closely as they watch their change, City Sealer Joe Grein told members of the Women's Civic club, 6 North Michigan avenue, yesterday. He illustrated his talk with a number of cheating scales which have been confiscated by his office. Mr. Grein admonished the women never to order food in small quantities without specifying it in measure. Asking for 10 cents of this or a quarter's worth of that encourages racketeers, he said.

Saving the Lives of Children

This year the staff of the accident prevention department of the club has been increased 100%. This increase enabled the club representatives to visit in one month, 663 schools, inspect 303 patrols and talk to 71,660 children. In October 38,700 schoolrooms displayed the club safety posters.

WORLD IS WEARY OF PRICE FIXING, STRAWN ASSERTS

Denounces Nostrums as Cure for Depression.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Price fixing panaceas have proved failures abroad and in America and the world is turning from them as "fashionable nostrums," Silas H. Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared yesterday. He addressed a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle on the subject "Since the Armistice."

He said the depression gives signs of easing up, that in 120 years America has passed through 17 major economic crises, some of them worse than the present, and that the need is to quit "whining" and overemphasizing the difficulties. He declared the people have awakened to the fact that they have been too liberal in lending money to foreign lands.

"Too many are complaining about being poor. Too few are admitting they have been foolish," said Mr. Strawn.

Question Is Now What to Do.

"I am not here to talk depression or to discuss the causes of our present status. That subject has been exhausted. As Potash said to Perlmutter: 'The milk is spoilt, it don't make no difference who left the icebox open.' The problem before us is, what are we going to do about it?

"Every day in my office in Washington I am visited by men, and women, too, some insane, and some only partially so, who have panacers for the cure of all our troubles. But I have yet to hear any plan that will bring us back to a normal economic basis so effective as that of doing the best in our job, day by day, and let nature take its course.

Sees End of Price Fixing.

"All kinds of nostrums have been tried. Several attempts have been made at artificial price fixing, that is, to substitute the law of men for the inevitable law of supply and demand. We have had the coffee valorization plan in Brazil; the Stevenson rubber plan in Great Britain; the Canadian wheat pools; European cartels, and lately the attempt of our own farm board to stabilize the price of wheat, cotton and other agricultural products.

"All of these plans were commenced with good intentions, with the avowed purpose of helping the producer, and yet they have all been failures, and I believe the people of the world have come to the conclusion that they have had enough to do with price fixing panaceas, and let us hope they will not indulge in any more fashionable nostrums."

"U. S. Has the Best of It."

After taking his audience for a cruise around the world in ten minutes, hitting China, Russia, Germany, England and other lands, Mr. Strawn declared the United States is better off than any other country.

"We have better homes," he said, "better clothing, better schools, better churches, more and better amusements, more and better of everything to make us healthy and happy, than have the people of any other nation.

"I believe the people have awakened to the realization that they have been too liberal in making loans to other countries. Many of these loans are in default. In some cases they represent the saving of our people on which they are dependent for a livelihood.

Praises Relief Campaign.

"The loss of our foreign and domestic trade has compelled a reduced production of many of our industries, and in some cases the closing of some of them altogether, resulting in a large amount of unemployment. Thus we approach the winter months with apprehension. Our citizens realize their responsibility and are reflecting their true character by responding most liberally to the appeals of local agencies for funds to take care of the less fortunate.

"It is an obligation we owe to society and an insurance against our country drifting into the deplorable conditions of those countries which have adopted dole systems. God forbid that we should ever do that. If we do, we shall not only have destroyed our initiative and become a nation of paupers, but we shall have imperiled the very foundation of government."

AUSTRO-GERMANS ASK BORAH TO AID FREEDOM FIGHT

VIENNA, Nov. 11.—Senator Borah, who will shortly receive an album containing a million Hungarian signatures in return for his recent declaration, during Premier Laval's visit to Washington, favoring a revision of the peace treaties, today was sent the cabled thanks of the Austro-German league, an organization favoring a union of Germany and Austria. With the cable was an appeal to Senator Borah "to proclaim for Austria the right of self-determination, when urging the revision of peace treaties, since that would be the only way of leading us into the larger German economic territory before Austria and this metropolis of arts is completely stifled in its present narrowness."

ACRES OF SPACE TENANTLESS IN NEW YORK CITY

Vacancies in Skyscrapers Prove Problem.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—This city's celebrated skyline should bear a huge sign reading, "For Rent."

Down on the streets and avenues of Manhattan there is an outward appearance of prosperity, but today one has only to go behind the plate glass windows and brick walls of the towering skyscrapers to find the interiors of many of them almost as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

The number of vacancies in store and office buildings is staggering. An estimate that 30 per cent of this space is unrented and that another 20 per cent is nonpaying or almost nonpaying appears ultra conservative after checking available figures and talking frankly with real estate dealers in a half dozen different sections of the city.

Landlords Have Woe.

New York real estate is in a bad way, even its most enthusiastic boosters privately agree. A consensus places the depreciation in value throughout the city at approximately 15 per cent; there has been $275,000,000 in foreclosures in the first ten months of this year; the concession racket, the shyster lawyer who wins rent reductions by threats, and the tenant who remains on rent free because the owner fears an exodus, all have contributed to the woes of New York's landlords. Crowded Manhattan has become the city of wide open [rental] spaces.

Property owners have voiced vague threats of a taxpayers' strike, and day by day the threats are becoming less remote. There has been a lot of talk of a mortgage moratorium. Another year may see some of Manhattan's better known skyscrapers sold at public auction.

"For Rent" Signs Abound.

The town is plastered with "For Rent" signs, although the real estate board prohibits its members from papering vacant fronts with signs. From the Empire State building roof more than a score of "Floor Space to Let" signs can be seen decorating as many comparatively new skyscrapers in the midtown section. The Empire State building itself, the city's newest and greatest building, is said to be less than 25 per cent filled. Authentic, official figures on the amount of vacant space in the show buildings of Manhattan are zealously guarded.

"You can't expect us to knock our own business," remonstrated one broker. "We can't be bears in this game, no matter how bad it gets," said another real estate factor.

Tier Upon Tier Empty.

Nevertheless, building men talked guardedly and one can see. The stores in the Empire State building appear to be 75 per cent vacant and a glance up the gleaming walls revealed tier upon tier of unrented floors. The Chrysler building, second largest, is not entirely filled by any means, although one great oil company fills its midsection at a most attractive rental scale to the oil company, it is said.

Each tenant in these two new buildings represents loss of tenant in some older building, and the Empire State building alone is considered a serious threat to every building in the Grand Central zone.

Figures Are Confidential.

The office buildings of Manhattan have been divided into six zones. The Plaza section [Fifth avenue vicinity, near Central park] leads in vacancies at the present time. Official figures from the real estate board placed the vacancies in the nineteen "competitive" skyscrapers on May 1, 1931, at 23.3 per cent. The figures from a more recent survey of this and the other five zones were denied to this reporter. He was told they 'were "confidential" and "for members only."

The Grand Central district with its 97 "class" skyscrapers was officially estimated as 14.1 per cent vacant last May. It is estimated that it is approximately 25 per cent vacant today. The Financial district with 103 big buildings was only 7.7 per cent vacant last May, but brokers have been fleeing the "ship" in recent months and informed real estate men place the vacancies nearer 25 per cent at this time.

The Insurance district, the City Hall district and Columbus Circle with a total of 72 skyscrapers have not been as hard hit as the other zones and will average under 20 per cent unrented.

Smaller Buildings Suffer.

In arriving at a general average, the smaller office buildings not included in the survey must be considered, the loft buildings, in which the unrented floor space is enormous, and the rattrap store buildings on the lower east side all are to be counted. The small buildings have been the hardest hit of all, brokers agree. Great stretches of the east side are 50 per cent vacant and the old loft district on lower Fifth avenue and vicinity is in an even more deplorable condition. There is no doubt, real estate men say, that Manhattan is vastly overbuilt.

"Any figures you get on vacancies will tell little better than half the story," said a truthful Fifth avenue realty broker when assured he would not be named. "I would be afraid to even estimate the number of tenants who are not paying rent or at the best paying only nominal sums. There are thousands of them.

Carrying Them on Hope.

"The landlords are carrying them in the hope of keeping their buildings filled when the turn in business comes. Then there is a city-wide racket practiced by certain lawyers. They bargain with tenants for a split in winning rent reductions and succeed in frightening many landlords into almost giving away their floor space."

New York's skyline is for rent, and if it is not rented pretty soon the mortgage holders are going to be found holding the bag.

High Price of Suicide Is Cause of His Arrest

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Jesse Jolliffe, 43 year old war veteran, today was beginning a six months' jail sentence for arguing with an undertaker over the high price of suicide. When the undertaker quoted him the cost of a modest burial ceremony Jolliffe thought that exorbitant and a hot verbal argument started. The undertaker called police. On Jolliffe they found a gun. When he was arraigned before a justice of the peace he said that he had spent most of the day paying his bills and wanted to see if he had enough for his own funeral left before committing suicide.

GANDHI REACHES A COMPROMISE WITH MOSLEMS

Agrees to Give Them 51% of Legislature.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Mahatma Gandhi today compromised with the Moslems on communal representation in the Indian legislature, and the roundtable conference was saved from complete failure. Whether it will be a success or not is too early to say, but everything now points to an agreement between the British and the Indians for setting up an Indian legislature with a large measure of independence.

This morning the deadlock seemed to be as tight as ever. Gandhi was told by Prime Minister MacDonald that he would have to come to an agreement with the Moslems voluntarily or a settlement would be "imposed." Gandhi had asked the all-India congress, Mr. MacDonald charged to recall him as a bluff. His bluff had failed, Mr. MacDonald said, because it was known in London, and he had been forced to refuse the order for which he himself had asked.

Gandhi Calls in Moslems.

Gandhi then sent Jamal Muhammed, Moslem delegate from the Indian mercantile community, to ask the Moslem delegates if they would accept the principle of joint electorates in the Punjab and in Bengal if they were assured of 51 per cent of the seats.

Sir Muhammed Shafi, Aga Khan, and Mohamed Ali Jinnah, three Moslem leaders, replied they would be satisfied. A meeting of Moslem delegates has been called for tomorrow morning to consider the proposal. It is considerd alemost certain the Moslems will accept.

Gandhi Saves His Face.

It is not a complete climbdown for Gandhi, for he has avoided the Moslem demand for a separate electorate. Gandhi will have to secure the approval of the all India congress for his settlement, but it is believed that he will be able to obtain it. Dr. Moonje, leader of the extreme Hindus, opposed the plan, but Pandit M. M. Malaviya, high priest of all the Hindus, signified his acceptance.

In view of this move, today's meeting of the round table conference at which Mr. MacDonald was to have announced the final British position was postponed. It may be held on Friday.

A long step toward a financial agreement was also made at a meeting last night between Lord Sankey, lord chancellor of England and chairman of the round table conference; Mr. Jayakar and Mohamed Ali Jinnah, two of the leading Indian delegates to the conference.

Agree on Three Proposals.

They agreed on three proposals under which the Indian federal legislature will have financial independence:

1. Debt services and paper currency are to be regarded as reserved to the viceroy's government until a federal reserve bank is organized under the federal constitution.

2. Pay and pensions of the services and the cost of the army cannot be altered by the Indian legislature during the transition period.

3. Regarding internal loans the viceroy is to be guided by the advice of a financial council, and he will have the power to veto, should he consider that a loan would react unfavorably on India's foreign commitments.

Tories Threaten MacDonald Rule by Tariff Fight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Although the general election was held only two weeks ago and parliament is in its second day, it is already clear that the national government's great majority has in it the seeds of disintegration and that Prime Minister MacDonald is facing the fight of his life to prevent the Conservatives from taking the bit in their teeth and running away.

GEN. H. PAGE-CRAFT.

A Tory "cave" has already been formed under the leadership of Brig. Gen. Sir Henry Page-Croft, who claims he has 200 members pledged to insist on the immediate passage of a protective tariff. MacDonald made clear, not only in his speech at the lord mayor's banquet, but before commons last night, that he will refuse any such measure until after a full investigation of all effects of protection on British trade and on the necessity of various tariff schedules.

Hits Potato Dumping Reports.

Tory newspapers, which are making a great play with the alleged dumping of foreign goods in order to forestall a tariff, had a blow today when their chief dumping story—that of potatoes from Germany and Holland—was exploded. The department of agriculture in its regular monthly report stated that the English potato crop is short 317,000 tons because of bad weather and disease. The total crop expected is 889,000 tons less than last year. It was also stated that the increase in imports is only the usual pre-Christmas increase.

MacDonald has indicated that before parliament rises in about two weeks he will have completed an investigation into the dumping question and if he finds it necessary he will ask parliament for power to check it. This, however, is far from a promise of an immediate general tariff, and unless the Tories insist, at the risk of wrecking the national government, there is little likelihood the question will be dealt with until parliament meets again in February.

King May Save MacDonald.

Whether when it comes to a showdown MacDonald can dragoon the Tories depends upon the king. Should the back benchers defeat the prime minister, he has the right to ask the king for dissolution and another general election. The king has the right either to grant or refuse it he feels some other leader may secure a majority of the present house of commons.

Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, undoubtedly would support MacDonald and go down with him but the Tories might find a new leader in Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, who is pledged to protection, or even in Sir Henry Page-Croft.

AGREE TO LINK REPARATIONS AND PRIVATE DEBTS

Plan Double Inquiry on Germany.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.—France and Germany have reached an accord on the handling of the reparations and credits problems after two weeks of negotiations. This was learned tonight. The gist of the accord is that the French accept simultaneous consideration of private credits frozen in Germany and war debts, while Germany agrees to the appointment of separate organisms to study the two problems.

The two inquiries will be carried on simultaneously. One will be by the consultative committee of the world bank, which will be limited strictly to the rôle defined in the Young plan—that of determining Germany's capacity to continue war debt payments. The other will be a conference of foreign creditor banks and German debtor banks to work out a method to convert frozen short term credits which will be acceptable to the creditors and yet will not bankrupt Germany.

Paves Way For General Parley.

It is understood that Basel has been designated as the site of both investigations, and the date has been tentatively set for the end of this month. It is pointed out here that these conferences in no way obviate the eventual holding of a general conference for revision of reparations and interallied debts. Rather, they prepare the way for it.

The Franco-German accord was reached in conversations between Premier Laval, Foreign Minister Briand, Finance Minister Flandin and Ambassador Francois-Poncet of France, and Ambassador von Hoesch of Germany.

Germany so far has signified approval only unofficially through Ambassador von Hoesch. Full details will not be worked out until after the German cabinet has approved the accord. Francois-Poncet left for Berlin today, carrying with him the text of the accord, which he will submit to Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

A great part of the credit for the accord is due Francois-Poncet, although it is understood the negotiations themselves resulted from Laval's understanding with President Hoover.

The negotiations with the German ambassador had reached a deadlock and the French ambassador in Berlin was summoned to Paris. His efforts were influential in breaking the deadlock. It is understood he gave Premier Laval and President Doumer a new light on the conditions in Germany.

The premier called in Flandin and the outline of the accord was worked up. Francois-Poncet then placed the proposal before Briand, who laid it before Von Hoesch yesterday. The latter returned a favorable answer after consulting with his government.

Cynical Prince's Betrothal Surprises Yankee Friend

New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—One of the few Americans personally acquainted with Crown Prince Sahibzada Nawab Azam Jah of Hyderabad, India, is much surprised to learn of his approaching marriage to Princess Dural Shehvir, daughter of Prince Abdul Medjid Effendi, former caliph of Istanbul. The last time the American, John Calvin Thorne, saw the prince he was told by him:

"I like horses. They are more dependable than women. If a horse throws you it will stand by until you get on your feet. If a woman throws you over, the chances are that she will find a way to put you in jail."

...D MIDDLEMEN, ...ITH MARKETING ACT PERFECTED

...roduct Buying, Selling to Be by One Body.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Ultimately if the farm board, working under its construction of the agricultural marketing act, attains its objective there will be left in operation no middle men buying and selling any kind of agricultural product.

There will be only national and regional farmer owned coöperative marketing corporations and associations handling the products of the soil and selling them directly to the millers, packers, other processors and consumers.

Competition will be eliminated all along the line from producer to consumer.

This says the board, is in accord with the decree of congress making the coöperative marketing of farm products the national policy.

Monopoly, which is a penal offense in the case of industry under the famous anti-trust law, is what the board is striving to establish in the marketing of farm products.

Contrasts of Industries.

To place agriculture "on a basis of economic equality with other industries" as the agricultural marketing act phrases it, the board is seeking to effect that restraint of trade in farm products that the department of justice is charged with stamping out in other industries by dissolutions, fines, and imprisonments. But the Capper-Volstead act of 1922, exempting combinations of farmers from the Sherman law, monopoly and restraint of trade in farm products were made legal provided prices were not "unduly enhanced."

Not only wholesaling but retailing comes within the purview of this far reaching experiment in the socialization of marketing machinery. The Land o' Lakes creameries, the leading dairy coöperative, is leading the way in the development of retail business. If all the government financed coöperatives go in for retailing also, not only the wholesale commission men but groceries, meat markets and other retail stores will be put out of business.

Goal Twenty Years Away.

How long it will take to accomplish the socialization of agriculture the farm board does not undertake to predict. It is conceded that it may take longer than in Russia, where the actors are working undr a five year plan to attain the goal fixed in their program for the socialization of industry. It may take from ten to twenty years. Within that time, however, the board expects that coöperative marketing of farm products will have become so widely and firmly established that the coöperatives will be operating entirely under their own power and will need no further financial aid from the government.

James C. Stone, the chairman of the board, who for some years managed a tobacco coöperative, now defunct, says that the development of the vast coöperative marketing system which has been undertaken is of far greater importance than the stabilization operations, such as those in wheat and cotton, to control surpluses and peg prices.

Eight Agencies in Line.

So far the board has brought about the formation of and is financing eight national coöperative marketing agencies. They are:

The Farmers' National Grain corporation, Chicago.

The National Wool Marketing association, Boston.

The American Cotton Coöperative association, New Orleans.

The National Bean Marketing association, Denver.

The National Live Stock Marketing association, Chicago.

The National Pecan Marketing association, Jackson, Miss.

The National Fruit and Vegetable exchange, Chicago.

These corporations and associations are organized under the liberal laws of Delaware, which subject incorporators to a minimum amount of supervision and regulation and nominally maintain headquarters at Wilmington, Del. All of these are now functioning as national sales agencies except the fruit and vegetable exchange, which has not begun operations, the beet growers association, which is a bargaining organization and clearing house for the exchange of information among the member units, and the bean association, which is still regional in scope.

Requirements of Co-Ops.

The corporations are composed of stockholders and the stockholders are coöperative associations as defined by the Capper-Volstead act, which requires such coöperatives to be operated for mutual benefit of their members and to conform to the following additional requirements:

"First—That no member of the association is allowed more than one vote because of the amount of stock or membership capital he may own therein, or

"Second—That the association does not pay dividends on stock or membership capital in excess of 8 per centum per annum.

"And in any case to the following:

"Third—That the association shall not deal in the products of nonmembers to any amount greater in value than such as are handled for members."

The corporations and associations operate in various ways but generally speaking their object is to pay the member more than the old line middleman would for his product and in addition to return to the member a dividend representing the middleman's profit.

Handles Twenty Products.

Through the eight sales agencies so far set up the board is financing the marketing of 20 products: Wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flax, grain sorghums, wool, mohair, cotton, cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, pecans, dry beans, sugar beets, fruits, and vegetables. The board plans to set up other national and regional marketing agencies to handle other products on which it has been making loans, including fluid milk, butter, cheese, eggs, chickens, turkeys, tobacco, honey, rice, peanuts, walnuts, grapefruit, oranges, fresh grapes, raisins, figs, berries, pears, plums, apricots, apples, prunes, peaches, sour cherries, potatoes, soybeans, grass seed, lettuce, cabbage, green peas, and green beans.

The board stamps out competition through its control of the purse strings. It refuses to loan government money to any coöperative engaged in sales competition with any other coöperative. In the case of the twenty products marketed by the national sales agencies the board loans only to the national organizations, which then reloan the funds to members' coöperatives or coöperatives that agree to affiliate with the national. In that manner the coöperatives are being forced into affiliation with the nationals in order to obtain the handouts from the government treasury.

Only One Selling Plan.

The board says its "policy is "to approve and to support only one national commodity selling plan and organization. This is done in order to bring a large volume of a commodity under the control of one management and to avoid duplication of coöperative marketing facilities and to eliminate the wasteful competition that naturally develops where there is more than one central agency."

When the board came into being there were 12,000 coöperatives with 2,000,000 farmer members, only about 500 of the organizations being large scale coöperatives. Chairman Stone says there has been an average membership increase of 20 per cent in the large scale and 6 per cent in the local associations in the last two years. Comparing "the 1928-'29 crop before the board was organized with the 1930-'31 crop, after it began operations, he said that grain handled by coöperatives on terminal markets showed an increase of 131,821,519 bushels, cotton 1,149,119 bales, wool and mohair 106,968,082 pounds, and livestock 334,289 head.

STONE ASSAILS BECK FOR ATTACK ON FARM BOARD IN CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Striking back at Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.] for his attack on the federal farm board made in Chicago last night, Chairman James C. Stone of the farm board today termed Mr. Beck's speech "a vilification of the farm board for the delight of those who are seeking to do away with the agricultural marketing act."

"We are not bothered much with the quibbling of peanut brains," asserted Mr. Stone.

Meanwhile, Representative's recommendation of legislation to repeal the marketing act and do away with the board began to partake of reality with the announcement by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] that he would introduce a bill for the board's abolition soon after the convening of congress. The King bill, which may serve as the spearhead of a concerted attack by enemies of the board, is expected to provide for a commission of three to wind up the board's affairs.

D'ANDREA FORCED TO DELAY START OF TERM IN JAIL

Al Capone's bodyguard, Philip D'Andrea, tried yesterday to start serving the six month's jail sentence for contempt of court imposed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson when he was caught carrying a gun in the courtroom during the gang chief's income tax trial. But there was no one at the federal building to accommodate him. D'Andrea appeared at the office of United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer and found the office dark and the door locked. He then appealed to his attorney, Michael Ahern. He was told that yesterday was Armistice day, considered as much a holiday as Sunday in the federal building, and that it would be all right to give himself up today.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE VOICE OF FREEDOM.

Mr. James M. Beck's brilliant address at the Board of Trade dinner Tuesday night made a profound impression upon those who heard it and the far greater number who read its message. Many political observers have come to regard Mr. Beck as among the few members of congress who can properly be called statesmen. What he had to say about the proper sphere of governmental action confirmed that view.

When Mr. Beck spoke disparagingly of the farm board and the law under which it was created he was speaking to a friendly audience. But Mr. Beck is no back-slapping politician, telling his audiences merely what they wish to hear. It is safe to say that he would have made the same points in much the same way had he been addressing Mr. Norris' constituents in Nebraska or Mr. Borah's in Idaho. That is because his addresses owe little to a showman's sense of what his listeners want to be told and much to a settled economic and political philosophy.

The speaker is one of the most eminent constitutional lawyers of his day, but he is no student merely of the words of the document. Its spirit is his. Its doctrine is a part of his life. He believes in the self-development of the individual, free of governmental interference, partly, no doubt, because of this temperamental kinship with the writers of the constitution, but no less because he has looked upon the results of their work and found it good.

"No better vindication," he said, "of American individualism could be given than that, with 7 per cent of the world's population, we yet have half of its railway mileage, three-fourths of its telephones, and nine-tenths of its automobiles. Certainly no people in all history have enjoyed so great a measure of average comfort." To be sure, he might have added, America has been richly endowed with physical resources, but there are other countries which are as rich or nearly as rich in these respects. The great disparity in welfare can be explained only in terms of the economic freedom encouraged by the constitution. That freedom is now being menaced by governmental control and regulation of matters which hitherto have been regarded as outside the sphere of governmental action. These suppressions of individual initiative have been made possible chiefly by invoking the clause of the constitution giving the federal government the right to supervise interstate commerce, but, as Mr. Beck showed, they are completely outside the spirit of the document. The interstate commerce clause was inserted to assure freedom of trade and not its opposite.

Until recently in this country we had come to think that freedom in the economic sphere was in the order of nature. History teaches the opposite. Free markets and unhampered economic initiative were extremely rare as late as the middle ages, and there was a continual struggle to preserve even this limited freedom against the sovereign. Elizabeth, perhaps not aware of the source of England's growing economic strength, granted monopolies to her court favorites, thereby threatening the ruin of England's commercial power. The active resentment among the common people against these government created monopolies, which ruined private traders and manufacturers, lasted for generations. The commoners who settled America brought with them the ideal of unhampered economic initiative. They and their descendants preserved the ideal, as Mr. Beck pointed out, until some fifty years ago, when the sovereign power again began dabbling in business. Since then the progress away from economic freedom has been rapid.

To be sure, the more recent invasions by government have been somewhat disguised in the robes of altruism. The farm board was created, no doubt, with the sincere purpose of improving the lot of the downtrodden farmers. What Mr. Beck sees, and what most of his contemporaries in congress do not see, is that a corner in wheat, whether engineered by the government on behalf of the farmers or by the sovereign for the private gain of a court favorite, is in itself an evil, both politically and economically.

Mr. Beck sees that in this country we are engaged again in the old struggle of freemen against governmental oppression. It is a fight which is never permanently won. It is fortunate that in him the party of freedom has so powerful and persuasive a champion.

GETTING MR. DREISER.

Mr. Dreiser says the indictment voted by a Kentucky grand jury charging him and a girl friend with adultery in Pineville was a frameup. It appears to have been propped up by the fundamentalists with toothpicks if the report of the Pineville watch and warders is reliable, but Mr. Dreiser might have known that he would be framed if he appeared in Kentucky in his mood and on his mission. It is sometimes remarkable how childlike a city man can be when he enters the pastoral scene with his high hat, although Mr. Dreiser as a country bred man should have been wiser. He thought he might get shot in Kentucky, but the truly good did not want to shoot him. They preferred to drape him with a woman scandal.

Such a law as the one used for the indictment of the novelist is used for special occasions when a particular person is to be placed in the pillory. It is not a reflection of community morals. They may be good without drastic laws or bad with them. The law in Pineville was not intended to harass the citizens of Pineville and constrict their moralities. It was there to do what it did with Dreiser—get him, as it did when the Kentuckians wanted to get him. He ought to have been on his guard and slept on the courthouse steps.

JUDGE WILKERSON.

The promotion of Judge Wilkerson to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals has been recommended to the President by Senator Glenn. This is a promotion which is richly deserved, for the judge has made an enviable record in the District court in the prompt, efficient, and able handling of the business before him. In the Capone trial he showed, in addition, courage and independence. He refused to accept the plea of guilty unless it was clearly understood that the court was under no obligation, either moral or legal, to follow the terms of any agreement as to the gangster's punishment which may have been reached by the opposing counsel. When the jury returned its verdict Judge Wilkerson did not hesitate to pass an appropriate sentence.

There are federal judges today who have shown themselves at once servile to influence and tyrannous to litigants. They have done much to tear down the respect which the federal judiciary has generally enjoyed for independence and fairness. Judge Wilkerson's record is in shining contrast. He has demonstrated on numerous occasions both penetration of mind and firmness of character, as many lawyers who have practiced before him will agree. His promotion to the Court of Appeals should go a long way toward indicating to all federal judges the qualities of mind and heart which will be rewarded.

It is of especial importance that these qualities be emphasized at this time. The federal judiciary is being undermined in two directions by the flood of prosecutions under the Volstead act. The great increase in the quantity of litigation has led to an increase in the number of United States District judges. The smaller the number of federal judges, the greater the honor of being a United States judge and the greater the personal sacrifice which will be made by able men to take the office. Conversely, an increase in the number of judges tends of itself to lower the standards of the office. At the same time, the Volstead act has filled the federal dockets with cases which only a few years ago would have been regarded as wholly unworthy of trial in a federal court. In effect, a great deal of the time of every District judge is consumed in the handling of what are, for all practical purposes, police court issues. Police court cases make for police court methods. There is real danger that the federal judiciary will decline in learning, in character, and in dignity. The promotion of Judge Wilkerson should serve as a corrective of this tendency.

AT THE TEACHERS' EXPENSE.

The proposed school board bond issues—$50,000,000 for the building fund and $75,000,000 for the educational fund—appear to be meeting with little support from the teachers. This is an evidence that the teachers, despite the hardships which they are undergoing, are not letting themselves be led astray by promises and false hopes.

There is little reason to suppose that the board of education can command a credit of $125,000,000 or anything like that amount. Neither the sanitary district nor the forest preserve district could find any one to lend a two-hundredth part of that sum. But even if the money could be borrowed, the teachers now realize, it would only serve to tide the board over for a year or two. Then the present difficulties would recur and they would be aggravated by an enormous annual charge for interest and amortization.

Any scheme such as this one, which adds to the total cost of school operation, can succeed only at the expense of the teachers. The teachers are beginning to realize that the limit of taxation for school purposes has been reached for the present. Many taxpayers cannot pay their bills and it is idle to pretend that higher rates will produce additional money; they are much more likely to produce additional delinquencies.

Money to meet the teachers' salaries can be found only through economizing in other departments. Unless such economies are made, the teachers must go unpaid. Money wasted on expensive equipment, school maintenance and interest is, for all practical purposes, taken out of the teachers' pockets. They are awake to that fact now, and it is one of the few encouraging aspects of the situation. The teachers and the taxpayers are now allies in the fight against a school board majority bent on using the schools as a field for political exploitation.

CERMAK IN THE EAST.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

Early guesses that Anton J. Cermak, mayor of Chicago, had come to New York state to act as a conciliator and make peace between Al Smith and Gov. Roosevelt did not impress practical politicians much and were promptly repudiated by Cermak himself. Asked whether he came to muster up support for some presidential candidate, he said:

"I am not here to muster up anything or anybody, or to muss up anything or anybody."

But Chicago's mayor has had long talks with John F. Curry and with Mayor Walker, as well as with men who are very close to Smith and Roosevelt. Also he has gone over to Jersey City to confer with Frank Hague, the reputed boss of Democratic politics in the state of New Jersey.

Perhaps a safe conjecture is that Mr. Cermak wants the Democratic national convention to be held in his city. Also that he has in the back of his head an impression that Illinois, in the person of James Hamilton Lewis, has a possible candidate, considering the overwhelming victory of Lewis for senator over the daughter of Mark Hanna in the state of Abraham Lincoln. It would be a mistake to treat Mayor Cermak's visit as a negligible incident of preconvention campaigning.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. H. L.

MANCHURIA, PERSONALLY CONDUCTED.

They seem to be crowding things a little over in Manchuria, and before we know it the curtain will be up on a full fledged war, and here we are, not yet fully settled down in our seats nor with so much as a glance at the scenario to find out who the actors are and what it's all about. While the orchestra, a somewhat noisy band known as the League of Nations, plays a very discordant overture, we will spend a few moments in studying the drama which is about to be unfolded. Japan, a few of you may say who have been peeking into the encyclopedia, licked China most convincingly in 1894. Why does she have to do it again? Also Japan trounced Russia in 1905 and kicked her out of Manchuria. What seems to be the trouble now?

The trouble, fellow tourists, is the same that it's always been; the steady, undeviating national movement of the Japanese to the west. Japan is a young nation and may have taken very much to heart the sage words of Horace Greeley: "Go west, young man, and grow up with the country." It was the Japs crowding into Corea that brought on the war with China in 1894. Japan, winning in a walk, remained in Corea, and after a few years owned the place. Then she pushed westward as before into Manchuria. This brought her into collision with the royal family and grand dukes of Russia, who were doing a lively bit of racketeering in Manchuria and horning into Corea. After the war Japan was not permitted by the other nations to take over Manchuria, as she desired. The country remained a part of China, and Japan had to wait. While waiting she has steadily pushed her immigrants into Manchuria, performing what is known politely as "peaceful penetration." She also established army bases at convenient points and developed her army and navy. This year seems to be the one that the Japs had written down in her books as the one in which she would proceed to finish up the job and take over Manchuria.

Ah, I see a lady in the audience rising as if to ask a question. Shoot, lady, we were coming to that, whatever it is, but ask away. Ah, the lady says: "But why all this talk of Russia entering the war against the Japanese?" It would seem to this lady, so she says, that Russia, having been expelled with great violence from Manchuria, and the country returned to China, the matter is one that concerns China alone. If the lady will look at the map we have here on the wall she will readily see the Russians do not wish Manchuria to be gobbled up by the Japs. As we have so well intimated, Japan regards it as her destiny to roll like a glacier west, west, and ever west. And west of Manchuria is the last great frontier of the world, the last great region as yet undeveloped and immense in all its possibilities, Siberia. And Siberia is Russian, and that is where Brother Ivan Ivanovitch comes in. Besides, the Russians regard their destiny to advance south and east and gently but firmly push the little brown brother back to his snug little island home.

I see the lady starting to arise again, but I can read her question in her face, and I will answer it at once. She is about to ask why, if Japan whipped both China and Russia so easily, there can be any doubt about her disposing of China now, or both China and Russia together, if the Reds should mess up in the row.

The Chinese army is not the same today that it was when it fought Japan back in 1894, and the Russian army is far superior under the Soviet régime to what it was under the czar. In the Sino-Japan war the Chinese soldiers knew little of modern arms; in fact, many of them carried spears and bows and arrows, and they wore hideous false faces to frighten their foes, carried paper lanterns and umbrellas, and had a most unmilitary habit of stopping now and then in the middle of a battle to have tea.

The Russians under the czar were well armed, but they were a soggy, stupid lot of yokels with no feeling of devotion to czar or country to make them charge the enemy and die happy. With the Japanese, patriotism, love of country, or what you will, is a religion, about the only real religion they have. They not only don't mind being shot all to pieces but they're simply tickled to death (excuse it, please) when the enemy drills them full of shot holes. Besides, in the Russo-Jap war, while Russia sent 450,000 soldiers to Manchuria, that was only a small part of the Russian army; twice that number of men were kept in Russia guarding the western frontier, the czar fearing that if he put too many of his soldiers away out in Manchuria his dear cousin, the German emperor, would jump on his back and swipe a big slice of Russia. The bigger part of the Russian troops, too, were from Siberia and small countries under the Russian yoke, and lacked training and the discipline of the troops in Russia proper. Many soldiers did come from Russia, but they were mostly old third and fourth line reservists, nice, kindly old gentlemen with long whiskers and wearing ikons tied around their necks so that the bullets of the Jasponki would not hurt them.

Japan had 375,000 soldiers in Manchuria, considerably less than the Russians, but much superior in training and spirit. Besides, the Japs were fighting close at home and could be reinforced and supplied easily; while all the supplies, food, clothing, and ammunition for the czar's troops had to come over a single track railroad from Moscow over ten thousand miles away. Which, dear fellow tourists, may be one reason why Japan is bringing on the war at this time of year. For that ten thousand miles is much more formidable in the grip of a Siberian winter than it is in the good old summer time.

GANGRENE IN BUERGER'S DISEASE.

DR. S. S. SAMUELS gives us some methods of diagnosing threatened gangrene in Buerger's disease and, what is almost as important, he tells us how to avoid amputations in gangrene from this cause. While he writes for physicians, the people should know of the methods, for two reasons: first, they should know of the service that well posted physicians can render; and second, some of the signs the laity can recognize.

DIAGNOSIS.

The diagnosis of Buerger's disease having been made, the patient is interested in warding off gangrene. The following test shows circulation in the feet that is dangerously approaching the gangrene level:

The person lies horizontally and raises both bared legs and feet to the vertical. The feet are rapidly bent back and forth at the ankles. This is repeated more than twenty times. The observer very carefully examines the soles of the feet. If gangrene is threatened, the skin of the affected sole will turn white or pale, or mottled white and red. The whiter it turns, the more advanced is the disorder. The paling may be limited to one toe, or it may be more extensive. There must be a good fight, and the comparison is made with the sole of the other foot or with the foot of another person in good health. Next, the skin is very carefully felt. The affected toe or foot will be found to be several degrees cooler than normal. There are delicate thermometers made for reading skin temperature. To use one of these would help in the diagnosis.

TREATMENT.

Dr. Samuels agrees with all others who have written on the subject that never, under any circumstances, should a person with Buerger's disease use tobacco in any form or in any amount.

Gangrene of Buerger's disease starts with a pain at the side of the nail on the big toe, and is generally suspected of being ingrown toenail. As a rule the person affected goes to a chiropodist or a physician for treatment for ingrowing toenail. If any operation is attempted, gangrene starts and is charged improperly to the operation. The first suggestion of a gangrenous breaking down is an ulcer by the side of the nail of the great toe.

Dr. Samuels is opposed to amputation. This operation must be done occasionally, but in the opinion of the essayist it is rarely necessary. The methods of avoiding amputation are as follows:

The person goes to bed. He is told that if he sneaks in using tobacco his case is hopeless. His legs are kept horizontal, or slightly elevated, and they are not allowed to be lowered under any circumstances. Toenails are to be most carefully cut, and never is an operation to be done for ingrowing toenails. The feet are to be kept very clean. Amputation because of pain is not to be done. Pain has a meaning in gangrene of Buerger's disease, and one must know how to interpret it.

It is important that the patient should drink plenty of water. Dr. Samuels advises injecting normal salt solution into the leg veins, as Dr. Silbert recommended.

The gangrenous foot should be washed several times a day in a choramine solution made with boiled water. Proper carrying out of this foot bathing is very important. After the foot bath, the foot is dressed with salves and protective dressing. The first ointments used should be anesthetic, and relief of pain is one objective. After the pain stage has stopped, the ointment used should be bland and nonirritating.

Making use of this method, persons with gangrenous feet generally recover after the loss of a toe or two; life is not endangered, and amputation is seldom called for.

TREATING PROUD FLESH.

Miss E. S. writes: What is the cause of proud flesh? I have tried burnt alum for a remedy, but it doesn't seem to help. Can you suggest a remedy?

REPLY.

Proud flesh is caused by the presence of some foreign body or infection. Occasionally some other cause is responsible. The maggot cure is better than any other. Direct sunlight cures some cases. Alum powder acts in the same way maggots do. It is efficient. If a foreign body is present it must be removed.

IT IS NOT DANGEROUS.

Miss A. D. writes: Is it dangerous to drink a quart of hot water, with a teaspoonful of salt in it, a half hour before breakfast? It is the best I have ever tried to move my bowels and I want to continue drinking it if it is not harmful. I have been told that it is very dangerous to drink the salt and water.

REPLY.

DISBARRED FROM CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—At the opening of the world war there were immigrants who had taken out first papers and had not been here long enough to get second papers. The country from which they came claimed some right in their service abroad. So did the United States hold them to military service unless they gave up their first papers. As they had no rights as citizens and did not fully understand what it was all about, some of them gave up their first papers. How can they now become citizens? Many of them would be desirable and make good citizens and are loyal. They are told that giving up their first papers precludes them from reapplying. If that law still exists, is any effort being made to have it amended or repealed? G. K.

The act of July 9, 1918, provided that any alien citizen of a neutral country who desired to be relieved of military service under the selective service law might, if he desired, surrender his declaration of intention, renounce his intention to become a citizen of the United States and be would thereafter be relieved from military service and be forever disbarred from becoming a citizen of the United States. That statute is still in effect and was a war measure.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was awarded a verdict in the Circuit court for a sum of money against a bus company. I am told that the bus company and its insurance company filed bankruptcy proceedings before my trial, although they had a lawyer represent them at the trial. The same buses are still operating, but under a different name. 1. How can I find out if the bus company and the insurance company did file bankruptcy? 2. If they did how are their assets? 3. Are the stockholders liable? J. W.

1. Inquire at the office of the clerk of the United States District court in the federal building.
2. You can examine the files.
3. In general, no.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 12, 1915.

ROME.—Only 235 passengers and members of the crew of the Italian liner Ancona, sunk in the Mediterranean, were saved out of the total of 428 on board, says a dispatch from Tunis.

LONDON.—Stories told by survivors of the Ancona agree upon these points: The enemy submarine, on appearing, fired a shot across the liner's bows to stop it. It then pursued the liner, firing many more shots until the Ancona finally halted. Efforts to launch lifeboats were handicapped by continuous firing which threw the passengers into a panic. The captain and some of the other survivors say some of these shots struck loaded small boats and caused the capsizing of others. Definite information of the fate of the Americans on the Ancona is still lacking.

LONDON.—The British government has closed the Suez canal to merchant ships "for military reasons," it was reported here.

LONDON.—A strong intimation of compulsory military service at an early date is contained in a statement by the earl of Derby, director of recruiting. Lord Derby's statement said: "If young men physically fit and not indispensable in any business of national importance do not come forward voluntarily before Nov. 30 the government will after that date take the necessary steps to redeem the pledge of Nov. 2." On Nov. 2 Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons that if young men did not come forward voluntarily and enlist, "compulsory means would be taken."

CHICAGO.—The Gary plant of the Indiana Steel company is to be enlarged at a cost of $7,500,000, according to an official statement by Chairman Elbert H. Gary of the United States Steel corporation. Blast furnaces will be increased from eight to ten and additional open hearth furnaces, a Bessemer duplex plant, and blooming mills are to be added.

NOVEMBER 12, 1901.

CHICAGO. — The plan of Judge Richard S. Tuthill of the Juvenile court to found a rural home for delinquent boys out of the World's Fair surplus fund, now ready for distribution, received the enthusiastic indorsement of Samuel W. Allerton yesterday. Mr. Allerton declared he would give $5,000 and his World's Fair dividend for the cause.

LONDON.—Respecting the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States the dispatches sent from Washington are considered premature by those conversant with the progress of the negotiations, but the completion of the business is expected with confidence before the end of the present month. It is said that the price will be between four and five million dollars.

SOFIA.—From another letter that has been received from Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, it appears that she is enduring the trials of her hard experience with fortitude, forgetting herself in her anxiety for her companion, Mme. Tsilka. The Bulgarian government continues to interfere in the negotiations, with the object of forcing a transference of them across the frontier.

NEW YORK.—Miss Maude Adams appeared at the Knickerbocker theater in a new four act play by J. M. Barrie, entitled "Quality Street."

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 12, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—The great south park case from Chicago involving the condemnation of the Phillips tract is to come up for hearing in the United States Supreme court in a few days. A large array of counsel is now here representing the different interests. It includes Melville W. Fuller for the south park commissioners, Col. E. C. Ingersoll and Judge E. S. Williams for John C. Dunlevy; Robert C. Shank and W. C. Goudy, representing William P. Kerr, and Robert Ray for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Phillips.

CHICAGO.—The market for December and January wheat opened somewhat higher and closed at $1.31⅛ to $1.32⅝.

WASHINGTON.—Guiteau says that he is anxious that his trial be proceeded with and disposed of. He bases his hopes for acquittal on the ground that the court has no jurisdiction. He denies that he is insane or that any of his relatives have been insane. Mrs. Dunsmore, at one time wife of Guiteau, and now living at Leadville, Colo., has been summoned as a witness at the tiral. The Rev. Dr. Magee of Albany, who also has been summoned, says that when he knew Guiteau ten years ago he saw nothing about him inconsistent with sanity.

NEW YORK.—A call for an Irish national convention to be held for three days, beginning Nov. 30 at Chicago, has been issued by Patrick Ford. P. A. Collins, and John Boyle O'Reilly, on behalf of the American Irish, and by T. P. O'Connor, M. P.; T. M. Healy, M. P., and the Rev. Eugene Sheehy, as representatives from Ireland. All sympathizers with the Irish Land league are urged to send delegates.

"THE VOLSTEAD ACT TOUCHES BOTTOM."

Collinsville, Ill., Nov. 7.—Your editorial "The Volstead Act Touches Bottom," commenting on Judge Barnes' action in convicting the home-brew makers is interesting, but the incident is not surprising. In fact it is thoroughly logical. The Volstead act forbids making beer anywhere for any use, though it does not forbid the use.

Nearly three years ago I wrote and published a book, "The End of Prohibition," in which I pictured the government, in a last desperate drive to enforce prohibition, entering the homes and arresting home-brew makers by the thousands, which culminated in such a debacle of swamped courts and crowded jails that it finally led to the repeal of the whole business.

Personally, I want to commend Judge Barnes. If the government will for once try to enforce the law as it is written, the people will find out what it really is and will all the sooner move for its repeal. When it is seen in all its insanity it will not last through one session of congress. JAMES A. MONROE.

MORE ABOUT GREEK.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—In your column has recently appeared a request that the downtown department of the University of Chicago, University college, offer in its next term a course in Greek. This University college is more than willing to do so if a sufficient number of persons interested in the study of classical Greek, either as a matter of review or for the purpose of first acquaintance, will signify their intention of becoming members of such a class. Hitherto our offerings of Greek have found no takers due to the general change in the attitude toward the classical languages in the more recent past. The statements referred to appear to reflect an increasing interest in Greek which is gratifying. Both University college and the department of Greek will be glad to make the necessary arrangements for an evening course in this subject in the winter quarter which opens Jan. 4. These arrangements must be completed early and persons interested should write to the dean of University college not later than Dec. 1.

May I say further that University college offers a wide variety of studies not for the teaching profession alone but also for men and women in business and other professional walks of life? It is always ready to serve those who wish to use their leisure time for study, and suggestions for the improvement of its program are very welcome. C. F. HUTH,
Dean of the University College.

PROOF OF NEED.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The letter by Morton C. Eisenstein, a student of Russian parentage who has attended Crane Junior college for only seven weeks, which appeared in your columns on Nov. 9, is an indication of the great need for junior college education in our city.

In the present unreasonably overcrowded condition of our high schools, the potential possibilities of citizenship on the part of the young people attending have no chance of complete development.

The earnest effort of this young man to do his immediate civic duty is obvious from his letter, as is his present lack of training to do it well. The answer is a good junior college for Chicago.

DOROTHY WEIL,
Instructor, Crane Junior College.

METROPOLITAN VIEW.

Maywood, Ill., Nov. 10.—[The Tribune is its editorials, its cartoons, and in its news dispatches from Washington and Springfield have an obsession for picturing Illinois as being "(as bled" for the benefit of the rest of the country and Chicago as having similarly bled for the benefit of downstate? Is that an attitude worthy of a great metropolitan daily that advertises itself as the "World's Greatest Newspaper" and if such should it not correspondingly broadminded?

I do not notice any of the papers of the great city of New York indulging in whines about being bled for the benefit of the rest of the country or of the state New York bleeding the city. They have been metropolitan so long they have outgrown that narrow viewpoint, I presume. They are broadminded enough to see that the immense wealth concentrated by virtue of advantageous location in metropolitan centers does not really belong to that district alone but to its exclusive use, either for commerce or for tax use purposes. If not new wealth derived from the exploitation of the natural resources and industries of the adjacent region for hundreds of miles—in the case of New York and to a lesser extent Chicago, accumulates. So it is only right that some of the taxes on this immense concentrated wealth should be spent on the regions of its real origin.

If any one has the least doubt that New York's or Chicago's wealth is mainly country derived, just think what would happen if by some freak of fate either or both of these cities was completely isolated from the rest of the nation. Inside of a few years the cities would be down to a mere shell of their former selves in point of power, while the rest of the nation would have suffered comparatively little inconvenience, save that of being forced to build up new centers of trade. Think what happened to Vienna when cut off from most of her tributary territory.

A DEFEATED AND UNJUST CAUSE.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—"What fools these mortals be" must have been written of such lofty minded individuals as the members of the W. C. T. U. and their counsel, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, is not blind and almost superhumanly loyal support of the greatest farce which we have ever had the misfortune of witnessing—or rather which we have been forced to witness. And now when they have finally realized the futility of their unjust undertaking, their "noble experiment" they have become vindictive. Let the next step forward who knows a little more positive proof of the fact that their cause is not only defeated but also unjust.

A COURAGEOUS JUDGE.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Considerable complimentary comment has been made about Judge James H. Wilkerson and it was well deserved, but how about Judge Michael Feinberg? He surely serves the public well the way he goes after those bankers and bank debtors. A few more judges like that and some of those racketeers will be reposing behind prison bars instead of being out in the open and fleecing the public. F. C. GIBSON.

SCHOOL LUNCHES BRIGHTEN LIVES OF NEEDY PUPILS

Food Is Found Weapon to Conquer Truancy.

Such contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 West 63d street, and 4325 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Thanks to the contributors to the Hungry School Children's fund, attendance at the J. N. Thorp school, 4th street and Burley avenue, is better than normal now. It was not always that way this fall. J. E. Mobley, the principal, was emphatic about that yesterday. Regular supplies of food for this institution, as for so many in that section of Chicago, are acting as a powerful deterrent to truancy and at the same time relieving the poverty there.

Every school lies almost in the shadow of one of the large steel mills. Around it are the sorry homes of the especially poor, many of them of foreign descent.

Back as destitute as can be found throughout the city furnish the only children many of these children have for decent homes. Smashed windows, sagging porches, paint so gone the original color is a puzzle, are part of their every day environment. Clothes are a problem, but not to the chief necessity.

170 Pupils Fed Daily.

Six hundred and seventy children receive the noon lunch provided by funds contributed by readers of this newspaper. Yesterday the fare included pea soup with crackers, a peanut butter sandwich, stewed apricots, and a graham cracker. Most of the boys and girls will subsist on cocoa, rebolled coffee and dry bread until they get another warm lunch at noon today.

"Our teachers still are buying the soup sandwiches to give away in the evenings to those who haven't had breakfast," Mr. McBride said. "We would prefer that this be stopped altogether, since the regular allowance is coming from the fund, but the teachers haven't the heart to stop. We don't want to encourage dependency, but the emergency simply is so tremendous that it's difficult to draw a line."

Many Children Need Help.

From twelve to twenty children in most of the rooms require help to get through the winter. In one classroom yesterday a question was put as to how many fathers had regular work. About one-third of the hands went up. When the total lack of employment was next asked an equal number of palms were raised. The remainder said their fathers worked from one to four days a week. Only five pupils in the room are from home owning families.

Valeria, a thin, bright eyed Mexican girl of 13, is an exceptionally promising student, but her prospects are far from rosy. Valeria is one of a family of six children whose father has not been employed since March. They pay $14 a month rent for four rooms and are behind in their rent. The children range in age from an infant to 14 years, and the family was described as especially worthy.

Another Case Is Told.

Two other children who now attend the school were left stranded in a small southern Illinois town last spring when their father, a merchant, failed in business, came to Chicago and, unable to find employment, committed suicide. His wife had followed him, an elderly woman who has not been lucky enough to find work. She went for her children and they are now getting a little help from another poor family into whose home they moved.

"This fund has been a godsend," Principal McBride declared. "We're so grateful—we don't know what we would have done without it. Before it was started we were at our wits' end to handle the situation, and doing it in a most inadequate way, but I would say that the food problem is pretty well under control here now."

Reproductions of 3 Noted Etchings Barred by U. S.

Three of 32 electroplates of famous etchings by James McNeill Whistler and Anders Zorn that were barred from entry by Collector of Customs Anthony Czarnecki when they arrived in Chicago from Germany on Monday were declared obscene by officials in Washington yesterday. Mr. Czarnecki sent copies of the plates to Washington for a ruling. Certain details of nude figures on the plates had been changed to make them obscene, Mr. Czarnecki said. The shipment was addressed to Franklin J. Meine, Chicago art dealer.

BOY SCOUTS JOIN DRIVE TO CLOTHE CHICAGO'S NEEDY

Donors Assured of Right Use of Their Gifts.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The chances of that rather good old suit of yours getting into the hands of a needy but worthy person have been greatly improved during the last few days. The Boy Scout organization of the city will lend its assistance.

The article in Monday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE telling of the difficulties of giving old clothes away in a fashion that would inspire the confidence of the donors, together with a pastor's suggestion that the used clothing program be maintained primarily as a neighborhood responsibility, was immediately accepted by Harry K. Eby, extension director of the Chicago council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Scouts Find Their Mission.

Mr. Eby pointed out that the scouts had been trying to find their place in the emergency relief program. He declared that the work of the 700 troops with their 18,000 members in the city was believed to be too valuable to be overlooked—and the boys, under the fourth clause of the scout oath, "To help other people at all times," are all eager to find their place of helpfulness.

According to Joel Hunter, head of the United Charities, the collection and distribution of used garments should be done as far as possible in local communities and through neighborhood agencies, such as churches, clubs and other organizations. This policy, Mr. Eby said, gives the scouts their chance, and they are going to accept it with characteristic scout enthusiasm.

A Neighborhood Matter.

The scout executive pointed out that every scout troop is connected with some neighborhood organization. Seventy-five per cent of the troops are affiliated with churches. The others are connected with various clubs or settlement houses. This fact, Mr. Eby said, falls in line with THE TRIBUNE suggestion, and also is in complete harmony with a policy announced last Sunday in Roman Catholic pulpits.

Instructions to the 700 scout troops are definite. Members of each troop are to collect clothing from their families, their relatives living in the neighborhood and immediate friends. This means, Mr. Eby explained, that between 30,000 and 40,000 home contacts will be made. Every troop in the city will be visited during the week of Nov. 14 by district commissioners "to see that the boys are on their toes for the drive and are well instructed."

Policy of Drive Explained.

The boys will collect only for their own patron church or organization for distribution only by that organization. This again, Mr. Eby pointed out, falls in line with the new Catholic policy. He told of that policy as explained to him by M. P. Jones, field director of the Catholic Youth organization.

"The old clothes of each parish will be collected and distributed by each parish but through the Catholic Salvage bureau, 41st and State streets," Mr. Eby said. "The garments will be taken to the churches or to such points as directed by the pastors. From there they will be taken to the salvage bureau, where they will be renovated and disinfected.

"When a needy person appeals for parish aid, a ticket will be given to the aplicant entitling him to certain garments which may be had at the bureau. The parish will then be billed for the salvage bureau costs."

Instructions to the Scouts.

The instructions to scout troops sent out by the Chicago council, bearing the aproval of Judge John P. McGoorty, civic service chairman; C. E. Gordon, chairman of the troop service committee, and S. C. Gorsline, scout commissioner, make the following provisions for the guidance of the 700 troops:

"Secure codperation of sponsoring institution and troop committee.

"Start collecting immediately. Collect serviceable clothes wherever possible [your own home, relatives, friends and neighborhood]. Also serviceable toys which can easily be repaired by your troop.

"At homes, go to the front door—ring bell or rap—when person answers, smile, salute, and state your mission.

"At flat buildings go to the back door and observe same courtesy.

Troop Quota Is Fixed.

"Minimum troop quota: Five suits, overcoats or dresses; five pairs of shoes, five pairs of underwear. Other items such as rubbers, blankets, overshoes, gloves, shirts and mufflers should be accepted.

"All clothes should be given to the troop's sponsoring institution for distribution among its own people or through its relief program."

"If your sponsoring institution does not have a relief program the institution head or some one appointed by him or her should notify one of the following relief agencies who have approved this plan, in order to dispose of the clothing: Catholic Salvage bureau, Jewish Social Service bureau, United Charities."

Mr. Eby said that a number of troops had undertaken this work independently of the council. Among these are troops 40 and 43 under the direction of Scout Master Robert E. Pegel of the Lane Technical High school.

...he hated to take a shower in front of others!

—2 months later he'd gained 14 lbs., new, clear skin

LAUGHED at, sneered at for a skinny weakling! Pretty hard! To feel only half a man—all in, no appetite, pimply skin. Life seemed hardly worth living.

But today what a difference—husky, healthy-looking, full of pep. The secret? Let Mr. Fanell tell you in his own words:

"I used to be just a run-down skeleton. The fellows always kidded the life out of me when they saw me taking a shower.

"But now, after taking Ironized Yeast for two months, I have put on fourteen pounds. I get real joy out of eating now, and always feel chock full of pep. I sleep like a baby and my complexion has cleared up, too." A. C. Fanell, 430 Main St., Winsted, Conn.

Watch Quick Results

See how soon your own scrawny figure will round out full and husky with Ironized Yeast. Watch tired feeling, nervousness, sleeplessness vanish. See complexion clear up—look and feel like a million dollars!

Highly Concentrated

The yeast is specially imported, rich "beer yeast". This yeast is concentrated 7 times—made 7 times more effective. Then it is scientifically combined with three distinct kinds of blood-enriching, iron.

SPECIAL NO-RISK OFFER. Get Ironized Yeast from your druggist. If you are not more than pleased with results from the very first package, money promptly refunded by manufacturer.

AVOID IMITATIONS! Be sure to get genuine Ironized Yeast. Look for the "I.Y." on each tablet. At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

You can find *halitosis in the dictionary but don't let them find it on you!

If you dilute your mouth antiseptic—then you must use one that kills germs when mixed with water. Most mouth antiseptics don't. Pepsodent Antiseptic does. And checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer.

HALITOSIS* the dictionary calls it. To most people it's plain bad breath. Millions have it. Millions fight it—but 3 out of 4 have been wasting their time. That's because they were diluting old-time mouth antiseptics that couldn't kill germs when mixed with water. Now they have turned to Pepsodent—the new antiseptic that you can mix with water and still be sure it's killing germs.

3 to 11 times more powerful

Here is the startling news in this new discovery. You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all its power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon in fighting bad breath.

Now security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath due to unhygienic mouth conditions 1 to 2 hours longer! Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And remember—when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic to check bad breath, you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. It has scores of uses.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

SORE THROAT • COLDS

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath for at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics... and it kills germs when diluted.

NEVADA MINERS PIN HOPES UPON 50 CENT SILVER

For Then the Mines Will Boom Again.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—On their toes and ready to go, Nevada miners, mine owners, prospectors, and promoters are watching the price of silver climbing out of the cellar toward the 50 cent mark and are eagerly awaiting the time when the value of the white metal hits a point where it again will be profitable to open a score of Nevada mines.

With any assurance that a price of 50 cents an ounce or higher will be reasonably staple, it is predicted that a hundred or more large and small properties will resume work within the next six months. They would provide employment for thousands of miners who were thrown out of work when silver mining practically ceased more than a year ago, when silver reached the lowest price in history.

Camps Now Ghost Cities.

Tonopah, Nevada's premier silver camp, the old Comstock district at Virginia City, has poured forth more than $700,000,000 in silver and gold since 1860, the old camp of Tybo and half a dozen other ancient and modern camps, now almost in the ghost city class, will spring to life.

There are several Nevada mining camps that are not wholly silver producers, but, in many instances, the white metal is found in connection with copper, gold or other metals, and is in reality a byproduct the value of which represents a difference between profit and loss. This is particularly true of several Tonopah properties. When silver is bringing 50 cents an ounce or better the mines can make money regardless of the value of other minerals. Where silver is found in connection with gold in numerous Nevada camps, the silver values predominate, and when the price of that metal slumps the gold values are insufficient to make the mining profitable.

Old boarding houses, deserted homes that once housed miners' families, are now being rehabilitated in readiness for a resumption of activity at Tonopah and elsewhere.

Resume Partial Operations.

The Tonopah extension mine, largest of the Tonopah mining properties at this time and the last one to close down when the silver slump came, resumed operations yesterday in one part of its extensive workings. The main shaft, however, has not been unwatered yet, and it will not be unwatered and work resumed on a large scale until such time that it appears that silver will remain at 50 cents an ounce or more.

Leasers working the old properties of the Tonopah company for the past two years have been mining high grade ore only and allowing the lower grade to go to waste.

FIND COUNTY'S ROAD ESTIMATES FAR ABOVE COST

Bids One-Third Lower, Jacobs Reveals.

County Efficiency Expert J. L. Jacobs yesterday made public a survey on 77 highway projects let in the eleven month period ending Sept. 30. The report discloses marked variations between county highway engineers' estimates of cost of construction jobs and successful bids. A tabulation reveals that the engineers' estimates exceeded the aggregate low bids by 33.8 per cent.

For the 77 projects, including paving, bridges, culverts and grade separations, the highway department engineers' estimates before bids were advertised were $3,715,353. This figure was $939,000 more than the awarded low bids which totaled $2,776,353. The engineers' estimates exceeded awards from 0.1 of one per cent to 116.2 per cent. The excess on paving projects averaged 31.4 and on other projects 42 per cent.

Survey Given to Board.

The survey was made by Jacobs at the request of County Commissioner Amelia Sears after the variance between estimates and awards was noted at several meetings of the county board. The report was sent to County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, on Oct. 14. Last week nine road bids were rejected by the board when they were found to be above the highway department estimates.

A commissioner hinted the report resulted in increasing the bids, though the report was not public at that time. The highway department has defended estimates below awards on the declaration that cut throat competition among contractors to secure county work resulted in obtaining bids below estimates.

It was also reported that many of the low bids were based on lower than union wage scales, the work being secretly done by union help for less than union wages because of the depression.

Engineers' Purpose Told.

"The purpose of the preparation of the estimates of cost by the county highway office is to furnish the board a basis of determining whether the lowest bid received on each project represents a reasonable cost and fair profit to the contractor," Mr. Jacobs said in the survey. "The engineers' estimates of cost must be based on a complete analysis of the specifications and conditions of work as well as definite unit costs which must be systematically revised with changing conditions.

"The variations between the engineers' estimates and the contract bids suggest that the changes in costs may not be fully reflected in the highway department computations, which were last revised June, 1930."

The report sets forth seven recommendations, which Mr. Jacobs previously made in 1926 and in 1927 in an earlier report designed to improve the accuracy and value of the highway estimates. Among the recommendations is the suggestion that the standard estimate figures be revised not less than four times a year and also that comparisons should be made twice each year of the estimates made with the state on projects in Cook county.

The city yesterday called for redemption $723,000 of 1929 tax anticipation warrants on which the interest will cease on Nov. 18. The city is in a position to redeem the warants because of the collection of additional 1929 taxes.

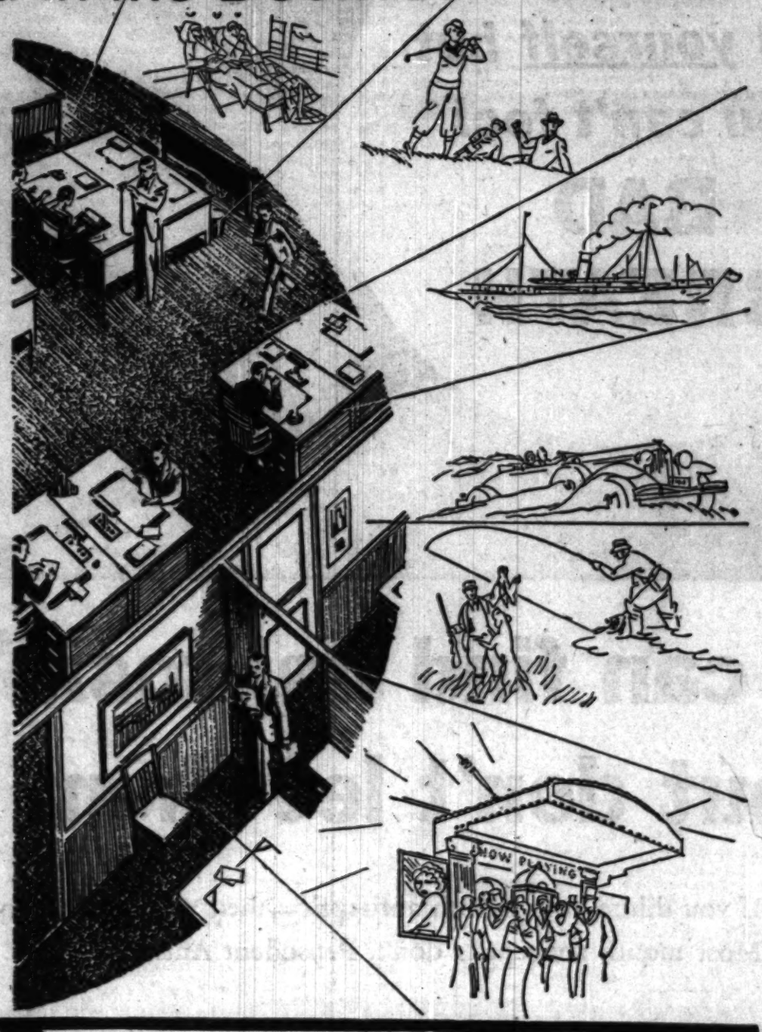
PROSPERITY
is cultivated in the Business Office



PAST events show that prosperity, uncared for, wilts. But the seeds of prosperity, planted in an efficient business office, fed with facts, cultivated with wise management, protected from the weeds of red tape, grow lustily and yield a rich harvest.

Now, as never before, is the time for directors, executives, and personnel to modernize office equipment and methods. A good start will be made by a visit to the National Business Show (this week). The dynamic atmosphere of this great gathering of efficient business devices and systems cannot but inspire new optimism, offer essential aid, impel direct action.

The handsome exhibits that meet the eye at the Show are composed of more than physical devices. For your business they are interpreted in terms of lowered costs, controlled production, easier sales, greater earnings. Not one item is experimental. All are tested, proved, ready for action. They are the product of masters of business engineering.

Plan now to attend the Show. It is dedicated to your service. The many and varied exhibits will afford you an unusually interesting and instructive afternoon or evening.

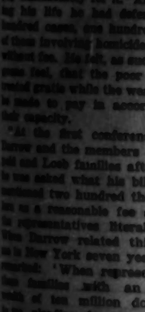
Darrow's Life Told in Book by an Admirer

Leopold Case Fee Called $70,000.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Clarence Darrow," by Charles Yale Harrison. [Cape-Smith.]

"CLARENCE DARROW" is the biography of a hero, written by his hero worshiper. It is a reality of the school of life-writing in which the biographer admires the character whom he greatly admires, then frankly and honestly tells the world why his admiration is unstinted.



CLARENCE DARROW.

It has none of the so-called "modern" touch of hanging one's hero against a barn door representation of his times, and throwing daggers around him to show his character. Sometimes, in fact—those literary critics who have left their mark and land between his ribs.

It is said that all biography in a certain manner is pillorying, or should be done, but the worst of it is it is less than a spectacle to give us even a good [if not always a good] look. The best of it, of course, was "Queen Victoria," is brilliant interpretative beyond comparison with the old methods.

"Clarence Darrow" is a good old-fashioned biography of, almost ironically, a person who is perhaps the most old-fashioned character in modern biography.

Mr. Harrison, however, has written a confined biography, full of interesting details. There is one piece of news in the book which never has been published before [so far as I can find out]. It concerns the very moot question of how much money Clarence Darrow got for defending Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb. Rumors named the sum at "a quarter of a million, a half million, a million—even two million—for his services in the case," says Mr. Harrison. The fact, according to Mr. Harrison, are these:

"The representatives of the family wanted to discuss the question of fee immediately, but Darrow suggested that when he submitted the bill after the trial, if the families thought it unreasonable, both sides would submit their differences, if any, to the Chicago bar association.

"After the case was over Darrow felt that, in view of the fact that his services had contributed in the main to the saving of the boys' lives, that the families should be called upon to pay handsomely for it. After all, during his life he had defended fifteen hundred cases, one hundred and four of these involving homicide, very often without fee. His belief, as successful surgeons feel, that the poor should be treated gratis while the wealthy should be made to pay in accordance with their capacity.

"At the first conference between Darrow and the members of the Leopold and Loeb families after the trial it was asked what his bill was. He estimated two hundred thousand dollars as a reasonable fee and one of the representatives literally fainted. Mr. Darrow related this story to us in New York seven years later he asserted. 'When representatives of the families with an aggregate wealth of ten million dollars came to me, pleading for me to take the case, and when I pointed out to them the difficulties involved and the danger of the boys being hanged—nobody talked then.'

"This began a series of conferences, dickering and negotiations. Darrow felt he could have gotten his fee easily enough by taking his clients to court. He reminded them of their agreement to let the Bar association settle the matter, but one member of the families reminded Darrow that they would be at a disadvantage because of the fact that Darrow was a lawyer. After a few days representatives of the families thought that an arbitrator would have awarded one hundred thousand dollars to Darrow, because the next day they came around and offered seventy-five thousand dollars. Disgusted with the negotiations, Darrow accepted, and told them to send their check along. The next day it arrived. It was for seventy thousand dollars.

"As he was to divide all his fees equally with his firm, his net fee was slightly over thousand dollars. Of this amount the federal and state governments took five thousand dollars in taxes, leaving a net of thirty thousand dollars, a very modest sum indeed."

She is vital, appealing, intuitive and possesses a lovely voice and fascinating manner of speaking. She has had the rare good fortune to draw Lionel Barrymore as her foil and Laurence Olivier as her shield. The former, though he, to a certain extent, caricatures the rôle of the lecherous chief of police, is, as ever, an impelling, a fascinating person. The latter has warmth, finish, understanding. He grows on you, this Laurence Olivier! At first you don't think much of him, but as the story proceeds he wins you over completely. Minor players are excellently cast and each does a sincre best to pour good new wine into the old bottle of the story.

Beset by horrid Muscovites, the most morally leprous of whom is Baron Stephan Audrey, head of the Russian secret police, Marya meets a young English correspondent, hell bent on getting at the truth of things for his newspaper. Julian Rolph knows a nice girl when he sees one, and Marya becomes a veritable bin of useful information to him. Also she completely wins his heart and allegiance. Then the baron discovers who is letting cats out of bags and gets very villainously busy.

God proves to be in his heaven, however, and on the side of the persecuted, after a long stretch when it has seemed as though there were no help anywhere.

Raoul Walsh has done a nice job of directing and the musical score helps a lot in taking the curse from dialogue that, one regrets to say, falls on the ears with a flat, ten, twent', thirt' sound.

No two ways about it, "The Yellow Ticket" is rather lurid and old fashioned "meller," but excellence of production lifts it from the ranks of the privates to, well, say—a possible first lieutenancy.

See you tomorrow!

Good morning!

A long time ago—before the war, I think—Florence Reed starred in Michael Morton's melodrama, "The Yellow Ticket." Then it fell to the lot of Fannie Ward to play the Jewish girl who, to get to her dying father in prison, takes unto herself the czar's insignia of a loose lady. Today—Elissa Landi lends her art and charming personality to the characterization of Marya Varenka, and if you don't like her—that is certainly not Miss Landi's fault.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Perhaps many of my readers have searched in vain for an application of the rule of eleven in these articles. If this is true, they need search no longer. Yesterday's play-a-problem was a perfect example. Here are the hands:

NORTH.
♥—A,8,7,4,3

WEST.
♠—Q,8,4
♥—6,5,2
♣—3

♠—A,J,3
♥—K,Q,10,9

SOUTH.
♠—K,10,7,6,5,2
♥—J
♦—10,6,5
♣—K,10,9

East opened with a bid of two no-trump. South passed, West bid three diamonds, North passed, and East bid three no-trumps.

I much prefer the bidding as given, but a very good argument could be made in favor of an opening suit bid by East. However, regardless of East's opening bid, West will show his diamonds and East will end up with this three no-trump declaration.

South opened with the ♠6, dummy played the 4, North the 9 and East thought a moment. South's lead of a 6 seemed to East to be an obvious fourth best of a suit. If East was right in his premise the rule of eleven told an interesting story to him. Subtracting six, the number of spots on South's lead, from eleven left five. This meant that there were five spades higher than the 6 which were not in South's hand. There were two in the dummy and two in East's hand. The fifth was taken care of by North's play of the 9.

What did this mean? It meant that North had no more spades. The only two cards he could have held lower than the 9 were the 5 and 2, which meant that North's play of the 9 could not be an encouraging card. He would not, therefore, have played the 9 if he could have played a lower card and by the rule of eleven he could not have held a higher card.

East's only chance to make his bid was to run dummy's diamond suit. The only possible entry to the dummy was the ♠Q. If he took this trick with his J, he would be blocked forever from his dummy since South would play the K the moment East led the 3. Since East knew by the rule of eleven that South held the K, he took the first trick with his ♠A. He then led the ♦A to get it out of the way and followed with the ♠J. If South plays the K, East can get over to the Q on the next lead. If South does not play his K, dummy will overtake East's J with the Q and the diamonds will be run.

There is no need for going into the rest of the play. East makes the two spade tricks described above, six diamond tricks and the ♣A. He may or may not be able to make extra tricks, depending entirely upon the discards made by North and South. He cannot, of course, take a chance of finessing the club for this finesse is made up to South who should still have sufficient spade tricks to set the contract in conjunction with his partner's ♥A.

There is nothing as pretty as the rule of eleven when it can be used and there is no other method as effective for definitely placing opponents' cards. Many tournament players and some authorities advise varying the common lead of fourth best by making occasional leads of third or fifth best to make it impossible for their adversaries to apply the rule. It is a moot question whether more is lost or gained by this method. While the adversaries may be deceived the deception works equally effectively upon the partner. With a good partner it is generally better to follow standard practice in spite of any information it may give the adversaries. With a poor partner, who is unable to use such information, and a clever adversary who can, it is generally advisable to make false leads to deceive that adversary since the poor partner seldom pays attention to the number of spots on your lead.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bids and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S, 3, H, K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

'Bartered Bride' Lively Comedy Though It's 65

BY EDWARD MOORE.

From opera considered as serious entertainment the Civic company shifted last night to light comedy, and with particularly joyous results.

"The Bartered Bride" is an adorable score, a brilliant model of what a light opera ought to be. According to history, it rates as an elder brother of most of the operettas, but in essence and life it is considerably younger than most of them for all of its sixty-five years. It has marvelously good tunes, dances that stir the pulse, good cheer throughout. Its most serious moments are only half-serious, but every moment is an entertaining one.

Take a work as good as this one, give it a cast that it is not far wrong to call all-star, play it in the brisk pace of light opera, and you are quite likely to have an evening of sheer delight. This performance combined lovely, graceful singing by Miss Rajdl and Mr. Marion, first class comedy by Mr. Kipnis, a gem of a marriage broker, equally effective if goofier comedy by Mr. Dua as the stuttering son, two examples of agile, well trained dancing, a circus scene that was a joy to behold—Mr. Ringling as the director is recommended with triple stars—a number of more than competent minor artists, and the whole tempered and pointed by the expert baton of Mr. Pollak.

Whenever I hear the charming polka that ends the first act of "The Bartered Bride" I always wish that a composer with some of the gifts of Bedrich Smetana would arise and do something with American jazz. There is not an accusation made against jazz that cannot with equal justice be made against the polka, small, tight form that makes development almost out of the question, monotonous rhythm, melody frequently commonplace, and all the rest. But facing these several handicaps Smetana wrote a polka that simply ripples and enchants. American jazz could be made to do the same. The only necessity is an American Smetana.

This sunny opera has been given some of the most attractive scenery in the possession of the Civic Opera company. It is a view of Bohemia that is credible, going even further than the gallons of frothy, amber liquid that are consumed during the performance. The costumes look authentic, and their wearers do more than merely robe themselves therein. Many of the choristers are given bits to act and they act them. True, the score does not permit them audible parts, but some one with a taste for pantomime has had a hand in staging the performance and consequently the choristers become much more than efficient singers.

So with a first class cast, a first class chorus and ballet, a lot of color and speed applied to a lovely score, "The Bartered Bride" becomes one of the artistic hits of the season and its repetition is anticipated with much hope.

"All our efforts have been placed behind the joint emergency relief fund," he said. "We recognize in this great emergency coördinated action is necessary. Club Women Rally to Help Bridge Tourney

Hotels Also Arranging for "Golden Cards."

STILL they come—more announcements of coöperation for the Chicagoland Golden Card tournament on Dec. 3, which was designed to give bridge players a lot of fun and to raise an important contribution for two worthy relief organizations.

The Shoreland hotel, one of twenty that volunteered early to handle the details of entry for its guests, added yesterday the information that it will serve refreshments to its players and will have a style show as additional entertainment for them.

Presidents of seven women's clubs yesterday let it be known that they are in and using their best efforts to have all their members play in the tournament.

They are Mrs. William Bennett, 708 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, of the Forty club; Mrs. Richard Salter, 1140 Ontario street, Oak Park, of the Congenial club; Mrs. James E. Brennan, 4850 West End avenue, of the Graemere Bridge club; Mrs. George S. Steele, 7408 Stewart avenue, of the Hamilton Park Women's club; Mrs. Alice Johnson, 4703 West Ohio street, of the Variety Girls club; Mrs. R. C. Luepke, 713 South East avenue, Oak Park, of the Arms Bridge club, and Mrs. C. H. Eldrado, 606 South Michigan avenue, of the Blackstone Women's Athletic club.

All the proceeds of this tournament over and above the exact cost of the cards and printing will go in equal parts to the joint emergency relief commission, which is aiming at a goal of $8,800,000, and the Hungry School Children fund. The price is $2 for each pack of cards. Play is in four prearranged hands and it requires four packs to a table. Four players pay a total entry fee of $8. Relief gets more than three-quarters of this.

All that players have to do now is to order cards and send in remittances. The Tribune guarantees to see that the packs, properly arranged and of fine quality, are in the hands of the entrants well in advance of the time of play.

The order blank printed herewith may be used. Application cards may be had also at The Fair store, the Boston store, Brentano's, Kroch's, and the Walden Book Shops.

Relief funds need the money. Bridge players need the contest. An easy

Cooking School Recalls Close of World War

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

THOUSANDS at The Tribune's school of cookery in the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, relived yesterday the thrills of thanksgiving of that day thirteen years ago when the world war ended.

Gathered beneath the blue dome of the ballroom 5,000 women lifted their voices, directed by the baton of Carl Craven, singing the two songs that will always be a reminder of Armistice day—"The Long, Long Trail" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Yesterday's cooking school, the second day of the second session, opened formally with a memorial to the service men who did not come back. A group from the Medill Post No. 343 of the American Legion, in the costume of Scotch Highlanders came down the center aisle, playing bagpipes, then taking position in the center of the stage.

The Rev. C. Claude Travis, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church, came forward and standing before the microphone asked how many present had a relative or had lost a loved one in the service. Hundreds of hands were lifted. The minister then offered a prayer for "those who gave their lifeblood for the making of a nation," and paid tribute to the women who are the makers of homes."

Then followed the singing by the thousands of women.

Despite the gray day with its drizzling rain, the housewives put their houses in order early and tramped through the wet to the Aragon. At 11 o'clock when the Armistice day whistles blew, several thousand women were standing in columns of four. They had been facing west, but they turned quickly to the east at the command of the policemen stationed at the ballroom entrance. A few minutes later the doors were opened and the women marched in with the orderliness of soldiers.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, well known food expert who is conducting the cooking school in coöperation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune home economics editor, began the second day's lessons with the making of southern biscuits right on the stage. As she announced what she intended to make, the women murmured their pleasure, and waited expectantly for the forthcoming instructions.

"The first biscuits I made when I was a bride, untutored in the culinary arts, were like pancakes—great flat pancakes." The whispered comments that followed this confession indicated that was no great household novelty.

Mrs. Chitwood told just how to mix the dough, using the edge of the spoon rather than the side, just how to toss the dough on the board and roll it.

"Biscuit dough," she declared, "should be placed either in a hot place or a cold place. If it is kept in the refrigerator until the next day, it should be wrapped in oiled paper. There are several kinds of biscuit you can make. You can make them small, sprinkling the top with brown sugar and covering that with grated orange peel, and you can wrap little sausages in biscuits."

After the biscuits came out of the oven a few minutes later she held the pan up for the women to see. Then she took one biscuit out to show how evenly it had attained its golden brown.

"Now let's look at the texture," she added, breaking one open, revealing fluffy bread. "Why, these look good enough——"

"To eat," shouted a woman in the balcony.

"Let's have one," said another.

"I'd like one," said a woman at the rear of the huge room. Immediately Mrs. Chitwood began tossing biscuits into the audience, and was rewarded with exclamations of delight as the women themselves broke the biscuits open.

Next Mrs. Chitwood made a Japanese fruit cake, which contained, in addition to the usual essentials, candied cherries, pineapple, citron, walnuts, and raisins. In a jiffy she stirred up the cake, blending the foamy egg whites with the chopped goodies, and the foundation of butter, sugar, milk, flour, and baking powder. She warned especially that the sugar and butter should be well mixed. A good test, she said, was to take some of the mixture between the fingers and, if the sugar was still undissolved, to beat it until it was.

Other recipes demonstrated were salmon croquettes, a molded salad of shrimp aspic, creamed potato cups, baked beans en casserole, beefsteak pockets, Christmas ginger cream, and carrot pyramid salad. It is urged by Miss Meade that housewives who failed to receive the recipes or wished to ask questions write to her department of The Tribune.

Dancing and music were features on the day's program. There was a ballet of eight girls from the Edna McRea School of Dancing; there were the Carolers, a mixed quartet from the Bush conservatory; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dickerson sang; Ruth Haroldson from the American conservatory played a violin solo.

Among the visitors who said a few words to the thousands of women were Fanny Butcher, literary editor of The Tribune; Wayne King, an orchestra leader, and Bob Elson, announcer for W-G-N.

More lectures will be given by Mrs. Chitwood today and tomorrow for the north side women at the Aragon. The west side women will attend The Tribune School of Cookery next week at Guyon's Paradise.

On Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 23 and 24, there will be afternoon and evening classes at the Coliseum for those who could not attend those on the south, north, or west sides.

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—After hanging poised for two weeks the ax fell at the R. K. O. Radio Pictures lot with orders from David Selznick, the new executive vice-president of the merged R. K. O.-Radio-Pathe organizations, discontinuing Lily Damita's and Richard Dix's films, already partly made.

Miss Damita was starring in "Chichi and her Papas," which Richard Boleslavsky was directing. This picture has been shelved perhaps permanently. Shooting on the film began Nov. 1.

Dix was making "The Lost Squadron." Paul Sloane was its director. It will be returned to the scenario department for rewriting. Scenes had been shot on this picture for eight days.

Changes in studio attitude on pictures under the new studio executive control, and the carrying out of a general economy policy are behind the withdrawal of the two pictures.

The bazaar is to be on Tuesday, Nov. 24.

Miss Barbara Graf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graf of 4840 Woodburn avenue, wore a pale yellow velvet gown edged with kolinsky for the presentation tea her parents gave for her yesterday afternoon at the Women's Athletic club.

Mrs. Graf wore a brown crêpe dress with a velvet jacket and hat. The debutante's two aunts, Mrs. Edward F. Newhall of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. William Arthur Elliott of Washing- ton, D. C., assisted in the receiving line. After the tea, Mr. and Mrs. Graf were hosts at a dinner dance at the Tavern club for their daughter and her debutante.

Tolstoy Visuals to Have Real Parisian Atmosphere.

Mrs. Howard Linn, chairman of the Allied Arts institute benefit tableaux musical program at Orchestra hall next Tuesday evening, has thought up a unique innovation for the occasion. There is to be a real French entr'acte, with a group of young men playing the rôle of waiters à la Café de la Paix and dispensing food and drink to the audience between acts, as is done in Parisian theaters. Walter Brune, Arthur Meeker Jr., John R. Thorne, Talbott Wegg, Edward L. Ryerson, Albert H. Gardner, Shepard Vogelgesang, and Alfred Shaw are going to be the waiters.

The Cliff Dwellers are to hold their annual harvest home dinner a week from Saturday evening. It's to be a stag affair, as always, and the pro- gram will include a play written, I understand, expressly for the occasion by Richard Atwater.

The Chicago Drama league an- nounces a Sunday evening supper at the Casino on Nov. 29. Dr. Paul Shorey is to lecture thereafter on "A Digression from Lysistrata."

way is offered all to contribute to the funds. The time to do it is now.

As for the play, that is, likewise, made simple. The prearranged hands are distributed the night of the tour- nament, each player in turn acting as dealer. North and South play against East and West. Perfect play would find the scores almost exactly even. Th championship at each table will be determined by skill and not by luck.

That there may be no possible mis- understanding Charles True Adams, bridge expert of THE TRIBUNE, will discuss the rules through station W-G-N at 8:15 p. m. on Dec. 3. Play begins at 8:30.

At the end of the fourth hand scores should be placed on the official score card accompanying each set of four packs of cards and sent to the Golden Cards editor. From those most nearly representative of perfect play a list of players will be invited to a final tournament, where handsome trophies will be awarded the team making the best score.

Paris Dances Again to Rustle of Taffeta

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Now that the gayest and youngest Parisiennes are dancing around Paris, the success of the taffeta dance dress, shown by the couturiers in August, is established. Frocks of this crisp stuff and brief wraps of fur are quite the smartest clothes for the debutante in France.

Dance dresses of taffeta come in the quaint shades of the days of Em- press Eugénie. They are never in somber black or other dark colors. A favorite shade is sea green, and it is in this color that the Redfern dance dress in our sketch today is made. Naturally it is taffeta. Taffeta ruch- ings are its trimming, and these ruch- ings are being used on heaps of other taffeta dresses and blouses.

The bodice of this Redfern dress of green taffeta has a taffeta bertha that curves up in front to the left shoul- der and it is edged around with taffeta ruchings that begin on the left shoul- der by being tiny and get wider and wider until on the right side they are two inches wide.

Graduated ruchings, that dwindle to mere lines at the waist line and that are at least five inches wide at the hem, trim the petal panels that make the skirt of this dress. These panels are set diagonally on a foundation skirt and from the knees to the hem they are not attached.

With this dress is worn the little mink cape shown in the background. This cape has a small standing collar and just covers the tops of the arms.

Worst Enemy of Your Youth Is Worry, So Keep the Mind Cheery

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If some one were to ask you what, in your opinion, is the greatest enemy of youth, what would your answer be? Trouble? Disappointment? Heart- ache? Excess fat? Laziness? What?

None of the above mentioned are recommended as youth preservers, of course. But they're not youth's worst enemy. They're bad enough in their way—but the big gangster that shoots 'em down without mercy is WORRY. You've heard about him before. You've been warned against him. But you (and I) contribute to his racket all the time for the same reason other rackets are allowed to survive. Because we haven't the well known you-know- what to fight the enemy.

At the current moment there are more people in the grip of this enemy of both health and youth than the world has known in a long time. It may sound like pretty sickish advice to tell people not to worry when they don't know where the month's rent is coming from, when they don't know whether or not their children will be eating next week. But it isn't under such circumstances that one expects the placid countenance.

It's the worrying that goes on where there isn't a just cause that is so fu- tile. Where it is nine parts imagina- tion and one part only of suspicion of future disaster. The ordinary woman's kind of worry, I mean. The kind that goes on even when times are good. And the kind of woman these remarks are directed to is the kind who offers no resistance whatever to destructive influences that affect her mind.

She's in the grip of a habit, a habit cultivated and pampered, fed chiefly on self-centeredness. Women worry about what people have said or may say about them; they worry about their loved ones; about their futures, about less understandable things.

The world's worst worriers are folk whose energy and vitality are slipping. So the obvious resistance is to build up the health. Then, for a better mental attitude. Just as you can exer- cise your body into a more youthful state, you can exercise that mind into a healthier attitude.

Switch from the dark and brooding thought to the cheerful one. Don't groan. Grin! Grin, if it hurts, at first.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin, while playing in vaudeville in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a different nature. Irma marries Wallace and leads a dull existence as his wife. Wallace's young daughter, Mildred, and his aunt live with them. A son is born to Irma. He becomes the center of her universe. Wallace and Irma go on a trip to Europe. Irma worries continually about the baby. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York who has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a eugenic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace appoints Irma to guard her. Mildred eludes her guard and elopes with Scott. Wallace and Irma quarrel. Irma decides her marriage is a flop and takes the baby to New York. She gets an engagement dancing in a night club where she meets Russell Byrnes. Irma becomes Russell's mistress because he can give the baby everything Irma thinks he needs. Russell is called to Paris on business and Irma moves her menage over there. Bill Fitzroy visits Paris and mocks Irma. Irma is taken seriously ill with typhoid fever. In desperation Russell allows Bill to take Irma's baby back to Thrace with him. Irma recovers and speeds back to Thrace to recover her child.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

THE SCENE OF IRMA'S WIFEHOOD.

"Is Mr. Graham home?" Irma asked.

"No, ma'am."

"Is Miss Graham here?"

"Who?"

"Miss Graham. Mr. Graham's aunt."

"O. No, ma'am. She ain't here, neither. They're all out. There's been a death. I don't expect them back tonight."

"A death! Who died?"

"Who are you, lady?"

"I'm Mrs. Wallace Graham. Tell me quickly who died."

"You're Mrs. Graham?"

"Who died?"

"Some one over in Smithtown. A lady named Fields. Been sick a long time, so I heard. Are you comin' in, Mrs. Graham?"

"No, not just now. Where is Mrs. Avery's house? Can you tell me?"

"Mrs. Avery's."

"Miss Mildred. Mr. Graham's daughter."

"O, O, Mrs. Avery. No, I don't know where she lives."

Irma sighed. Incredible as it might seem, Aunt Tessie had actually dug up a dumber maid than Rose's predecessor had been. Irma thanked God that at least her baby didn't have to stand for treatment from this one.

"Let me use the phone, please."

"Yes, ma'am."

Irma rushed past the woman into the house. Not a piece of furniture had been changed since she left. The same objects standing at the same angles throughout the ground floor.

She went to the phone to call Bill. He would know where Mildred lived, but the idea struck her that the address would be in the phone book. It was, so she telephoned for a cab instead.

It came swiftly. Irma was surprised and glad. The old woman had been muttering vaguely to herself for the last few minutes. It had occurred to her that it was more credible that this beautifully dressed young lady was a robber than that she was Mrs. Graham. She'd never heard of any Mrs. Graham except the one who had died years before. This was certainly not that one. The old lady had heard in her time many curious stories about the return of the dead, but never one in which the dead had returned in a taxicab.

"Hello, Scott." "You don't know me, do you?"

Mildred's address baffled the driver when Irma repeated it.

"Which way is that, lady?"

"I don't know, but find it quickly and I'll double the fare."

"Okay, lady."

Bill had not been wrong in calling the location of Mildred's house "jumping-off place." Irma wondered how the Averys had discovered that there was a house out there. A swift glance made her willing to believe that it was lovely in the daytime. The house seemed to be inclosed by a small forest. How could two young people be happy here?

There were lights in the house, so Irma dismissed the driver and walked toward the golden squares that gleamed welcomingly between the trees.

She sounded heavily the large, old fashioned knocker which hung upon the door. There was a moment's wait, then Scott Avery was squinting into the darkness at her.

"Hello, Scott. You don't know me, do you?"

"Not for the minute. It's dark. Who—Irma! Mildred, come here. It's Irma."

Irma took a second to ponder her warm reception. Mildred's arms were about her and Scott was asking, "Where is your luggage? Why didn't you let us know you were coming?"

"How's my baby, Mildred?"

"O, he's fine. What a darling he is, Irma! I don't wonder you travel three thousand miles—though you're all skin and bone still—to see him. We just adore him. He's a child in a million."

"Where is he? I want to see him."

"Certainly. Get your things off. They're both up on the third floor. They don't hear the radio or anything there——"

"O, yes, I forgot," Irma said, breathlessly, as she ran up the stairs. "How is your baby?"

"He's fine, too. Thank God."

"I heard he was wonderfully healthy."

"Yes. Didn't he have to be? Look at Scott and me."

Irma giggled. "Every time I come home from Europe feverishly excited about my baby you talk eugenic children to me. This all seems as though I'd lived through it before. Which room is it, Mildred?"

Mildred threw open a door at the rear of the house. Irma tiptoed into a darkness that was sweet with a spacious airiness.

"I'll put on the light, Irma. I know you want to see him," Mildred whispered.

The room glowed suddenly with several small, dim lights. Irma saw a thirty foot room that was not her idea of a nursery at all. Many windows, to be sure, and all of them high enough to remove the awful falling hazard, but no carpet alive with color or wall paper resplendent with stars and dancing dairy maids. At one side was a crib where the Avery infant lay wrapped in dreams. On the other side lay Martin in a little white enamel bed.

Irma bent over and touched ever so lightly his small hands and the slumber-flushed face. He looked well and he breathed with the ease and silence of a child who sleeps well. How white the coverlet was that covered him, how clean and clear of dust was even the farthest corner of this huge room! Irma looked at Mildred with a wondering awe that she had never felt for any woman before.

She straightened up and tiptoed away from the bed. She wanted to talk to Martin. She wanted to hear him laugh; but it would not be fair to awaken Mildred's baby. She could wait till tomorrow now. He was alive and well.

A thought struck her as they descended the stairs. "Where does Mademoiselle sleep?" she asked.

"Mademoiselle is not here."

"She's not here? Where is she?"

"In New York. She left an address at which you could reach her when you wanted her."

"O." Irma thought this over as she seated herself in the large, old fashioned living room. No doubt Mildred's home had not been suited to the tastes of a very superior domestic. Still, Mademoiselle's duty was to stay with Martin, even if it meant living in a pre-revolutionary war house. "She had no business leaving," she said.

Mildred smiled. "She had no choice, Irma. I told her to go."

"Why?"

"I couldn't be responsible for a child, Irma, who was being bossed by some one I totally disapproved of."

Irma gasped. "You disapproved of Mademoiselle?"

"Absolutely. Do you know that she wouldn't let Martin play with the children around here? She wouldn't let him climb or try to ride a three wheel bike, and, believe it or not, she got a doctor out here for nothing. Martin was well, but, 'O, Madame,' says Mademoiselle, 'he must be watched constantly.' Why, she'd have the boy a hypochondriac."

Irma looked away from Mildred's earnest young face only to confront the grinning countenance of Scott. His grin revealed that both he and Mildred were aware that Mademoiselle had acted upon Irma's orders. Mildred was telling her in a nice, innocent way what the Averys thought of her. Well, there was no point in arguing about it. Just by a lucky chance, nothing had happened to Martin, and they'd probably been as decent to him as such young, careless people would know how to be. She'd hold her tongue.

"You see," Mildred went on, "I have an idea that I know how to raise kids."

"You probably do," said Irma, peaceably.

"I know how to raise them and keep them happy."

"One year of being a mother has given you a lot of confidence," Irma said.

"One year of being a mother and several weeks of being Martin's foster mother."

Children Toe Out, Then Correct Step to a Straight Gait

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It's not only hats and skirt lengths that change in style.

"Turn out your toes" used to be the admonition of every mother a generation or so ago who wanted her children to look physically fit—or swanky.

Now we know that "turn out your toes" is about the worst thing you can say to a child for the good of his feet and posture. The correct position for walking is with the feet practically parallel. If you know something about the arches and musculature of the feet and ankles you know that this position is correct. If you are a good long distance walker you know it. The orthopedist will tell you so and so will the child's doctor.

Some parents knowing that are worried because their babies, before they have perfected their walking, point their toes out. They need not be, because that is the usual position in the early stages of walking. The baby needs the off angle for balance, strength and control. Later he discards this foot position for the parallel one.

It may interest you to know the result in figures in this respect of the study of twenty-five babies referred to in Sunday's article. Of the twenty-five babies studied, twenty-three out-toed and only two pigeon toed while learning to walk. Other records made by other investigators have shown the same predominance of out-toeing.

If your baby is just beginning that funny, lurching, goose-stepping performance known as walking with help, it may interest you to watch his feet. You may expect him to toe out all during this time and for about fourteen weeks after he has walked alone. Then the straight steps will come and continue, and his natural way of stepping will be the right step, if you let his foot posture alone.

Incidentally, the more freedom you give to your babies' and children's feet the more opportunity you allow the muscles to strengthen and the arches to do the work for which nature has so skilfully planned them.

Short and valuable references for mothers of babies are contained in our leaflet, "Keeping the Well Baby Well," which will be sent on receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

VETERAN ENTERS STOCK SHOW.

Five carloads of cattle have been entered in the commercial lot contests by John Hubly of Mason City, Ill., as his bid for championship honors in the 1931 International Live Stock exposition at the stockyards in Chicago Nov. 28 to Dec. 5. B. H. Heide, as manager of the show, has defined a car lot as consisting of 15 head, which means that Hubly will have 30 Aberdeen-Angus two year old steers and 65 yearling steers of the same breed.

Hubly's winnings in the carlot contest in previous years have brought him wide renown. Five different expositions have seen the grand championship ribbon placed on his cattle. At last year's stock show a total of 347 groups of cattle, sheep and swine were exhibited by various breeders in the carlot contests.

The Illinois Crop Improvement association has secured new classes at the International Grain and Hay show this year for the utility type of corn. Growers of this corn will be permitted to exhibit samples of both white and yellow ears for the first time and a utility class has also been added in the junior corn contest. With the states farther east, which have been out of the show for several years on account of the corn borer quarantine, once more allowed to exhibit, the Illinois experts are making every effort to meet this increased competition in the championship classes.

The management of the International has increased the number of premiums 50% over last year and 1,585 cash awards will be paid to successful exhibitors. This is expected to encourage many new exhibitors to take part in the contests.

Patience Goes Far in Overcoming Little Weaknesess of Man

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Is a girl foolish to quarrel with her fiancé over occasional broken engagements for which the alibi seems pretty weak? Is she foolish to mind occasional slights and snubs? Is it better if you are so crazy about a man that you can't see any other to close your eyes to these things and pretend you don't notice them?—Modern."

My observation is that smart girls are taking a lot of the hooey out of Mr. Ideal Fiancé by accepting him for what he is. He is weak sometimes, a bit hard sometimes, maybe a little cruel. Any way, he is capable of lying out of a date he wants to avoid for some private reason of his own. But on the whole—he's a man the girl admires or loves to distraction.

Instead of being grieved to death over some little character irregularity, the modern wise one shuts her eyes and says: "Wait till I get him! He won't do that any more!" And maybe he won't. Maybe he will. Any way, she gets him. And that was what she wanted.

It's surprising what some women will take from men. Onlookers say: "How can she be so crazy about him when he does such and so?" The girl ignores the onlookers and their remarks. And more often than not the observer's predictions that her life will not be happy with the man are given the lie. Here is the last laugh. She has the man she wanted, and he, curiously enough, becomes the man she wanted him to be—attentive, kind and a peach of a husband.

I've seen men who were terribly tight about entertainment expense, humiliating their fiancés sometimes. But after marriage there was none of this sort of thing. I've known them to be short and sharp and rude with a girl before marriage. But by some magic sweetening process after marriage they were nice, pleasant human beings.

I've known them to break marriage dates even, but eventually capitulate to the ceremony and turn out as good husbands as needed. So, it would seem that in the long run the patient temper were a better gamble than the high one.

Food Talk.

In this locality most people like to eat whitefish, lake trout, perch, pickerel, and pike. These are fresh water fish and are naturally more common inland than salt water fish. You have seen them dead, on ice, but have you ever seen them alive?

Pike, pickerel, and whitefish are largish, lake trout are assorted, and perch are always small. But they are prettier than the others because they have orange fins and they seem to move faster than the bigger fish.

Whitefish are fattish-looking but the pike and pickerel are long and slender and green. The pike have bony jaws that project and give them a fierce look.

All fish are much handsomer in the water than they are out of it because when they are caught and exposed to air their coloring fades. William Beebe, who tells so interestingly about his expeditions to fish in strange waters, makes this point. When his artists make water colors of tropical fish, brilliant as butterflies, they are imprisoned alive in narrow glass tanks because if they are not kept in water their hues disappear at once.

Fresh water fish are not as exciting as salt water ones, but some of them are pretty intriguing at that. For example, there are fish in the Mississippi that are called gars and look uncomfortably like alligators. There are catfish there, too, that weigh as much as fifty pounds and have long gray whiskers. Because these are scavengers they are not particularly good food, though they are eaten to some extent. You would like to watch them in an aquarium, though.

The gars [alligator gars to the keeper, billy gars to the little boys who live along the river] have long beaks and the smaller ones are rather active. The catfish are dark-gray and soft looking.

NOODLE OYSTER LOAF WITH CREAMED EGGS.

14 oz. pkg. noodles
¾ cup milk
3 eggs, beaten
¼ pt. oysters
¼ tsp. salt

Cook the noodles in boiling water 15 minutes. Drain. Combine with milk, beaten eggs, and oysters and mix thoroughly with the noodles. Season and pour into a buttered pan which has been dusted with flour or sifted crumbs. Set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 F.] for 45 minutes. Unmold on a platter and slice. On each slice place a hard cooked egg cut into halves lengthwise. Mask with white sauce and garnish with parsley and paprika. This serves six.

PINEAPPLE AMBROSIA.

12 soda crackers
1 cup orange juice
1-3 cup sugar
3 bananas
¾ cup cocoanut
1½ cups pineapple, cut fine

Crumble the crackers and moisten with the orange juice. Stir and let stand while preparing bananas. Put a layer of crumbled crackers in a pudding dish, cover with layer of bananas and a layer of cocoanut. Over this spread pineapple mixed with sugar. Chill one to two hours.

LAMONT WARNS AGAINST DRAINS ON OIL RESERVE

States Must Prevent Waste.

...ervation of the nation's oil re... from the standpoint of national interest, was urged as a vital need by Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, in his address before the American Petroleum Institute in the Stevens hotel last night.

A. L. BRATT. [Bruno Photo.]

Responsibility for conserving this natural resource, which, he declared, is being exhausted out of all proportion to the ratio between our own reserves of them of the rest of the world, ...ly with the seven leading oil ...ducing states, according to Mr. ...ont. He advocated an interstate ...ompact board, similar to the gentle... agreement already existing be... the public service commissions ...f Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas, to ...regulate production and eliminate ...waste.

Vital to National Defense.

"The petroleum supply, from the ...standpoint of our national interest ...and national defense, is a vital re...source, Mr. Lamont said. He pointed ...out that 261 of the 291 seagoing ves...sels in active service in the navy are ...oil burning, that all the 2,800 planes ...in the army and navy use petroleum ...products, that 80 per cent of the ...horsepower of all our prime movers, ...locomotive and stationary, is generated ...by oil, and that 26,000,000 automo...biles derive their power from it. The ...United States collected 494 million ...dollars in gasoline taxes in 1930, he ...said.

"It should be kept in mind," Mr. ...Lamont asserted, "that the United ...States, with less than 20 per cent of ...the world's oil reserves, is producing ...and consuming over 60 per cent of ...current world production."

Urges Interstate Compact.

The plan advocated by the secretary of commerce calls for an interstate compact, approved by congress, for putting on a permanent basis the periodical forecasting of demand, the setting of state production quotas to meet that demand, and enforcement of such quotas by the regulatory commissions or the police powers of the states.

A joint federal and state fact finding body would arrive at an equation of domestic and foreign production and consumer imports. Laws within the oil producing states would regulate drilling, extension of pipe lines, and control production methods to eliminate waste.

Resolutions providing for the formation of state committees to combat gasoline bootlegging, and indorsing a tariff on the importation of crude oil and its derivatives were adopted by the board of the institute.

The resolution for fighting gasoline bootlegging, adopted after disclosures that millions of dollars that should go to the building of highways are lost to the various states annually, said:

"Gasoline tax evasion has become a widespread that it threatens to defeat the reason for its existence and has become a serious menace to the industry."

Fine Hall Vote on Tariff.

The vote on the tariff proposal was ... to 16, with 21 members of the board absent and 14 present not voting. The resolution called for a mail vote of all members of the institute on this proposal.

Amos L. Beaty of New York, a director of the Phillips Petroleum company and for years treasurer of the Petroleum Institute, was elected president to succeed E. B. Reeser of Tulsa.

In discussing oil production methods ... Peter Fox of the Sun Oil company, Philadelphia, declared that the industry had lost hundreds of millions of dollars in the last five years because of legal restrictions, waste, improper development of fields, and the abandonment of small fields, forced by the expansion of flush fields.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting cough medicine you ever used. The way it loosens a bad cough, giving soothing relief, is astonishing. Any druggist can supply you with Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. No trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it has a direct action on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the cough-producing germs. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known is more helpful in cases of stubborn coughs and bronchial irritations. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

FINLAND DRY LAW UNDER ATTACK IN OFFICIAL REPORT

Change Is Asked to Permit Beer, Wine.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 11.—(AP)—A report declaring Finland's prohibition law to be insupportable and recommending that beer and wines be legalized will be submitted soon by the government commission appointed last winter to study the problem.

The majority report, it was learned on the highest authority today, will declare a change is needed in the interests of real temperance.

Offers Three Proposals.

It will offer three proposals:

1. To permit the manufacture, transportation, storage and importation of wines of not more than 12 per cent alcoholic content by volume, of beer of 3.1 per cent and liqueurs of 12 per cent.

2. To amend the present laws to make that proposal possible, and to establish a system of local option by which any community might forbid the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, but not the importation by individuals for personal consumption in their homes; communities would be forbidden to confiscate beverages stored in homes for personal consumption.

3. To establish a company to supervise distribution of legal alcoholic beverages.

Hope To Cut Drinking.

The report expresses the hope that the consumption of strong spirits would be lessened under the 12 per cent law.

Under the proposed system the state would derive taxes from liquor, but the investigators report they have no illusions regarding the revenue to be derived, as they believe home manufacture of beer and wine would increase. The commissioners say in their report that to stop home manufacture is beyond the government's capacity.

Finland has been under prohibition for twelve years. There has been much agitation against the law.

GREEK STUDENTS FIGHT POLICE; ASK CYPRUS UNION

ATHENS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Armistice day here was marked by demonstrations throughout Greece for a union with the British governed island of Cyprus, where serious disturbances occurred several weeks ago. Several policemen and students and one professor were wounded in a resulting clash.

Premier Venizelos issued a vigorous proclamation forbidding any demonstration before the British legation. He condemned the recent disorders on Cyprus and threatened to resign if the Cyprian agitation continues.

A petition for the union was presented to Admiral Paul Coundouriote, former president of the republic and now chairman of the pro-Cyprus committee. During the ceremony all shops were closed and all traffic was stopped for 15 minutes.

MISSIONARIES SWINDLED HER, SQUAW CHARGES

Sues Baptist Board for $100,000.

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Suma Burgess, Indian woman of the Creek nation in Oklahoma, has filed suit in the United States District court to recover $100,000 from the American Baptist Home Mission society, claiming that property owned by herself and her mother, equivalent to the amount sued for, was converted to the use of the society through a conspiracy with government officials and agents in charge of Indian affairs.

Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet, is named in the complaint as the official who gave final approval to the contracts and deeds transferring the property to the society after it had been "falsely and fraudulently represented that the property was intended as a loan to the society."

The complaint sets forth that Suma Burgess and her mother, Lucy Poloke, who died March 12, 1928, received the property in the form of government bonds as Creek Indians. On Sept. 17, 1923, there had accrued to her mother approximately $83,000 and to herself $17,000, all of which was in the hands of the secretary of the interior for safe keeping.

It was falsely represented to them, Mrs. Burgess continues, that the secretary of the interior desired to have the property loaned to the society under an arrangement whereby Mrs. Burgess and her mother would receive a life income of 5 per cent.

Do you actually know what the chances are:

1) that your teeth are really cleaned;

Care of your teeth is a poor place for guesswork. But do you actually know—beyond doubt or guesswork—that your tooth paste is really cleaning your teeth, without scratching them?

UNIVERSITY LABORATORY TESTS

of 10 tooth pastes find only ONE that

a) REALLY CLEANED TEETH

b) WITHOUT SCRATCHING ENAMEL!

To eliminate risky guesswork, find out these two things about any dentifrice:

Will it really clean teeth thoroughly? Will it clean without scratching?

On these two points a great university laboratory has tested ten typical tooth pastes—DR. WEST'S and nine others. Results were startling.

SEVEN OF THE 10 DID NOT CLEAN—and two of these scratched enamel

TWO OTHERS DID CLEAN—BUT BOTH OF THESE SCRATCHED THE ENAMEL!

ONLY ONE—DR. WEST'S—REALLY CLEANED TEETH WITHOUT SCRATCHING ENAMEL

The tests were scientifically thorough and accurate. Each dentifrice was tested on normal teeth—both for cleansing power and effect upon enamel. Delicate instruments and powerful camera lenses measured and recorded the results.

Do you now think guesswork, with all its risks, is justified? With DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste there is no guesswork!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The American team of Freddie Spencer and Al Crowley spent the first two nights and days of the six day bike race at the Chicago Stadium piling up more sprint points than any other combination. But sprint tricycle wins no glory or headlines—and for three days and nights a flock of point gains have been grabbing all the glory and many of the headlines to be proven in the strenuous art of staying the field.

Having a pronounced sense of the dramatic, Freddie and Al selected the patriotic setting of Armistice night to outwit the situation and through a bit of cool riding, especially by Spencer, the Yankee boys stepped right into the lead.

Three Tie in Mileage.

The flag waving was with some slight reservations, however, for in passing ties with the Americans were the Belgian team of Van Buggenhout and Rogiers, 62 sprint points behind the leaders, and the German-American team of Dudleng and Grimm, 55 sprint points back of the pacemakers.

At midnight three teams comprised the second flight, one lap back of the three leading teams. The flight was made up of McNamara-Guerra, Cousy-Pasquale, and Ritter-J. Walthour. Lohmeier and Goldsticker, former favorites who were taken to task by their contemporaries for rough riding Tuesday night, were knocked back to tenth place and every move they made was challenged by whatever riders felt like pulling them down.

Three Teams Ruled Out.

Bobby Walthour and Norman Hill, among the leaders in previous races, became the tailenders when three of the leading pairs were ruled off the track at 9:30 o'clock.

The night witnessed the worst spill of the race when Harris Horder went down with Greg Hatlow just before the latter was sent out of the race. Horder caused a long suspension of the race, and although he resumed it was feared he had suffered some cracked ribs and there was some question as to whether he will be able to carry on to the finish.

The first of the night's jams was precipitated by the teams of Joe Lilliedahl and Flatow-Wagner, who gained a lap before the more talented duo decided to operate. Then some of the stays busted loose and before the second jam of the evening calmed down five teams, including the McNamara-Guerra team, both Walthour outfits and Georgetti-Debnets, had stolen a lap.

McNamara-Guerra Lead.

Walthour-Horder and McNamara-Guerra locked up in a two team joust a few minutes later and the lap they had gained put them into first place all alone. McNamara-Guerra stayed a lap till about 8:30 o'clock, when Walthour-Horder rode into a mileage with them. Within the next twenty minutes five teams were in a mile-and-a-lap first place and ten minutes later that, eight teams, one more than [illegible]

Pro Basketball League Suspends Play for One Year

Play in the American Professional Basketball league will be suspended for one year pending a readjustment of general economic conditions, club owners decided yesterday at a meeting in Cleveland, O.

GEORGE HALAS.

Member teams will be permitted to play independent basketball without jeopardizing their franchises. Temporary disbandment was chosen in preference to two other plans, both calling for a continuance of play, according to George Halas, president of the Bruins, who represented Chicago at the meeting.

The other plans involved dividing the league into a western and eastern division, to curtail traveling expenses, with an inter-division championship series to decide the league title, and a continuance of play on the old plan under which competition was conducted, similar to that of the major baseball leagues.

Western teams in the league, according to Halas, have agreed to a cooperative plan, under which they will play a series of games with one another.

These teams include the Bruins, Fort Wayne, Ind., and the Cleveland Rosenblooms, which will be reorganized this winter. Toledo, which replaced Cleveland in the league last season, will not operate until championship play is resumed next year.

Halas' schedule calls for games with the New York Celtics, who will return to the field this year, and the New York Rennaisance quintet, in addition to several games with Cleveland and Fort Wayne.

Hoppe Leads Cochran in Cue Match, 1,800-1,093

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, challenger for the world's 18.1 balkline billiard title, was leading Welker Cochran, the champion, 1,800 to 1,093, at the end of the sixth block of their 3,600 point contest tonight. Hoppe won the afternoon match, 300 to 215, and defeated the defender this evening, 300 to 59. A high run of 179 marked the challenger's play tonight.

Stribling Knocks Out Pat Fay in Third Round

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 11.—(AP)—W. L. [Young] Stribling of Georgia knocked out Pat Fay of Milwaukee in the third round of their ten round bout here tonight. Stribling landed a right to the jaw to end the bout.

HOCKEY SEASON OPENS TONIGHT WITH 3 BATTLES

The National Hockey league race officially starts tonight. The New York Rangers will meet the world's champion Canadiens at Montreal, the New York Americans will clash with the Falcons at Detroit while the Blackhawks will help dedicate the new $1,500,000 Maple Leafs' Garden, Canada's newest hockey rink at Toronto. A capacity throng of 13,000 is expected for the last named game.

The Chicago hockey season will get under way Sunday night with the New York Americans furnishing the opposition for the Blackhawks at the Chicago stadium.

While the underdogs of last season were strengthened by players thrown on the market when the league dropped Philadelphia and Ottawa, some of the leaders picked up likely looking talent.

Hawks Ready for Battle.

The experience gained by the Black Hawks when they battled their way to the Stanley Cup finals and carried the Canadiens to the full five games last spring, a month of conditioning such as no other team in the National Hockey league underwent, and the added forward line strength which they secured by the acquisition of the experienced Jerry Lowrey and Paul Thompson, are the three points relied upon by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin to keep the Hawks in the thick of the 1931-'32 hockey race.

Lowrey came to the Hawks from the defunct Philadelphia Quakers by direct purchase. He was the team's leading point maker with 27. Thompson was exchanged for Art Somers and Vic Desjardins.

So far as the division of talent from the eliminated teams is concerned, Detroit Falcons, because of finishing lower than either the Bruins, Hawks or Rangers last season, fared better in the player allotment than any of the other teams in their division.

They secured a brilliant goalie in Alex McConnell, a sturdy defense player in Alex Smith, and one of the best left wingers in pro hockey in Hec Kilrea. A line made up of Carson Cooper, Ebbie Goodfellow and Hec Kilrea is enough in itself to keep any team up near the top.

Rangers Get New Line.

The New York Rangers, depending ever since they entered hockey on the Cook-Cook-Boucher line for scoring, picked up a whole new forward line in taking Milks, Jervis and Barton from the Quakers.

The Rangers obtained a star in Hib Milks, who featured with Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. Milks has been called the "one-man team" because of the smashing hockey he played with the two lowly clubs.

Both Jarvis and Barton made good records the past two seasons. Ching Johnson will carry the brunt of the defense and John Ross Roach will be in front of the nets.

"GREATEST" GAMES.

EVERY ONE with whom The Wake has talked about the Northwestern-Minnesota game of last Saturday says "It was the greatest game I ever saw or ever expect to see." Of course, these persons are Purple sympathizers or neutrals, rather than Gopher partisans.

It has been our privilege to see many great games in the past, among the greatest of which, in tenseness, we rank, Chicago's 2 to 0 victory over Michigan in 1905, Minnesota's 4 to 2 victory over Chicago in 1906, Illinois' 7 to 0 win over Ohio State in 1921, Princeton's 21 to 13 setback of Chicago in 1922, the Chicago-Illinois 21-21 tie in 1924, and the Army-Navy 21-21 tie at Soldiers' field in 1926.

Whatever the merits of these games named, that affair of Saturday had the elements, from a home viewpoint, to drive the crowd into a frenzy, which it did. These elements were "coming from behind" when the cause looked lost, and long runs.

Psychologists probably have technical terms to differentiate the emotions between going out in front and then seeing the opposition come from behind, and being behind yourself and then coming on to victory. If not, they should have. The emotions are so much more keen and poignant.

Were it prearranged, the affair could not have been better staged. Behind two touchdowns, with their followers bewildered, the Purple still trailed 14 to 7 at the half, and Rentner's first long run was followed by missing that aggravating point after touchdown, and they were still behind, 14 to 13.

Even after the Purple established a lead, Minnesota again threatened in the fourth quarter, and possibly a mistake of Gopher generalship was the break for Northwestern. Then on to victory with a score more decisive than the actual play, as often happens in the final minutes when the loser is resorting to passes to turn the tide.

Punctuate this drama with those long runs by Rentner—whose tribute from the stands, both Northwestern and Minnesota, as he left the field in the final minutes, was one of the most notable ever accorded on a western gridiron—Olson, Sullivan, and the stellar work of Somers, Capt. Munn, and Manders, and we grant those present their personal right to think it was the greatest game they ever saw.

If other readers differ with that opinion, we'll listen to recital of other "greatest" games. If not too long, we'll publish their arguments for the benefit of other Wake readers. Incidentally that Harvard-Dartmouth 7 to 6 contest Saturday must have been something of a wow itself, with the essential features of coming from behind and a long forward pass for victory.

COMEBACK TRAIL IS GETTING ROCKY FOR DEMPSEY

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, one time ruler of the heavyweights and now on the comeback trail, found Bearcat Wright, giant Omaha Negro, a hard nut to crack in a four round bout here tonight, but edged out a referee's decision.

The Bearcat, a great defensive fighter, beat off the best Jack had to offer without a quiver, and gave a few in return. Neither fighter did any great amount of damage. There was much clinching. A crowd of 8,000 saw the bout.

Triplett Sets Circular Dirt Track Auto Mark

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Driving his car at a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour, Ernest Triplett of Los Angeles established today what was announced as a new American circular dirt track record. His time for the mile qualifying trial was 36.80 seconds. The former record of 37.68 seconds, a speed of 95.541 miles per hour, was made by Louis Meyer at Bakersfield, Cal., last March 1.

EXAGGERATION OF FOOTBALL BOON TO EDUCATION

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 11.—Professors will continue to deplore the overemphasis on football. They consider themselves to be underpaid by comparison with the football coaches and, to give them due credit, they sincerely believe that the physical side of education in the United States has been exaggerated at the expense of the intellectual.

The coaches retort that they must make good or get out, implying that incompetent teachers in the intellectual departments may rock along, undetected or unchallenged, in their incompetence for years. This is not true, of course, but the failure of a coach is spectacular and public, and he must produce a higher degree of success to hold his job.

Professors are not blamed for the inability of dumb students to learn what they try to teach, but the football coach is no more successful than the football students who are given into his charge. If they can't win, he loses.

Boon to Teaching Business.

But neither is it accurate to say that the physical side has been exaggerated at the expense of the intellectual. The exaggeration cannot be disputed, but this very exaggeration has been a boon to the intellectual department of the teaching business because football has been the greatest publicity dodge of the age. It has popularized college life and contributed greatly to the spread of that which is called education, thus providing jobs for professors and instructors.

The coaches have been, so to speak, the boss press agents for higher education, and a publicity man who can get results is worth his pay.

While they are doubting that the athletic side of education is worth the emphasis which it receives, the professors never have even considered that their own department might be overdeveloped, too. They are turning out thousands of more or less educated subjects every year who are taught to expect that they will not have to delve or spin for their living because they are college taught. Save as engineers and boss farmers, supervising the work of uneducated laborers, they will not have to wear rough boots or overalls, and of course they will be well paid.

All Would Be Executives.

If carried to its logical conclusion, this program would produce a whole race of executives, technical experts and other white collar types and, with

Levinsky Helps Unemployed to 3 Knockouts, $60

Three of Chicago's unemployed were employed for a time yesterday and earned $20 each. Thirty-five others, however, decided it was better to be unemployed and conscious than $20 richer and otherwise.

BUSHY GRAHAM.

King Levinsky was the philanthropist and Brown's gymnasium was the place. The beneficiaries were 200 pounders lured from the curbs and park benches by Levinsky's plea for spar boys resembling Primo Carnera.

No. 1 stripped down to an even 236 pounds, pranced sprightly from his corner and led with his chin. Six fortune hunters left by a side door.

No. 2 was a little fellow, scarcely over 210 pounds. He heard the gong and the ringsiders heard the crash. An even dozen more embryo deserters rushed back to the G. H. Q. of that great army.

No. 3 weighed three pounds less than a boulevard bus. He snarled in his high tenor, threw out his chest and Levinsky threw out a right. Down went No. 3. He groaned once; then he snorted twice, and was ready to resume. Another right put him down again. But No. 3 was a good man. A good man can be down, but he isn't out—not yet, at least. He got to his feet. He did it for dear ol' Rutgers. One more try, one more Levinsky punch and one more victim lay cradled on the bridge of his nose, worth $20. [The victim, not the nose.] And seventeen more huskies made a dash for the windows.

Nos. 1, 2, and 3 will be paid off as soon—and if—they come around. Levinsky guaranteed, reiterated his offer for today and tomorrow. Meanwhile Pete Wistort, a professional, was pressed into service to work the King into a sweat.

Immediately after Levinsky's workout it was announced Bushy Graham, New York featherweight, would like the same sparring partners for his drills next week. He offered 20 cents to each applicant. Graham will box Battling Battalino, featherweight champion, in a ten round nontitular semi-windup to the Carnera-Levinsky bout at the Stadium.

Jimmy Spata and George McGee meet in the windup at the Northwest Lions arena, 4300 West North avenue, tomorrow.

Mique Malloy has signed Chuck Heffner of Denver and Costas Vassis on his White City card Monday. Vassis came to this country after winning the middleweight championship of Greece. He will be making his first fight in this country.

WELLENDORF, DUNCAN SCORE TOUCHDOWNS

It's First College Loss for Gaels.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—University of California at Los Angeles, loser in a 19 to 0 football game with Northwestern at Evanston earlier this season, and likewise the butt of Coast conference rivals all season, rose up and toppled the strong St. Mary's college team to a 12 to 0 defeat before 50,000 in Los Angeles' Olympic stadium this afternoon.

Two forward passes, one in the first quarter and one in the second, won for U. C. L. A. Attempts at conversion points went bad on the soggy field, as fine mist drizzled down.

Trojans Couldn't Do It.

In defeating St. Mary's U. C. L. A. accomplished a task too hard for the 1931 coast championship eleven of University of Southern California, which lost to St. Mary's, 13 to 7, in the season's opener.

The Bruins played as an inspired team, their stoutness on defense matching their passing game, which accounted for four successful forwards in seven attempts, two of the passes resulting in touchdowns.

On defense, the local collegians, in their third year in "big time" coast football, played themselves to complete exhaustion. Two U. C. L. A. players were carried off the field as the game closed, so savage were the Gaels battling to even things, and so sturdily were the Bruins striving to hold the margin which won for them their first "big" game in the school's athletic history.

Toscani's Fumble Helps.

One of St. Mary's few misplays of the season provided opening for the first score when Toscani fumbled a bad pass from center in the first period, and Dick Mulhaupt, U. C. L. A. end, rolled on it on the Gaels' twenty yard strip. Bergdahl gained only one yard, but the Saints lost five on a penalty. Keeble could gain only one yard, and with three yards to go on fourth down, Keeble faked a line smash, passed the oval to Bergdahl on a reverse, the latter fading back and tossing a short unimpeded flat pass to Duncan, who took it across the goal unmolested. Duncan's attempted placement was blocked.

In the second quarter Bergdahl ran one of Brovelli's punts 24 yards to St. Mary's 39 yard line. Duncan made two yards at left guard and the Gaels again suffered a damaging five yard penalty for offside. Bergdahl tried a pass, couldn't see a receiver and ran with it, gaining seven yards. Keeble cracked the line for first down on the 26 yard line, and, after Bergdahl lost four yards on the next play, Bergdahl passed to Wellendorf for a touchdown.

The lanky Bruin was guarded by two Gaels, but jumped high enough to catch it and scampered a few yards for the touchdown.

The Bruins were repulsed after driving to the 16 yard line in the fourth quarter. Each team made nine first downs, the Bruins gaining four of theirs from scrimmage, four on passes, and one on a penalty. St. Mary's completed six downs from scrimmage and three on passes, completing five of twenty-two passes, of which four were intercepted by the alert Bruins.

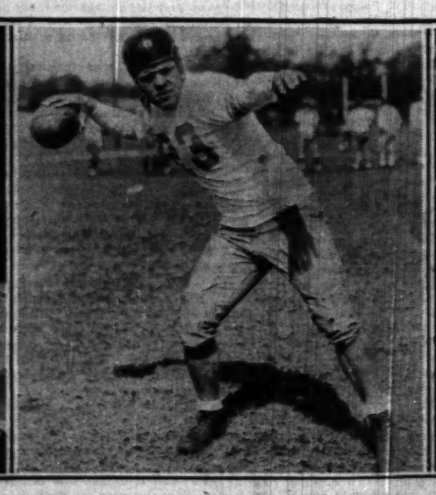
A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A FOOTBALL PLAYER NAMED RENTNER

The greatest half back Northwestern has had in many an autumn is tackled by a team of co-ed admirers who won't let him go until he has inscribed the name "Ernest (Pug) Rentner" on their textbooks. [Acme Photos.]

Rentner's activities at Northwestern are not confined to throwing passes and returning kickoffs and punts the length of a field. When he isn't out making an average of 9.1 yards on every play he's taking a course in physical education, and here we have him in the geology classroom.



And here's the way that thousands of Northwestern followers know the former Joliet High school star best of all. It was as a passer that he enabled the Wildcat eleven to win a share of the western conference football championship last season.

Whether its a stogy or a panatela ye smoker craves, Mr. Rentner aims to please. Yes, this is the same Rentner who plays with the football team, autographs co-eds' books, and keeps up his grades. When Pug isn't seen in the classroom or on the gridiron, he's working his way through school as clerk at an Evanston cigar counter.

Pug pauses to inspect a few of Northwestern's athletic trophies on display at Patten gymnasium. And if the 1931 Big Ten grid emblem isn't there pretty soon, it won't be his fault.

PREP BOARD OF CONTROL SETS 22 CAGE GAME LIMIT

Practically Eliminates City Teams from State Meet

Chicago high school basketball teams this season have been limited to a total of 22 games by recent action of the board of control. This regulation is intended, authorities say, to eliminate the increasing length of basketball schedules, which may be harmful to the players and unduly disrupt their studies.

The 22 game rule, intentionally or not, probably will prevent the city high schools from competing in the annual state basketball tournaments, it was pointed out. The city teams may compete in the state meets, but these games must be counted in the allotment of 22. Correspondingly, the limitation will prevent competition in the University of Chicago invitation tournament during the Christmas holidays and the invitational tournaments downstate, unless such contests are counted in the 22 games permitted by the board of control.

Meet Section Foes Twice.

Each city high school team meets its sectional opponents twice. In the west section, where seven schools are grouped, each has a league schedule of 12 games, leaving ten practice games. In other sections the number of league games is less, depending on the number of schools in the section.

The teams qualifying for the round robin semi-finals and the quintets reaching the finals may play these games in addition to the prescribed limit of 22.

In recent seasons several of the city high school teams have entered the state district tournaments. Four games are necessary to win a district title. Three more games are required to finish a section tournament. Last year Harrison Tech, winner of the district meet, also won the sectional meet at Joliet and qualified for the final championship tournament at the University of Illinois.

Harrison in Final Tourney.

Harrison won one game at Champaign, lost in the semi-finals and then played in the consolation finals, taking third place in the state. Harrison was the first Chicago team ever to reach the final tournament. It played 10 games, or the exact number of contests permitted this year in addition to its West Section league schedule.

Obviously, if a Chicago team expects to duplicate this record it cannot play any basketball games from Dec. 1, when the season officially opens, until January when the City league games are started. Nor could a city team enter Stagg's tournament or a downstate tournament during the holidays [when such competition could not interfere with school work] unless it did not wish to try for the state championship later on.

Ten Games for State Title.

The curtailment of basketball schedules corresponds to the move in Indiana several years ago which cut the number of games to 20. The Indiana limitation does not include the state tournament. The state championship team plays ten games to win the state title. The city league has made exception to the city championship games, but it has not provided for competition in the state meet, practically keeping Chicago teams from testing their ability against downstate quintets.

C. W. Whitten, secretary of the Illinois High School Athletic association, and secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations, which waged a successful fight to halt the national tournament conducted by the University of Chicago, does not contemplate action shortening the basketball schedules of Illinois high schools.

Approves Downstate Schedules.

"The basketball schedules downstate have not been limited, nor do we contemplate such action," Mr. Whitten said. "I conducted an investigation last year and found that the majority of teams do not play more than 20 games a season."

The legislative commission of the Illinois High School Athletic association has recommended that the age limit for players be reduced from 21 to 20. Before this becomes effective it must be ratified at the state meeting at Champaign next week. If the 20 year old limit is adopted the state schools will then compete on the same age basis that Chicago schools have had for several years.

The Chicago schools have led in eligibility requirements. Passing grades are required in only three subjects in state schools. Chicago rules require passing grades in four subjects. Chicago high school students also are permitted to compete in only one of three major sports, basketball, football or soccer.

Ruling Emphasizes City Title.

Competition in one elminates the athlete from the other two for that year, although he may change to another sport the following year. Baseball, swimming, track, and other organized sports are open to all.

The Illinois association has no such rules.

City high school authorities deny that the restriction on the number of basketball games is intended to prevent competition in the state tournament. The ruling, however, does emphasize the city title games in preference to the state championships.

JOHNSON WINS FROM ROPER IN 10 ROUNDS

Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, was awarded a ten round decision over Jack Roper, Los Angeles, Cal., light heavyweight, in the windup of the weekly boxing show at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street, last night. Mickey Patrick, East Chicago, defeated Jack Moran, Chicago, in the six round semi-windup.

In the three six round bouts which supported the card, Glen Camp, Kewanee, Ill., won from Johnny Lullo; Al Keegan defeated Joe Miller, and Rudy Valles triumphed over Tex Hogue in the opening bout.

Alumni Fete Maroon Grid Squad Tonight

Maroon alumni, several hundred of them, will gather tonight at the Hotel La Salle to tell the current generation of footballers the old, old story—ever new—of how Illinois has been and can be beaten. The occasion is the dinner to the team which the Chicago Alumni club gives every year before the Illini game.

This year the principal speakers, in addition to Coach Stagg, are to be Judge Wally Steffen of Carnegie and Jesse Harper of Notre Dame, themselves old Illini baiters, the former a member of the Maroon squad which showed the conference the possibilities of the forward pass by crushing the downstaters, 63 to 0, in 1906.

Kids Need Encouragement.

It has been two or three years since the Maroon alumni have been militantly reproachful or even querulous about the decline of football on the Midway. Their attitude, which can be better described as a generalized sadness and a desire to understand the situation and do what they can, is reflected in the invitations to the dinner sent out by the club, which read: "Thirty-five great kids need encouragement. They are members of the Maroon football squad, they are a game bunch of youngsters, they proved it at the Michigan and Purdue games, they can beat Illinois if they feel anybody gives a whoop."

The sadness of the Maroon alumni is caused not by this season's record, but by the cumulative effect of half a dozen bottom of the pendulum years and the dashing of every fall of hopes for better things raised every spring. The record of the Maroons this year has been, though it is difficult to believe, if anything, better than that of last autumn.

Maroons Improving.

Not counting the two practice games, the Maroons last year allowed the five major opponents they faced up to the Illinois game—Wisconsin, Florida, Mississippi, Princeton, and Purdue—a total of 79 points, while they themselves gathered only 7. This year the five major opponents preceding Illinois—Michigan, Yale, Indiana, Purdue, and Arkansas—have accumulated 98 points to the Maroons' 32. The opposition has been somewhat tougher this year and the spread in the scores somewhat smaller, and in the two games of the five which were repeated this year, those with Michigan and Purdue, the Maroons showed to greater advantage.

Further to juggle optimism out of the statistics, the Maroons have shown a steady improvement in the scores of their defeats by Purdue during the last four years—the tallies being 1928, 40-0; 1929, 26-0; 1930, 26-7, and 1931, 14-6.

The Maroon varsity was driven under the protection of north stand by rain yesterday, where it rehearsed a new play, a new defensive formation and the old business of trying to learn how to bat down an enemy forward pass.

ILLINI LINEUP JUGGLED

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—With Art Schultz again on the injured list, Eddie Schalk returned to the full back position today as the Illini worked in dummy scrimmage against freshmen teams equipped with Chicago formations.

Schultz is not expected to be ready for the game here Saturday. He took part in scrimmage yesterday, but was soon forced out with another injury to his knee.

Fuzzy Evans probably will handle the half back position which Schalk was expected to hold. Evans paired today with Gil Berry, who was back with the squad after having rested yesterday. The fourth man in the back field was Paul Carson, but Herman Walser is still being counted on to start at quarter back.

In the line the coaches started Fred Frink and Gordon Bailey, ends; Scott Marriner and Earl Jackson, tackles; Sam Gorenstein and Ack Bodman, guards; Casey Straw, center. Bodman, whose brother, Stan, was a star Illini lineman last year, has been playing with the reserves.

MICHIGAN WORKS PASSES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Feeling that he has given his regulars sufficient work on running plays, Coach Harry Kipke sent the squad through a long passing drill this afternoon, and then brought the team over to provide some practice on defense. The squad worked until dark in a drizzle. Passes clicked regularly, in spite of a wet ball and a defense which included four coaches.

The B team demonstrated the Michigan State plays by walking through them. The building of the defense seemed to entail more careful work than it has at any time this year.

Five backs were used on defense, Newman, Hudson, Heaton, Fay and Hewitt. It was indicated that a running game will be tried against State first Saturday and an overhead attack will follow.

Buffalo Wins, 3 2, Overtime Game in Hockey Opener

FORT ERIE, Ont., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Buffalo defeated the Detroit Olympics here tonight in the opening game of the International Hockey league season, 3 to 2, in an overtime period.

THEY WERE GOOD IN COLLEGE, TOO

Ernie Nevers (left) of the Chicago Cardinals and Vern Lewellen of the Green Bay Packers, who are expected to play a lot of football Sunday when the two pro elevens meet at Wrigley field. Nevers is still remembered as one of Stanford's greatest players, while Lewellen starred at Nebraska.

Packers Risk Great Record in Card Game

Whip Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The Chicago Cardinals overwhelmed the Grand Rapids Maroons, 36 to 0, in an exhibition game played here tonight for charity. Ernie Nevers scored two touchdowns on line smashes and passed to Creighton for another.

The Green Bay Packers, foes of the Chicago Cardinals next Sunday at Wrigley field, have become accustomed to victories since they entered the National Professional Football league. They never have finished lower than sixth place. For several years they tied for third position; in 1927 they moved into undisputed possession of third place, in 1928 they fell back to fourth, and then for two successive seasons, 1929 and 1930, they fought off all contenders for the league championship.

Coach Curly Lambeau of the Packers started his professional career 13 years ago. He served under the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame and many of the Green Bay plays are patterned from Notre Dame formations. When he was in his prime, and holding down a half back position on the Packer eleven, Lambeau was rated as one of the best passers in professional football.

New material this year has bolstered the Green Bay lineup. Russ Saunders, Southern California star, has shown plenty of power, and Roger Grove of Michigan State has been handling the quarter back post like a veteran. Hank Bruder of Northwestern fame, has developed into a neat blocking back. Milton Gantenbein, Wisconsin captain, has proved one of the finds of the 1931 pro season at end.

MORIARTY TIES LEN KENNEY FOR 3 CUSHION LEAD

George Moriarty of Chicago broke even in the two games he played yesterday in the northern sectional three cushion billiard championship tournament at the Kieckhefer Recreation, and now is deadlocked with Len Kenney, also of Chicago, for the lead, with two games won and one lost.

Moriarty defeated Charles McCourt of Cleveland, former world champion, in the first afternoon game, 50 to 34, in 43 innings, and last night lost to Jack Henley of Des Moines, 50 to 37, in 54 innings. In the second afternoon game Kenney triumphed over Henley, 50 to 46, in 64 innings. The high runs were: Moriarty, 6; McCourt, 6; Kenney, 3; Henley, 4; Henley, 7; Moriarty, 4.

At 2:30 this afternoon Kenney will face Henley, at 4:30 Moriarty and McCourt will clash, and at 7:30 tonight Henley and McCourt will play. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	High Run.	Best Game.	Total Pts.
Len Kenny	2	1	6	61	139
Joseph Moriarty	2	1	6	43	137
Jack Henley	1	2	7	54	130
Charles McCourt	1	2	6	50	124

Exaggeration of U.S. Football Proves Boon to Education

immigration cut off, nobody would be left to hew wood, draw water, drive trucks and carry hods. In fact, I believe they have eliminated the hod already and educated the hod carrier.

As matters stand, even now, the college degree is so commonplace that many college taught football players who are discharged into the competition for jobs every year are very glad of the opportunity, recently developed, to play football for pay. Until a few years ago the ex-college players who took the promoter's shilling were deemed to have fallen into a life of sin, and their old coaches turned their pictures toward the wall in sorrow.

The Football Coaches' union, composed of ex-players who were themselves strictly professional, adopted a resolution only a few years ago to exclude from membership any one who should play professional football after that date. But, although this stricture still persists, it is not of much moral effect, considering that Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, the greatest of them all, played professionally, and that Arnold Horween was invited to coach at Harvard, his alma mater, for four years with full knowledge of the athletic department that he had played pro under the name of McMahon.

Stagg Favors Career.

Mr. Stagg of the University of Chicago, who has the temperament of a clergyman, has inveighed against the professional game, holding that the monetary incentive cannot inspire the football player and insisting that, anyway, the graduate ought to get on with the career for which he studied. He does not recognize, however, the important fact that college football teams to a large extent are composed of the athletic types who learn little beside football in school.

Nor does Mr. Stagg reconcile his attitude toward the monetary incentive with the well known fact that virtually all college taught men and women, when they pursue the careers for which they prepared at college, judge their success in those careers by the rate of their pay.

Himself a pioneer in the intercollegiate game, a player at Yale and a graduate in 1889, Mr. Stagg had turned down $3,000 a year to pitch baseball when $3,000 a year was much more money that it would be even in the present time. Intercollegiate football still was a confused game in his time, having begun less than twenty years before, and there still was much that was distinctly English rugger about it.

One of the best books ever written on the history of the game is Mr. Stagg's own reminiscences, "Touchdown," done in collaboration with Wesley Stout, a record of the development of football and also a statement of a highly fastidious moral and ethical code.

History of the Football.

Mr. Stagg first played football in the years soon after the civil war with a ball made of a pig's bladder obtained from a slaughter house. The present shape was not adopted until after he had left school and gone west to Chicago as a pioneer coach at the new University of Chicago.

A. G. Spalding, the old major league pitcher, a great personal showman, was the first large scale manufacturer of sporting goods, and his model J-5 football, which is still used by many schools, originated at the bench of a workman in his first plant. In those days each workman performed all the operations in cutting and stitching a football cover and the best balls were turned out by a benchhand whose signature, stamped for the guidance of the factory paymaster, was J-5.

The colleges recognized the superiority of J-5's work and in ordering footballs, specified that they must be J-5. Mr. Spalding, always willing to oblige, made J-5 the general signature of all his benchhands.

"Quality" Falls Off.

Twenty years ago a college coach complained to one of the Spalding executives that the quality of the footballs was falling off.

"We bought one early this season and now, after seven or eight games and the season's practice, it is beginning to lose its shape," he said.

Harvard then was buying half a dozen footballs for a season's play and practice. Now some schools use two gross.

The details of the gradual establishment of the American game apart from its parent, Rugby, have filled many a book ere now. The Americans were a lusty lot, close descended from the pioneers, and they imparted to the English game elements of brutality which were constantly calling for restrictions in the rules.

Rules Transform Game.

Between the time of the first Yale-Princeton game in 1871 and the present, the conferences on the rules have obliterated everything but the original principle which distinguished rugger from soccer. The ball still is advanced mainly by carrying, with the pass as a threat to keep the game open and reduce the dangers of the mass plays.

The east was slow to adopt the pass and the conversion came abruptly after Dorais and Rockne of Notre Dame beat West Point with a passing game in 1913.

Social rank was important in the selection of Harvard's teams for a long time, but the aristocracy fell as education became more common and the sons of the working people began to man the positions on teams which had no trouble beating Harvard. The aristocracy were all right, but there weren't enough of them, and the social requirements for Harvard football were waived to admit some sons of Boston Irish who helped restore the ruddy glow to a crimson gone pale pink.

Many Bidding for Patronage.

Now, undoubtedly, football is being overdone. There are too many teams bidding for patronage, with bond issues and other heavy financial responsibilities dependent on the gate receipts. The big game is commonplace.

Football still is a stirring show, more stirring than ever as a show because the coaches, by arrangement with enterprising sporting goods manufacturers, are dressing their teams in garish uniforms like circus troupes to draw the crowds. But these effects will pall, too. I don't have to predict the future. I wouldn't mind knowing it, but I can wait.

Rentner Gains 1,084 Yards in 6 Games

Football practice at Northwestern was conducted in a heavy downpour yesterday, forcing the Wildcats to don rain pants and other wet weather regalia. Despite the slippery condition of the practice field, the regulars engaged in an offensive scrimmage.

Reb Russell played against the freshmen for the second time this week. His form, despite the uncertain footing, indicated that he is ready to start against Indiana. Other back field starters for the Wildcats will probably be Rentner and Sullivan, half backs, and Potter, quarter back.

Pug Gains 1,084 Yards.

Rentner, who has been the spark plug of the Wildcats' offense, has gained a total of 1,084 yards in the six games to date, according to figures compiled yesterday. He has handled the ball 119 times for an average gain of 9.11 yards on attempt. This includes gains from scrimmage, punts and kickoffs returned, passes intercepted and passes caught.

A tatbulation of Rentner's efforts follows:

	Attempts.	Yards.
Gains from scrimmage	78	478
Punts returned	30	344
Kickoffs returned	7	217
Intercepted passes	2	36
Passes caught	2	21
Totals	119	1,084

His accomplishments include nine runs ranging from 24 to 95 yards. His longest run was a 95 yard run for a touchdown after catching the kickoff at the opening of the second half in the Minnesota game. In the same game he returned a punt 80 yards for a touchdown.

Spread Run His Favorite.

Renter's favorite play has been a spread run to either the right or left. Against Nebraska he ran 65 yards for a touchdown on this play. It was good for 24 yards and a touchdown against U. C. L. A. In the Ohio game he traveled 55 yards for a touchdown on it and repeated for 66 yards against Illinois.

On three occasions he has been on the receiving end of forward, lateral passes which gained, respectively, 24 yards, 33 yards, and 36 yards.

INDIANA TAKES TO AIR

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Indiana's grid practice this afternoon was devoted to two things—offense and defense for passing. Two elevens lined up against each other and took turns at launching aerial plays. Opasik did most of the passing on one team, while Vic Dauer hurled for the opposing one.

The Hoosiers will leave at noon Friday for Evanston, where they will meet Northwestern Saturday.

Midterm exams kept several players from practice yesterday, but the squad's full strength was on the field today. Picked freshman teams exhibited Northwestern plays. Coach Hayes continued to drill his ends on defensive work. He also stressed the fact that Indiana's secondary defense will get one of its severest tests Saturday from Northwestern's hard hitting backs. Fear that Lyons will be kept out of the lineup for the rest of the season was expressed today when the big Negro end aggravated an old ankle injury.

IOWA BATTLES FRESHMEN

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Burt Ingwersen sent the University of Iowa football squad through defensive and offensive scrimmage today, despite a cold, driving rain. It was the last long practice before the Purdue game. The Hawkeye squad will take a brief workout tomorrow afternoon before entraining for Lafayette, Ind.

Coaches were given little opportunity to test the complicated Boilermaker plays against Hawkeye regulars because of the slippery field and ball. Freshmen using Purdue trick formations were halted behind the line, but the varsity team had no better success in advancing the ball. Frequent fumbles by both elevens slowed the practice game.

Thurtle started at quarter back in the pony back field, with Nelson and Rule, half backs, and Gredy, full back. On the varsity Pickering replaced Thurtle at quarter, Laws and Hickman, half backs, and Sansen, full back.

PURDUE SEES CLOSE GAME

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad this afternoon splashed through its last hard drill of the week in preparation for the homecoming game with Iowa here Saturday.

The history of Purdue's last six homecomings, combined with Iowa's stand against Nebraska last week, have resulted in a feeling of uneasiness in the Boilermaker camp.

Starting in 1925, when Purdue was nosed out by Northwestern, 13 to 9, homecoming scores reveal a series of close battles. In 1926, Wisconsin was held to a 0 to 0 tie. In 1927 the Boilermakers got the only decisive victory of the homecoming series over Northwestern, 18 to 6. The year 1928 produced a 19 to 19 tie with Wisconsin, and 1929 found Purdue clinching the Big Ten title with a 7 to 0 victory over Iowa. Last year, Wisconsin was nosed out, 7 to 6.

EASTMAN EARNS JOB AT QUARTER WITH ST. JOHN'S

Leonard Cherry, Cuno Bender, and the other star ball carriers who will clash in the St. Johns-Culver football game at Soldiers' field Saturday, may be eclipsed by a youngster who broke into the St. Johns lineup this week. Ward Eastman is the name of this comparative newcomer. He will call signals for the Wisconsin team.

Eastman not only is shrewd at directing team play, but is a fleet runner. He started as regular quarter back earlier in the season, and then was lost in a shuffle that saw John Conrad, a great punter and ball carrier, take over the signal calling position. But Coach Harry Wilhelm now announces that Eastman will be quarter back and this is enough to make Culver partisans feel that Wilhelm has a trick or two up his sleeve.

St. Johns, while a big team, is by no means slow, and it intends to meet Culver speed with speed of its own.

Leonard Cherry and Dale McMillan, Culver backs, who can hit the bullseye nearly every time with a football, have been busy for ten days in tossing passes at Curry and Brown, varsity ends, and Weber and Wilkerson, the other two backs. The game may result in a decisive victory for Culver if Coach Bob Peck's aerial game clicks, and if it doesn't St. Johns may roll over the Culver forwards for a couple of touchdowns as a result of superior weight and driving power.

Coach Bob Peck of Culver is known put for a capable line plunger who can clip two or three yards when they are needed for a first down. Wilson at full back, can hit the line hard, but he weighs only 153 pounds.

IDLE HOUR RACE PROGRAM BRINGS ORPHANS $30,000

Minton and Skrip Lower Track Marks.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The fourth annual charity day race meeting at Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour farm drew a crowd of 8,000 and resulted in two new records for the Idle Hour track today.

Approximately $30,000 was realized to provide Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners and toys for the inmates of Kentucky orphanages. The weather was ideal and a light rain in the early morning settled the track so that it was lightning fast.

Minton Sets Mark.

Minton, the Valley Lake stable's 2 year old, set a mark of 1:09 for the Futurity course in winning the $2,500 Junior stakes. Dick Morris had made the record in 1:09 2-5 in the first, a claiming race, and Depression, owned by J. W. Parrish, clipped one-fifth off that mark in the $2,500 Matron stakes before Minton came through with the final record.

Wotan, 3 year old gelding, owned by Edward Haughton, won the $1,500 Armistice Day handicap in 1:43 3-5, to set a record for the mile and one-sixteenth at Idle Hour. Skrip, winner of the sixth, a claiming affair, lowered this to 1:43 for the same distance.

Run Steeplechase Today.

Gov. Flem D. Sampson will have a party of more than 80 as his guests tomorrow at the running of the Prince of Wales Gold Cup steeplechase. Sportsmen here for the steeplechase and attending the National Fox Hunters' association meeting swelled the crowd at Idle Hour today.

M'MILLEN MEETS HOLLENBACK AT FRONTON MONDAY

Jim McMillen, inactive several weeks as the result of a broken collar bone, will return to the mat Monday night at the Rainbo Fronton. He has been matched against Jack Hollenback of California in a semi-windup bout.

Hollenback has never wrestled here.

The windup will bring together Kola Kwariani, the bald Russian, and Rudy Dusek of Omaha. Kwariani will arrive tomorrow to finish his training. Three other bouts will complete the card.

CHICK HARLEY TO COACH MILLS PRO FOOTBALL TEAM

Chick Harley, Ohio State star who was placed in Walter Camp's All-American football team two years, has been signed to coach the Chicago Mills and will make his initial appearance as coach at Memphis, Tenn., where the Mills meet the undefeated and untied Memphis pros.

I. A. C. to Hold Handball Tourney Starting Dec. 7

BOWEN, CALUMET TIE, 7-7; AUSTIN TRIUMPHS, 20-0

The Bowen and Calumet High school elevens battled to a 7 to 7 tie on a muddy field at White City yesterday afternoon. Summers, Calumet full back, intercepted a Bowen pass in the first period and plowed through the mud for 80 yards and a touchdown. Summers also plunged for the extra point.

Bowen tied the count in the third quarter when Drake crashed the line for a touchdown after his team had made a determined march. Lightfoot added a point with a placement kick.

Austin romped to a 20 to 0 victory over Lane Tech at Mills stadium. Bolos and Kmet scored for the winners early in the game. Gustafson was tackled for a safety in the second period and in the third McClintock ran 35 yards to score after intercepting a pass.

than half the field, were tied for first place. These were Spencer-Crossley, Georgetti-Debaets, Walker-Horder, Ritter-J. Walthour, McNamara-Guerra, Martinetti-Saetta, Coupry-Pecqueux, and Van Buggenhout-Buysse.

Shortly before the opening of the 9 o'clock sprints, Van Buggenhout-Buysse gained a lap to take the lead alone.

There was constant jamming during the sprints and when a spill by Van-Buggenhout brought a pause after the fifth sprint a recapitulation of the lap thievery revealed Spencer and Crossley leading the race alone and also in possession of the highest point score in the race.

At this point seven teams were tied for second, but Martinetti and Saetta, who had been in a first place tie at the start of the evening's maneuvers, had dropped to the third flight in a tie with Letourner and Guimbretiere.

At 9:30 o'clock Referee Frank L. Kramer ordered three teams off the track to reduce the spill hazard. The teams ruled off were the Chicago team, Flatow and Wagner, who were 15 laps behind the leaders; De Lilie and Seufert, who were 7 laps back, and the German team of Nickel and Nickel, who were trailing by six laps.

Results of the 12:30 o'clock sprints this morning follow:

First—Guerra, Buysse, Ritter, Grimm.

Second—Crossley, Martinetti, Horan, De Basta.

Third—Van Buggenhout, Coupry, Spencer, Guerra.

Here's Bid to Play Copper 'n' Robber —with Football

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Would the Port Jervis, N. Y., police department football team like to play the Sing Sing prison 'varsity?

Warden Lewis E. Lawes, who is also director of athletics at the big gray institution on the Hudson, was very anxious today to learn the answer.

He had heard that the police eleven was having difficulty scheduling games, because most teams had eligibility rules. There is nothing high hat about Sing Sing, the warden announced, and the police players would be just as welcome as the Naval militia, which opens the Sing Sing schedule Sunday.

The public will be admitted to Sunday's game. There will be a band, a rooting section, and other adjuncts of real football atmosphere.

SPARTANS BEAT STAPLETON, 14-12, THROUGH SAFETY

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 11.—(AP)—A safety scored in the first quarter, when Christensen blocked Clancy's kick, proved to be the margin of victory for Portsmouth's Spartans over Stapleton in a professional football game here tonight. The Spartans won, 14 to 12.

Other scoring was confined to the second half, both of Portsmouth's touchdowns coming in the third period, and Stapleton gaining one in each of the third and fourth. McKalip took a 40 yard pass from Glen Pressnell for the Spartans' first and another 40 yard fling, also Pressnell to McKalip, placed the ball in position for Alford to take it across.

McLain scored Stapleton's first when he took a pass from Baker and raced 40 yards to the goal. Ken Strong twisted and sidestepped his way for 60 yards to score the other. Neither eleven was able to add points after touchdowns.

Becker Gets Odd Double: Pheasant, Owl

BY BOB BECKER.

The average sportsman who does considerable hunting frequently gets opportunities to make doubles in different kinds of game, but on the opening day of the cock pheasant season came our first chance to make a mixed double on an owl and cock pheasant. The shooting of the two different birds is quite typical of the unexpected that may happen to any upland game bird shooter.

We were on our way back to the farmhouse and the hunting party of which we were a member was taking it easy as we crossed a willow thicket that screened a ditch through a meadow. Just about 15 minutes before, Jack, our springer spaniel, had gone into a similar stand of willows and sent birds flying to all points of the compass. Out of this bunch two cocks had been taken.

Snap Shot Drops Owl.

As the dog loped into the brush on the way to the farmhouse he scared an owl into flight. It swept into the air on silent wings and quickly placed the willow thicket between us. Taking a quick snap shot through the brush we were lucky enough to get the owl. As we started to lower the gun we noticed Jack registering great excitement. His tired muscles had taken a new lease on life. He was rushing around in the thicket under full power trying hard to get into a dense tangle of dead willow branches as if he were on game.

We called out that the dog was on game, but before it was possible to take out the dead shell in the right barrel of our 16 gauge double gun and before the gun could be lowered from our shoulder Jack rushed a cock pheasant from the brush in typical springer style. Another lucky quick shot through the branches and down went the bird for a mixed double of owl and pheasant.

Ringnecks Hide in Brush.

Although this cock pheasant did not know that he couldn't play any kind of game successfully with a trained springer, there were plenty of other beautifully plumaged ringnecks that gave us the run around. On several different occasions pheasant cocks dropped into cover where we were sure we could find them, but by clever running into dense weeds and brush they eluded everybody. Sometimes we would rout hen pheasants from these patches of cover, but the smart males wouldn't stir.

FOUR REGULARS AT DE PAUL END HOME CAREERS

Four De Paul university football veterans will play the last home game of their varsity careers tomorrow night when the Blue Demons entertain homecoming at Mills stadium against South Dakota State.

Capt. Everett McClane and Ray Cowhey, two of the finest guards ever coached by Dr. Eddie Anderson, Art McGivern, who has been playing a fine game at full back in recent games, and Frank Hartman, the center back who ran wild at Loyola are the four.

Coach Anderson ordered only a light workout in the rain yesterday, but intimated that he may start Johnny Jonke at tackle in place of the injured Hal Cherne. At right end between three candidates fighting for the starting assignment. They are Lou Delaney and Finn. Either Hank Coan will hold down left end.

John O'Brien's work appeared convincing, and it is likely that he will operate at tackle for the first time since he was disabled in the Detroit opener. Coach Anderson outlined a hard struggle with the Tommies who have won all except two games by decisive scores.

PICK SQUAD FOR NAVY

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Hunk Anderson today named a squad of 34 players to leave tomorrow for the game Saturday at Baltimore with Navy.

Practice was held in the gym when this morning's drizzle turned to rain and made practice field conditions impossible. The squad went through a light workout with defense against Navy plays featuring the drill.

The team will stay at the Congressional Country club in Washington before the game and will leave immediately after the contest for South Bend. Following are the players making the trip:

Centers—Capt. Tarr, Gurnon.
Right guards—Hoffman, Pierce, Pivarnik.
Right tackles—Kurth, Kosar, Flynn.
Right half backs—Skoskowski, Grant, Branchean, Milhesan.
Full backs—Melinkovich, Bates, Lodi, Leonard.

NAVY SHOOTS WORKS

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—"We are going to shoot the works against Notre Dame at Baltimore Saturday," Coach Edgar Miller, of the Naval academy football team said today. "Navy did not deserve to lose to Ohio State, and I think the boys now are in a frame of mind to beat Notre Dame rather than become easy at the Irish record."

Bert Davis, who called signals for the varsity during practice the latter part of last week and who drilled the team through most of the plays against the Buckeyes, has permanently captured the quarter back job.

Just who will fill Elliott's place left end has not been decided, but Pray will substitute for the injured player in practice and the starter will not be named until game time.

PAUL JONES 10c A Quality Cigarette for 20

"I don't mind your bristles Rex"

"MAYBE you're lucky, Rex boy. Your whiskers are cute, so you never need to shave. But there's a big difference between bristles on a dog and bristles on a man. Of course you don't enjoy being plucked, but that only happens once every few months and a man must shave every day and sometimes twice a day to look well. And I understand shaving is no joke. Many men seem to use this as an excuse for neglect. I'm sure they'd shave more often and more carefully if they knew how repulsive stubble is to most girls."

Most men, we feel, do realize that a growth of stubble, however slight, is repulsive to women. Bristles, in fact, are a drawback in every business and social contact. In the past men could possibly be excused for their neglect because razor pull and burn made shaving a distinctly unpleasant chore. Today Gillette offers a splendid new blade that removes the beard cleanly, entirely without discomfort.

Try it, and you'll agree with us that shaving can be a rather pleasant performance. Your razor fairly skims across your face, mowing down wiry beard as if it were boyish down. Prove this on our guarantee. Buy a package of Gillette blades and use a couple. If every shave doesn't measure up to your expectations, return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the purchase price.

MARY LEWIS, OPERA STAR, ARRESTED OVER DIVORCE FEE SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Mary Lewis, grand opera star, was arrested today on a warrant sworn by Charles Craddick, attorney, in connection with a civil suit.

The arrest was made under the law which permits a plaintiff in a civil action to cause the arrest of a defendant if the latter intends leaving jurisdiction of the court. Craddick filed suit for $3,050 against Miss Lewis in February, 1931, claiming the amount due as an unpaid balance for his services in securing her divorce from her former husband, Michael Bohnen.

The singer had been here for a month with her new husband, Robert L. Hague, vice president of Standard Oil Company of New York. They had planned to leave for New York tonight. A bail bond broker posted $3,500 bonds guaranteeing the opera star's appearance when Craddick's suit is called.

Mrs. Ames, Wife of Head of Johns Hopkins U., Dies

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Boykin Ames, wife of Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of Johns Hopkins university, died at midnight in her home here. Her first husband was Thomas Bullitt Harrison, who died in 1885. They had three children. Mrs. Harrison and Dr. Ames were married in September, 1889.

William Morrow, Head of Publishing Firm, Dead

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—William Morrow, president of the book publishing firm which bears his name, died today in the Le Roy sanitarium of nephritis and uremic poisoning. He was 58 years old. He had been seriously ill for three weeks.

MOTHER STONER, FOE OF MOTHER GOOSE, IS DEAD

New York, Nov. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Winifred Sackville Stoner, writer and lecturer on child education, whose daughter, Winifred, was a child prodigy twenty years ago, is dead at her home here of chronic nephritis. She was 49 years old and had been ill for several months. Her daughter, who is her only surviving relative, has been living in Los Angeles since her marriage in August to Earl Winston Harrison, her third husband.

The precocious talents of Winifred as a child and the mother's views on child education attracted wide attention. "Mother Stoner," as she became known, began a campaign against the "Mother Goose" nursery rhymes on the day that Winifred, then 3 years old, called her a "prevaricatrist" after observation had convinced the child that the cow could not jump over the moon, that the dog could not laugh and that the dish couldn't run away with the spoon. This prompted Mrs. Stoner to write new verses, containing nothing but the truth, but still designed to be attractive to children.

She established her natural education system in 1902 and for the use of its exponents she devised special toys and composed music for special songs in "Mother Stoner Jingleiays," for which Winifred wrote the words.

Mrs. Stoner was married in 1900 to Dr. James Buchanan Stoner of the United States health service. He died in 1925.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 12.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Under heavy guard Harry F. Powers, indicted for the slaying of two women and three children, was brought here from the penitentiary in Moundsville early today to enter his plea. The 42 year old matrimonial agent, who is to face trial here late this month or early December, was rushed to the penitentiary when a midnight mob threatened his life in the jail here in September.

A special cell on the first floor of the jail was arranged for Powers. Authorities said he would be incarcerated here until his trial begins. He came here today in charge of Capt. Hobart Brown of the West Virginia state police, Sheriff W. B. Grimm and four state troopers. The prisoner was nervous as he was hustled from the penitentiary to a waiting automobile, but later regained his composure, the officers said. En route he was told for the first time that the grand jury had indicted him for the slaying of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass.

BOMBS DAMAGE RESTAURANT, DRINK PARLOR

A bomb explosion shattered the entrance and ruined part of the interior of a soft drink parlor at 2801 South Hamlin avenue early this morning. Damage was estimated at $500. Albert Bopat, the owner, his wife, and their three children were in the living quarters in the rear of the place at the time, but escaped with only a shaking up.

Mrs. Agnes Jelinik and Mrs. Anna Macek, both of 2759 South Hamlin avenue, told police they saw two men light the bomb fuse and flee. The fire went out, however, and one of the men returned and relighted it. A second after he ran the explosion occurred.

An hour later a restaurant in a one-story building at 3456 South Halsted street was bombed. The front was wrecked and windows in the neighborhood shattered. The damage was estimated at $500. John Choudikas, a dishwasher, was in the place, but was not hurt.

The restaurant is owned by Thomas Alexander, 3321 South Halsted street. It has had three proprietors in the last six weeks. The first was driven out by odor bombs and the second by a fire. Adjoining it is the mortuary owned by City Clerk Peter Brady and his brother, Owen. Residents of a flat over the Brady place were routed from their beds by the blast.

WHEAT WEAK IN LIVERPOOL AFTER EARLY STRENGTH

American Grain Markets Take Holiday.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All American grain markets, as well as Winnipeg and Buenos Aires, were closed yesterday, while Liverpool was open. The latter showed relative strength in the early trading, wheat being around 1⅛@1¼c per bu lower, or about ⅛c better than was indicated by the action of Chicago after the English market closed on Tuesday.

Pronounced weakness developed later, however, and the finish was 2⅛@2¾d per cental lower, equal to 2⅜@2⅝c per bu after allowing for the difference in the exchange rate. December wheat there closed at equal to 65¾c; March, 68½c, and May, 70¾c per bu, figured on the basis of $3.80 for sterling.

According to private reports the weakness in Liverpool was due to selling induced by an estimate on the French wheat crop showing a total yield of around 270,000,000 bu compared with the previous estimate of 248,000,000 bu and final returns of 211,000,000 bu in 1930.

Favorable Argentine Report.

A Buenos Aires cable to Bartlett-Frazier company said weather conditions in Argentina were more favorable. Harvesting is on in the province of Santa Fe and in northern Cordoba. Recent frost occurred in the more southern sections of the belt and the extent of the damage to the wheat crop, if any, cannot be determined for four weeks.

Scattered rains were reported in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma yesterday, and the forecast indicated showers over a wide area.

An extremely bullish constr on was placed by the trade on the government weekly weather and crop report which said outlook for the new winter wheat crop in the western half of Kansas was poor to very poor, owing to dry weather. Growth has been slow and much wheat is not yet up. Oklahoma needs rain and in Texas progress of wheat was poor except where rains fell last month. Abnormally dry weather conditions in the southeastern section of the country, and winter grains in this area have not germinated well, with much not yet seeded. Condition in the central region is good to very good.

Watch Oriental Situation.

Political situation in the Orient continues to be closely watched by the grain trade, although there has been no evidence of any buying of wheat of consequence from North America by either China or Japan for several weeks. A sharp break in the price of silver yesterday in New York is expected to temper bullish enthusiasm in the grain markets to some extent.

Grain traders were inclined to talk a little bearish as to the immediate trend of the markets yesterday, feeling that a further downward corrective movement would be necessary in order to strengthen the technical position, the latter having been materially weakened by the recent sharp bulges.

Reports as to whether the new Argentine wheat crop has been damaged or not by the recent frost are rather anxiously awaited, and should the yield there be reduced to any great extent it would force a further revision in estimates as to how much wheat the leading exporting countries have to spare this season. Hedging pressure against Australian wheat has increased considerably in Liverpool during the last few days.

Illinois Winter Wheat Reported Needing Rain

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Winter wheat made headway in Illinois last week, but is in need of rain, the weather bureau weekly crop bulletin said today. "The week was dry," the bulletin said, "except for light showers at the close. The first general killing frost of the season occurred on Friday with minimum temperatures in the twenties over the state, except along the Ohio river in the extreme south.

"Corn husking progressed rapidly. Progress of winter wheat was generally good, but rain is needed locally. Peas and soy beans have been threshed in southern counties."

Government Issues Corn Crop Report

Government November crop report showed a total of 1,834,719,000 bu, corn in the 11 leading states, or nearly 34,000,000 bu less than the month ago but the total is 287,000,000 bu in excess of last year. The 5 year average is 1,980,255,000 bu. The reduction during the past month was largely in Iowa where the husking returns showed the yield to be about 17,000,000 bu less than was indicated by conditional figures a month ago. Small reductions were shown in Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Oklahoma, as compared with the previous month, while Ohio and Indiana were raised slightly. Expect Cotton Supply in India to Show Decline

On the basis of preliminary and tentative estimates of the current Indian crop it appears that the total supply of Indian cotton in India will be materially less this season than in recent seasons, the New York Cotton exchange service reports. Ideas of the Indian crop recently have ranged from 5,000,000 to 5,500,000 400 pound bales, as weather conditions have varied from good to bad. Taking as a tentative working crop figure 5,250,000 bales, the service says, the total supply in India available for Indian consumption and for export this season is 6,880,000 bales, against 7,582,000 bales last season and 8,099,000 two seasons ago.

COTTON DULL AND EASY

Trading in cotton yesterday was confined to the New York market, Chicago and New Orleans were closed for the Armistice day holiday. Prices in the former held within narrow limits and closed 7@10 points lower in sympathy with stocks and a sharp break in silver. Trade was not large reflecting the closing of the two other leading exchanges. There was some selling by the south and by Liverpool, but the bulk of the pressure was of a professional character.

Government weekly weather and crop report said weather conditions during the past week were ideal for picking and other work in the cotton belt. In commenting on the situation J. E. Bennett & Co. say the dull trade in cotton the past few days suggests that the effect of the bulge in grain has spent its force to some extent, and that a new incentive is needed to stimulate interest on the long side. Meanwhile the crop movement exerts steady pressure. Prices follow:

FIGHTING SPIRIT OF DAYS OF 1918 SEEN RETURNING

Expected to Restore Prosperity.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The American people was rewarded for a supreme effort, courage and confidence on Armistice day thirteen years ago. It may not be amiss to suggest that the same morale that helped victory and peace can serve equally in bringing a return of prosperity. There are signs that this effort is nothing.

"A return of public confidence in the credit structure, in commodity prices and in the security markets will positively change the existing business situation," the Standard Statistics company suggests. "That is the fact which investors should keep in mind. It is altruism to say that fear and pessimism have overstepped the bounds of reason and that the country is over-depleted in every line.

"Sentiment counts for anything. The spirit of indiscriminate pessimism or fear will reach a point at which it will be decisively checked by the question of natural forces which have repeatedly proved their effectiveness in calling finis to a business depression.

Run for Expansion.

"Stocks of crude foodstuffs and raw materials have declined to a level far below cost of production in many instances which provides both an immediately severe check to future overproduction and a profitable base from which users of such materials can expand their operations. The ability of wheat, cotton and other commodities to advance repeatedly, often in the face of a falling stock market, would seem to possess marked significance.

"Necessities in personal expenditures and in maintenance and replacement of industrial equipment have been carried so far as to create a potential demand of large proportions. Even the public's fears regarding the soundness of the banking position and of the currency itself are allayed, still resumption of buying is likely to occur. Fears as to whether the public has been drained of purchasing power may be considered in the light of the fact that the relatively few public stricken individuals who have pulled their funds out of the banks for hoarding could tomorrow buy goods to the amount of a billion dollars."

Steel News Better.

Let us report some of yesterday's news. The Iron Age reported that the steel industry has achieved a latest consecutive week of improvement, with output estimated at 21 per cent of capacity, compared with 20 per cent a fortnight ago.

"Against an average output of 27.76 per cent in October, this is the most consistent increase in steel activity since last spring," the review continues. "While its importance could easily be exaggerated in view of the experience of some branches of the industry, there is hope of further slight betterment during the remainder of the year, particularly in monthly tonnage, to be followed, perhaps, by a sharper upturn in the first quarter of 1932. Some improvement in business has come from the equipment manufacturers, warehouse distributors, the oil country, and agricultural communities. The rise in prices of staple commodities has had a wholesome psychological effect."

Another cheerful item was Bradstreet's report of a rather sharp decline in business failures, which numbered only 471 last week and marked the smallest number since the week ended Sept. 12. Defaults in the previous week numbered 506 and there were 934 failures a year ago.

EXAMINE STOCK PURCHASES OF ROCK ISLAND RD.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The Interstate commerce commission today ordered an investigation of stock purchases by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, and the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company.

The inquiry will seek to determine the reasons behind the Rock Island's purchase of 250,000 shares of common stock by the St. Louis-San Francisco and acquisition of 250,000 shares by the latter of the Gulf, Mobile, and Northern Railroad company.

The order of investigation says the Rock Island's purchases of Frisco stock were made between October and January, 1930, and that the Frisco's purchase of Gulf, Mobile, and Northern was made on Dec. 10, 1930.

International Nickel Net for Quarter Is $645,970

New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The International Nickel company of Canada, Ltd., today reported net earnings for the third quarter of the year of $645,970, compared with $1,706,248 in the preceding quarter, and $2,015,961 in the third period of 1930. The net for the quarter was equivalent to one cent a share on the common stock, after preferred dividends. Common dividends have recently been at the rate of 20 cents quarterly.

Lehigh Valley Orders 20 High Speed Locomotives

New York, Nov. 11. — (AP) — The Lehigh Valley railroad has placed an order for twenty high speed freight locomotives, divided equally between the American Locomotive company and the Baldwin Locomotive works. The order is the largest for railway locomotives placed this year. The new engines will be delivered to the railroad early next year.

Urge U. S. Treasury Deficit Be Balanced by Taxation

BY SCRUTATOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Nov. 11.—Calling attention to the dangers attending a continuation of borrowing to meet treasury deficits, the Investment Bankers' association today approved a plan to balance government expenses by "an early readjustment of the tax program." Moderate tax increases were proposed.

The recommendation, which was presented by William E. Eddy of Chase Harris Forbes corporation, New York, chairman of the committee on federal taxation, was endorsed by the convention.

"The recent increase in the national debt," the report stated, "has in no sense jeopardized the position of the government, which is still ahead of its original program of amortization through sinking funds by several billions of dollars.

"The prospect of treasury surpluses in the near future, however, are rather remote. On the contrary, the continued economic depression has reduced government revenues to an extent that indicates a probable deficit for the current fiscal year of around two billion dollars.

Expects Gradual Upturn.

"The return to more normal business conditions will presumably be gradual. It is therefore safe to assume that it will be some time before an improvement in conditions will be reflected in the revenues of the government on the existing basis of taxation. There would probably be a material annual deficit for several years.

"The situation, therefore, which confronts the treasury department is much too serious to justify a continuation of borrowing to pay current expenses and it seems to be generally appreciated that conditions necessitate an early readjustment of the tax program, regardless of political considerations."

The association expressed the opinion that the burden of tax increases should be spread out as much as possible in order to retard as little as possible the economic recovery of the nation. It urged that this tax program be enacted at the next session of congress so that a prompt start may be made to collecting any excise tax that may be levied, thus avoiding retroactive taxation of incomes as well as continued borrowings to cover budget requirements.

Attention was called to the emergency nature of any present increase in taxes. The association proposed that a time limit be fixed at the time of enactment, so that with business recovery relief should be given from all emergency levies not desirable as permanent features.

The association urged that the tax on capital gains and losses should be eliminated on the ground that it constitutes a departure from taxation of income and is a direct levy on capital.

In addition, it was pointed out that this tax tends to prevent sales of property in a high market and increases sales for tax losses when markets are depressed, thereby accentuating the tendency of extreme markets.

Tax on Real Estate.

The Investment Bankers, however, proposed that this tax be retained until the end of the current fiscal year, so that taxpayers might not be deprived of the benefits from tax losses taken this year "in an effort to obtain partial compensation for the heavy taxes paid on capital gains for so many years." A proposal that the association use every effort to effect a repeal of the federal estate tax during the next session of congress was also approved.

The tendency in some states to place a disproportionate share of the tax burden of state and local government on real estate was held to be unfortunate.

"One of the great conservative safeguards of our country," Mr. Eddy said, "is to have homes owned rather than rented apartments. The burden of realty taxes is seriously imperiling that bulwark in many communities."

Elect New President.

Col. Allan M. Pope of the First National Old Colony corporation, New York, was elected president of the association. William T. Bacon of Bacon, Whipple & Co., Chicago, was reflected treasurer. Of the five vice presidents chosen only one, James H. Daggett, of the Marshall & Ilsley bank, Milwaukee, is from the central states.

The following committee chairmen from Chicago were reflected: Finance, Robert A. Gardner; real estate securities, Louis K. Boysen, and business problems, Samuel W. White. Francis M. Knight of the Continental Illinois company and William T. Bacon were chosen to head the legislative and membership committees. Alden H. Little of Chicago was reflected executive vice president.

ASK R-K-O HOLDERS TO SURRENDER STOCK AND BUY DEBENTURES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 11.—A plan of reorganization for Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, involving subscription to a new issue of $11,600,000 debentures by shareholders under penalty of sacrificing three-quarters of their stock interest, was submitted to stockholders today in a letter from the corporation.

The plan is being underwritten by the Radio Corporation of America, which owns all of the class B stock. This stock, which is not entitled to dividends, will be exchanged for new shares, which will all be of one class.

Shareholders will meet Dec. 10 to vote on the plan, to become effective Jan. 1. It is proposed to issue one share of new stock for each four shares of the present stock. The three shares displaced will be delivered with each $20 worth of the new debentures subscribed.

Stockholders will have the right to subscribe at the rate of $5 worth of the 5 per cent ten-year debentures [with three-quarters of a share of stock] for each share of present class A common held. Fifty per cent of the purchase price of the debentures will be paid on subscription and the balance on thirty days' notice.

Certificates of deposit will represent the debentures and the additional stock, so that the two may not be separated for a period of three years.

Radio corporation will receive 125,000 shares of new stock in exchange for its 500,000 shares of class B; will participate in the subscription through its holdings of class A stock, and will purchase any remaining debentures unsubscribed, with the accompanying stock.

Proceeds of the plan will be used for working capital and payment of bank loans.

Tire Official Expects Good Business in 1932

Akron, O., Nov. 11.—"I believe that 1932 will be a wonderful year for business, but let us not be fooled. Good times may not be started yet in spite of the fact that wheat is going up, William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company, said in addressing a conference of sales representatives. "I am inclined to believe that good times will not be definitely established in the tire business until next July, although they may come as early as May.

Mr. O'Neill said that tire merchants had suffered less than many other kinds of retailers during the depression, which he characterized as the most severe panic in the past 40 years.

ASSERTS POSITION OF WORLD BANK AT BASLE IS 'MELANCHOLY ONE'

[Copyright: 1931; By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Under the title of "A Bank in Difficulties," Jacques Bainville, one of the best known French political writers, comments in La Liberte on the situation of the Bank for International Settlements as revealed at the meeting of its board in Basle, Switzerland, yesterday.

"The Bank for International Settlements at this meeting," he says, "examined its position. This position is a melancholy one. The resources of the institution have melted like snow in the sunshine or like butter on a stove. The total of its assets has become a modest sum and in one month its deposits diminished by one-fourth.

"These times are hard for international institutions. They are being subjected to cruel trials. The hopes founded upon the Bank for International Settlements were as great as those founded on the league of nations. The shares in this bank were so eagerly sought that it was necessary to take 250 and supply 12,000,000 francs to obtain them, so it became a luxury stock open only to billionaires. Today the stock in the Bank for International Settlements has fallen into a state as lamentable as that of the Young plan bonds.

"What has happened to the Basle bank? All sorts of misfortunes. In the space of three months, from June 20 to Sept. 21, it experienced extraordinary reverses. The first Hoover moratorium deprived it of German reparations payments which were to have passed through its hands.

"Then the collapse of the pound sterling dealt it another serious blow by reducing the value of its holdings in British and Scandinavian foreign exchange by 25 to 30 per cent of their value. Now the central banks are systematically withdrawing their deposits. The entire system based on the Young plan has been disorganized, and without the support it is obtaining from the Bank of France the institution at Basle would have to close."

NEW YORK BOND TREND IS MIXED; TRADE SHRINKS

New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The bond market staged a narrow irregular decline today as activity shrank. Foreign loans scored many of the larger losses. The downward movement in domestic corporate bonds was principally a matter of minor fractions The trend was more apparent in the rail and public utility loans than in the industrials.

Argentine, German, Belgian, Brazilian and Chilean loans showed varying degrees of weakness. The trading in almost all of these bonds was extremely dull. The German 5½s of 1965, the 7s of 1949 and German Central Agricultural bank 6s of July and October, 1960, provided a large turnover. Japanese 5½s and 6½s sold off but recovered somewhat before the close. Other obligations of that nation were barely steady.

Another evidence of the lackadaisical nature of the market appeared in the Liberty and treasury issues. Aggregate sales of this group approximated $500,000, an unusually small total. They wavered but gradually worked higher to close with general, if narrow, gains.

Trading in corporate obligations was limited to a few small sales in most instances and no sales of any sort were reported in a large number of issues. Armour 4½s and 5½s, New York Central new 4½s, Nickel Plate 6s of 1932, American and Foreign Power 5s, Chesapeake corporation 5s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Goodrich 6s and International Match 5s made some of the larger losses.

WILBUR URGES FEDERAL BOARD TO CONTROL OIL

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, declared here today he favored regulation of all oil production in the United States and suggested creation of a federal board to supervise such a program.

He said whether such a plan would be adopted by the next congress depended entirely upon the oil men of America. He predicted federal proration would be authorized by congress "if oil men quit acting foolishly and get together."

The secretary said American oil men had been dealing with their problems much in the manner of "cutting a sick man's toe nails to cure his illness."

The secretary praised Gov. R. S. Sterling's martial law program of proration in the East Texas oil field.

"I practiced medicine for years, and I never criticized a fellow doctor if he got results," he said.

Winchester Arms Holders Vote Dec. 2 on Dissolution

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Directors of the Winchester Repeating Arms company have called a special meeting of the stockholders for Dec. 2 to act on a proposal to terminate the corporation's existence. A foreclosure decree to sell the company Dec. 15 to the Western Cartridge company was issued yesterday by Judge Carroll C. Hincks in United States District court.

Foreign Earmarked Gold Shows Drop of $2,699,500

New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve bank of New York today showed a decrease of $2,699,500 in gold earmarked for foreign account. Exports totaled $5,000, consigned to Germany. There were no imports.

NEW FORDS WILL NOT BE READY FOR SOME TIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 11.—Ford Motor company has told its dealers that new Ford cars would not be available before the end of the year. This gives Ford dealers time to clean up inventories on present models. Stocks in dealers' hands and in transit are said to total less than 50,000 cars and trucks. The company has about 10,000 more units of the present model to make up.

Ford will recall approximately 4,000 of its former employés this week. During the last ten days the company has been taking on approximately 1,000 former employés daily.

By the first of December it is expected manufacturing operations will have attained somewhat more normal proportion. Production of parts for the new car has started on a limited scale, but will be stepped up at a progressive rate from now on.

Speculative Silver Boom Slows Up; Price Declines

New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The speculative boom in silver slowed up today. Some bulls on the metal felt the loss would soon be recovered, but traders generally turned somewhat hesitant, pending a clearer outlook.

Silver bullion for immediate delivery tumbled 1⅝c to a price of 35⅝c, losing a substantial portion of the 6c advance of the last week.

Trading in silver futures slackened in the National Metal exchange, and prices were off ⅛@⅜c at the close, or somewhat above the day's lowest levels.

Several silver brokers felt that the fever of speculation called for somewhat more cautious treatment. While a margin requirement of only $500 has been required for a 25,000 ounce transaction, several brokers raised their minimum requirement, some to $700, and others as high as $1,000.

Frown on Action.

The recent flurry of speculation has been frowned upon by some conservative quarters in Wall street, and in this connection Solomon R. Guggenheim has issued a statement that speculation might go too far for the good of the metal.

The break in silver bullion for immediate delivery in New York followed a corresponding decline in London, which was attributed to Chinese selling. Some brokers pointed out that there has been considerable misunderstanding as to what effect a war in the far east might have on silver. They said that if China should desire to purchase war materials abroad it would have to sell large quantities of silver to raise funds to buy foreign exchange. Japan is on a gold standard.

Nevertheless, financial quarters interested in silver were hopeful the metal might be gradually restored to its more normal levels, possibly around 50 cents an ounce or above.

Hold Discussions.

Preliminary discussions looking to an international sales agreement to prevent dumping of the metal upon weak markets have been held, it was reported in usually well informed circles, in line with recommendations of a committee of the international chamber of commerce.

Some bullion dealers and bankers, however, stressed the difficulties in the way of an agreement, and were not hopeful of constructive developments along such lines in the near future.

It was pointed out that if such an agreement were to be effective it would have to include the government of India, as well as silver producers, since the government now operates a refinery in Bombay and has taken the position it should be classed as a producer. The Indian government, however, is a large holder of silver metal stocks, collected since the rupee was given a gold basis, and has insisted it should be able to dispose of these stocks as easily as producers dispose of newly mined metal.

Paris Silver Meeting.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Experts reporting on the silver problem for the International Chamber of Commerce today recommended study of the possibility of a sales agreement between producers and refiners in North America and India. They suggested also study of the possibility of the use of silver by governments to cover the emission of a limited quantity of bank notes, without asking establishing of a definite price ratio between gold and silver. They recommended also investigation of new industrial uses for silver.

Honduras Quits Silver.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Immediate monetary conversion from the silver to the gold standard with a new gold backed "lempira" as the unit was decided at a conference of bankers, merchants, and industrialists held under government auspices yesterday. The new coin—to the number of 1,100,000—already has been minted in the United States and will be brought here immediately to redeem the present silver currency.

GENERAL CIGAR ADDS 50 PER CENT TO FACTORY ROLL

Increase of the personnel of their factory by 50 per cent was announced yesterday by the General Cigar company. Production, to take care of dealers' orders, has increased 100 per cent over the first week in October, with an expectancy of 200 per cent later in November, company officials say. The activity of General Cigar company means a turnover of more than half a million cigars, affecting more than 5,000 dealers in and around Chicago. The new Van Dyke is reported as a sale leader.

Studebaker Corp. Places $200,000 Tool Order

The Studebaker corporation has placed a machine tool order amounting to $200,000, with other orders to follow, which will bring the total to $500,000 for equipment for machining engine blocks for a new car.

ESTIMATES OCTOBER NET OF MILWAUKEE ROAD AT $1,000,000

Preliminary estimates indicate that gross revenues of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad for October will be about $9,500,000, as compared with $13,031,831 for October, 1930, and that the net railway operating income will be about $1,000,000, as compared with $2,165,506.

According to a preliminary estimate made by Patrick H. Joyce, president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, net income for October will show an improvement over September, but will be under a year ago. Car loadings are relatively more favorable, he said, the decrease for the week ended Nov. 7 being only 12 per cent, the same as for the preceding week.

October gross revenues of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad are estimated to have shown a decline of approximately $2,000,000 from the $10,504,372 reported for the same month last year, Dow, Jones & Co. report.

Net income of the Alton railroad for October after taxes and charges was $11,389, a large improvement over the $287,526 deficit in October last year, according to H. B. Voorhees, vice president in charge of all departments. A cut of $545,229 in operating expenses and lower bond interest charges offset a $578,280 decline in gross operating revenue.

Effective Nov. 16 the salaries of all officers of the Alton earning $300 a month or more will be reduced 10 per cent, Mr. Voorhees said. At the same time a similar reduction in salaries will take place on the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal railroad of which Mr. Voorhees is president.

U. S. IS EMERGING FROM ITS SLUMP, BARUCH ASSERTS

New York, Nov. 11.—The spirit of defeatism and pessimism has been broken and the United States is at last emerging from its economic depression into a new era of growth and prosperity, Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, told members of the war organization at a reunion luncheon at the Hotel Savoy Plaza today.

Mr. Baruch coupled his optimistic assertion with a detailed economic program for America and with a summons to the governments of Europe, particularly of France, to put Europe's house in order and strengthen the foundations of peace as a condition of any additional financial aid from the United States, especially in the matter of further readjustment of governmental debts.

Peace in Europe "lies in the hollow of the hand of France," Mr. Baruch said, and he placed the responsibility squarely on her shoulders. "It is for France to say if peace and happiness shall reign over Europe," Mr. Baruch declared. "It would be unwise for us to submit to any change in the debts and reparations until that is done."

Eastman Kodak Declares Usual Extra Dividend

New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The Eastman Kodak company today declared the usual extra dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly payments of $1.25 on the common and $1.50 on the preferred. All three are payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 5.

Sterling Securities corporation has deferred action on the 75 cent dividend on the $3 first preferred stock due at this time. Previously the company had made regular quarterly payments on this stock, the last payment of 75 cents being made Sept. 1. The company took no action on the dividend on the preference stock at the Aug. 4 meeting.

FORMATION OF FREIGHT COMBINE IS ANNOUNCED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 11.—Formation of a new freight forwarding corporation to combine three of the four largest companies in this business was announced today.

Under the name of the National Carloading corporation, the new company consolidates the forwarding businesses identified with the Pennsylvania railroad and the Van Sweringen lines. In tonnage handled it will be outranked only by the Universal Carloading and Distributing corporation, identified with the New York Central. Control of forwarding companies may not be held directly by the railroads, but these corporations are controlled by affiliated or obviously sympathetic interests.

The companies entering the consolidation include the National Freight company and its subsidiaries, the Judson Freight Forwarding company and G. W. Sheldon & Co., controlled by the Pennroad corporation; the Standard Carloading corporation and its subsidiary, the Texas Package Car company controlled by the Van Sweringen interests, and the Commerce Freight company, operating over the Wabash lines, which are controlled by the Pennsylvania. R. F. Locke, president of the Commerce Freight company, will be president of the new organization.

STANDARD OIL OF INDIANA TO AID BIG CORN CREDIT

Directors of Standard Oil of Indiana yesterday approved participation by their company in the financing of the National Corn Credit corporation, which will undertake to expand by about $10,000,000 the credit available to corn farmers. Several other large corporations will join with Chicago banks in providing half the proposed capital of one million dollars while the other half will come from the federal farm board.

The purpose is to make it possible for farmers in the corn-raising states to obtain loans on corn remaining in their own cribs.

Standard Oil participation is based on the belief that the credit corporation will be a marked aid to the farmer in getting the best price possible for his corn and that anything which aids the farmer will aid business in general.

New Transcontinental Line Put in Operation

Bieber, Cal., Nov. 11.—The driving of a golden spike here completed the ceremony which marked the establishment of a new railroad outlet from northern California through a connection of the Western Pacific and Great Northern railroads. Attended by railroad presidents and prominent officials from many states, the celebration inaugurated actual service on the new line when a solid train of 100 cars loaded with Shevlin pine lumber from the forests of northern California and southern Oregon rolled over the new rails on its way east.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Nov. 11.—With the grain markets taking an Armistice day recess and the new offering little of account, the share market could sense nothing to get steamed up over one way or the other today. The result was a desultory backing and filling process, with a tendency to lower levels.

Activity in the rail group, particularly in New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and one or two others promised for a while to give the list a rallying point, but interest gradually died out and thereafter the carriers followed the trend. Volume was in the neighborhood of 1,500,000 shares.

Boardroom gossip concerned itself very largely with speculation on whether or not the "technical correction" recorded in yesterday's shakeout had gone far enough to pave the way for a resumption of the lusty advance which it interrupted so rudely. Opinion is pretty much befuddled on the issue, like it is on most other problems confroveting the list in these unusual days. On the face of the returns, however, most traders seemed to think that the safest course was to withhold buying orders until the fog has lifted a bit.

Heavy Selling in Radio.

From a purely speculative standpoint, the market had several features of worthwhile interest. Heavy selling came into Radio Corporation, forcing that sometime trading favorite to within striking distance of its year's low.

Offerings in the stock were blamed on talk that the corporation as the holder of the entire issue of class B stock of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum, totaling 500,000 shares, will be called upon to participate heavily in the proposed new financing of that company. Radio is reported to have agreed to underwrite the forthcoming Keith-Orpheum debenture issue.

Announcement of the sudden resignation of Patrick E. Crowley as president of the New York Central brought considerable selling into the common stock of the road, causing it to drop about 3 points from its high of the day, but it rallied somewhat in the later dealings. The speculative community's interest in the development was concerned largely with its effect—if any—on the impending eastern merger dealings. Mr. Crowley has been active in the negotiations from the outset. There was also a report about that New York Central may consider the omission of its dividend at the next meeting of its directors.

Mining Stocks Hurt.

Mining stocks turned their back on the firing, being hurt by the stop in silver's advance and by the diminishing prospects for an agreement on copper production. Anaconda lost 1⅛ points of its late recovery and American Smelting fared a little worse even than that.

Whatever effect the steel survey reports showing an increase in production to a level of 21 per cent of capacity had was lost owing to the condition of the market. Incidentally, this is the third time in succession that an increase has been shown by the figures on this important industry. United States Steel finished the day at 71 off 1⅝ points.

The hiatus in grain trading cost the farm implement shares more than the proverbial penny. Case hovered around yesterday's close and International Harvester couldn't quite succeed in doing that well.

Activity in Alcohol.

An interesting sidelight was the activity in alcohol stocks. This group moved contrary to the trend for gains of from a fraction to 2⅝ points. An active pool is said to be operating in U. S. Industrial Alcohol. Besides this issue, American Commercial Alcohol and National Distillers enjoyed a substantial turnover.

Motor stocks were dullish. Studebaker eased off with the rest in spite of a widely-circulated tip in its behalf which went the rounds of brokerage houses.

CONSUMPTION OF GAS UP SLIGHTLY DURING SUMMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Fewer automobiles were in operation during the summer of 1931 than during the summer of 1930, but an increased amount of travel and an increased use of taxicabs caused gasoline consumption to show a slight increase, according to the federal oil conservation board's report published today.

The board estimated that motor vehicles in the United States would consume 289,000,000 barrels of gasoline during the nine months period, which began last Oct. 1, or 1.9 per cent more than was used in the similar nine month period last year. With 22,704,490 motor vehicles estimated in use during the current month, or 499,600 less than during the corresponding month in 1930, the board figures that this number would decline through February to a point close to 23 million and then begin increasing, finally reaching a total of 24,174,300 next July.

One authority was quoted to the effect that 140,000 taxicabs cruised city streets during the summer of 1931, compared with 115,000 in the summer of 1930. A taxicab uses from 10 to 15 times more gasoline than a passenger car in private use, the the report estimates.
